HISTORY OF CLARK COUNTY, OHIO.

BY PROFESSOR WILLIAM H. McFARREN.

INTRODUCTORY.

The prairie and forest country of today are a wide expanse of beauty and fertility that stretch westward for miles. The rolling prairies, the vast stretches of forest, and the valleys with their meandering streams are a picture of natural beauty. The prairie grasses, the wildflowers, and the varied wildlife all contribute to the richness of the landscape.

The prairie was once inhabited by Native American tribes, who relied on the land for their survival. The tribes were skilled hunters and gatherers, and their knowledge of the land was vital to their way of life. The prairie was also a place of great spirituality, with many sacred sites and rituals.

The prairie was eventually settled by European immigrants, who brought with them new ways of living and new technologies. The prairie landscape was transformed, and the once wild and untamed land was tamed for agriculture and development.

The prairie continues to be a place of beauty and diversity, with a rich history and cultural significance. It is a place of wonder and inspiration, and its beauty will continue to be enjoyed by future generations.

HISTORY OF THE VILLAGES AND TOWNSHIPS OF CLARK COUNTY.

BETHEL TOWNSHIP.

The first settlement in Bethel Township was made by Daniel Foulke, succeeded by Drayton Foulke and Jonathan Delucia. They first came to a portion of present Union Township, near the present Kimball. 200 acres were patented to Daniel Foulke in 1843, and another 200 acres in 1847. The settlement was made south of the present village of Bethel, and north of the present town of Kimball. The first settlement was made in 1840, and the township was organized in 1847.

The first school was built in 1841, and the first church was built in 1842. The first newspaper, the Bethel Independent, was published in 1843. The first store was built in 1847. The first post office was established in 1849.

Springfield Township.

On the west side of the village of Springfield was the plantation of William Sterling, the first settler, who purchased the land from Thomas Johnson. His house was of the usual type of log cabin, with a covered porch. The land was fertile and well-watered. The monument which marks the spot where Mr. Sterling died is a plain stone slab, on which are inscribed the words, "In memory of William Sterling, first settler, who died July 24, 1817, aged 70 years." The monument was erected by heirs and friends in 1877. The log cabin is still standing.
