Mistorical Sketch of Marion County, Ohio.

The territory now comprised within the limits of Ohio was formerly a part of that vast region claimed by France between the Alleghany and Rocky Mountains, first known by the general name of Louisiana. In 1613, Marquette, a zealous French missionary, accompanied by Monsieur Joliet, from Quebec, with five boatmen, set out on a mission from Mackinac to the unexplored regions lying south of that station. They passed down the lake to Green Bay, thence from Fox River crossed over to the Wisconsin, which they followed down to its junction with the Mississippi. They descended this mighty stream a thousand miles to its confluence with the Arkansas. On their return to Canada they did not fail to urge in strong terms the immediate occupation of the vast and fertile regions watered by the Mississippi and its branches. About 1725, the French erected forts on the Mississippi, on the Illinois, on the Maumee, and on the lakes; still, however, the communication with Canada was through Lake Michigan. Before 1750, a French post had been fortified at the mouth of the Wabash, and a communication was established through that river and the Maumee with Canada. About the same time, and for the purpose of checking the progress of the French, the Ohio Company was formed, and made some attempts to establish trading-houses among the Indians. The French, however, established a chain of fortifications back of the English settlements, and thus, in a measure, had the entire control of the great Mississippi Valley.

The English government became alarmed at the encroachments of the French, and attempted to settle boundaries by negotiations. These availed nothing, and both parties were determined to settle their differenceshy the force of arms. The principal grounds whereon the English claimed dominion, beyond the Alleghanies, was that the Six Nations owned the Ohio Valley, and had placed it, with their other lands, under the protection of England. Some of the western lands were also claimed by the British as having heen actually purchased at Lan Commissioners, who opposed the proposition, and insisted upon the Mississippi as the boundary, the probability is that the proposition of Mr. Oswald would have been acceded to by the United States Commissioners.

The States who owned western unappropriated lands, with a single exception, redeemed their respective pledges by ceding them to the United States. The State of Virginia, in March, 1784, ceded the right of soil and jurisdiction to the district of country embraced in her charter, situated to the northwest of the Ohio River. In September, 1786, the State of Connecticut also coded her claim of soil and jurisdiction to the district of country within the limits of her charter, situated west of a line beginning at the completion of the forty-first degree point of north latitude, one hundred and twenty miles west of the western boundary of Pennsylvania, and from thence by a line drawn north parallel to and one hundred and twenty miles west of said line of Pennsylvania, and to continue north until it came to forty-two degrees and two minutes north latitude. The State of Connecticut, on the 30th of May, 1801, also ceded her jurisdictional claims to all that territory called the "Western Reserve of Connecticut." The States of New York and Massachusetts also coded all their claims.

The above were not the only claims which had to be made prior to the commencement of settlements within the limits of Ohio. Numerous tribes of Indian savages, by virtue of prior possession, asserted their respective claims, which also had to be extinguished. A treaty for this purpose was accordingly made at Fort Stanwix, October 27th, 1784, with the sachems and warriors of the Mohawks, Onondagas, Senecas, Cayugas, Oneidas, and Tuscaroras, by the third article of which treaty the said Six Nations ceded to the United States all claims to the country west of a line extending along the west boundary of Pennsylvania, from the mouth of the Oyounayea to the Ohio River.

Washington Country was formed July 27th, 1788, by proclamation of Governo to the Ohio River.

Washington County was formed July 27th, 1788, by proclamation of Governor St. Clair, being the first county formed within the limits of Ohio. Its original boundaries were as follows: beginning on the bank of the Ohio River, where the western houndary line of Pennsylvania crosses it, and running with that line to Lake Erie; thence along the southern shore of said lake to the mouth of Cuyahoga River; thence up the said river to the portage between it and the Tuscarawas branch of the Muskingum; thence down that branch to the forks at the crossing place above Fort Laurens; thence with a line to be drawn westerly to the portage on that branch of the Big Miami, on which the fort stood that was taken by the French in 1752, until it meets the road from the lower Shawnese Town to Sandusky; thence south to the Scioto River, and thence with that river to the mouth, and thence up the Ohio River to the place of beginning.

river to the mouth, and thence up the Ohio River to the place of beginning.

Hamilton was the second county established in the Northwest Territory; it was formed January 2d, 1790, by proclamation of Governor St. Clair, and named from General Alexander Hamilton. Its original boundaries were thus defined: beginning on the Ohio River at the confluence of the Little Miami, and down the said Ohio to the mouth of the Big Miami, and up said Miami to the standing stone forks or branch of said river, and thence with a line to be drawn due east to the Little Miami, and down said Little Miami River to the place of up said Miami to the standing stone forks or branch of said river, and thence with a line to be drawn due east to the Little Miami, and down said Little Miami River to the place of beginning.

Wayne County was established by proclamation of General St. Clair, August 15th, 1796, and was the third county formed in the Northwest Territory. Its original limits were very extensive, and were thus defined in the act creating it: beginning at the mouth of Cuyahoga River upon Lake Erie, and with the said river to the portage between it and the Tuscarawas branch of the Muskingum; thence down the said branch to the forks at the crossing place above Fort Laurens; thence by a west line to the east boundary of Hamilton County, which is a due north line from the lower Shawnee Town upon the Scioto River; thence by a line west-northerly to the southwestern part of the portage between the Miamis of Ohio and the St. Mary's Rivers; thence by a line also west-northerly to the southwestern part of the portage between the Wabash-and Miamis of Lake Erie, where Fort Wayne now stands; thence by a line west-northerly to the south part of Lake Michigan; thence along the western shores of the same to the northwest part thereof, including lands upon the streams emptying into said lake; thence by a due north line to the territorial boundary in Lake Superior, and with the said boundary through Lakes Huron, St. Clair, and Erie to the mouth of Cuyahoga River, the place of beginning. Those limits embrace what are now parts of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and all of Michigan, and the towns of Ohio City, Chicago, St. Mary's, Mackinaw, etc. Since then States and counties have been organized out of this territory. It will be observed in the Virginia Military Districts in Ohio, which comprise the lands between the Scioto and Little Miami Rivers, that when the State of Virginia, in 1783, ceded to the United States all her right of soil and jurisdiction to all the tract of country she then claimed northwest of the Ohio River, it was provided tha lished by the county commissioners for civil purposes; any individual holding a. Virginia Military Land warrant might locate it wherever he desired within the district, and in such slape as he pleased, wherever the land had not been previously slape as he pleased, wherever the land had not been previously located.

In consequence of a want of regularity in the original surveys, the carclessness with which many locations were made, and the consequent interference and encroachments of some locations upon others, far more uncertainty and litigation has arisen relative to lines and titles in this district than in all the regularly surveyed districts. The lands in this district are not designated by sections or ranges, but are shown by original surveys and the numbers thereon, as will be observed by turning to the township maps which accompany this work.

The first settlement within the Virginia military tract, and the only one between the Scioto and Little Miami, until after the treaty of Greenville, in 1795, was made at Manchester by the then colonel, late General Nathaniel Massie.

Massie, in the winter of the year 1790, determined to make a settlement in it, that he might be in the midst of his surveying operations and secure his party from danger and exposure. In order to effect this he gave general notice in Kentucky of his intention, and offered each of the first twenty-five families, as a donation, one in-lot, one out-lot, and one hundred acres of land, provided they would settle in a town which he intended to lay off at his settlement. His profered terms were soon closed in with, and upwards of thirty families joined him. After various consultations with his friends, the Ohio River bottom land, opposite the lower end of the Three Islands, was selected as the most eligible spot. Thus was the first settlement in the Virginia Military District and the fourth settlement in the bounds of the State of Ohio effected.

MARION COUNTY.

MARION COUNTY.

Evidence of the occupation of this region before the appearance of the red man and the white race is to be found in almost every part of the county. In removing the gravel bluffs, which are quite numerous and deep, for the repair of ronds, and in excavating cellars, hundreds of human skeletons, some of giant form, with fine apecimens of ancient pottery, and other curious relices have been found. These sand and gravel bluffs appear in almost every part of the county, resembling small islands, and covered by timber, mostly young oak. Many stone axes, feshers, spear-heads and arrow-points of flint, stone beads, and pick-shaped implements, including perforated tubes and flat, nearly polished plates of a greenish-gray species of sixte, have been plonghed up by the farmers, along the Olentangy and the Scioto. The earthworks, such as internenhments and monuds, owing to the level nature of the surface, no doubt, and the fact that the gravel knolls were utilized by the early compants as burial sites and places of observation, are not numerous. It seems quite clear that the first race must have been somewhat advanced in the art of self-defence and agriculture, and resided in villages, as is attested by the relies left is site. A citizen of Marion estimates that thousands of human bodies were interred in the gravel knolls throughout the county, and gives the opinion that if every white inhabitant of the county were deceased and deposited in a similar manner, human skeletons would not be more numerous than when the primitive races bid adieu to the plains of Marion, Crawford, and Wyandot!

It is a matter of speculation whether the ancient Fries first acceeded the so-called Mound Builders. If Indian tradition can be relied on, the Eries were a very numerous and powerful people, and according to the Jesuit Fathers, resided in intercheed or stockaded villages called "castless." They were vidently far in advance of the modern red man in the art of salvage part of norther Panylvania and Ohio, and gave name to the bered.

A remnant of the Delawares, or Lenni Lenapes, had a reservation on the north side of Marion of three miles square. The Lenapes, or Delawares, emigrated from the region of Philadelphia, Pa., to the Wyoming Valley, and thence to the Tuscarawas, Ohio, some time before the commencement of the Revolutionary War. In 1781 the Moravian converts, including Heckawelda and other missionary teachers, were forcibly compelled, by the elder Captain Pipe and Halfking, to abandon their homes on the Tuscarawas and remove to the Sandusky region, soon after which a large number returned to gather and remove their corn-crops, when they were surprised by Williamson and his rangers, captured, and murdered in cold blood! The next year Williamson and Crawford organized a new expedition to follow the Indians to Sandusky. The expedition proved disastrous. Crawford was defeated and captured by the Delawares, and mercilessly burned, after the custom of the Delawares, and the larger part of his army perished on the Sandusky plains. After this tragedy, a part of the Delawares located on the Blackfork of Mohican, in what is now Ashland County, and established the village of Greentown, and a portion joined the Mohican village, on what is now the Jerome fork of Mohican. In 1812, after the declaration of war between Great Britain and the United States, as a matter of precaution, these Indians, who had professed to be friendly, were removed to the vicinity of Urbana, where they could be prevented from taking part in the war. Notwithstanding military vigilance, a part of them escaped and returned and assassinated the family of Frederick Zimmer, Martin Ruffner, and subsequently attacked the cabin of James Copus, killing him and surprising and killing some four scouts near his spring. After the close of the war these Delawares were permitted by the military authorities to settle among the friendly Wyandots, upon the Sandusky, until 1817, when a treaty was concluded at the foot of the Maumee Rapids, September 29th, at which General Lewis Cass and Governor Duncan M'Arthur were Commissioners on the part of the United States, and granted to the Delaware Indians a reservation of three miles square in what is now Grand Prairie and Salt Rock in Marion, and Antrim and Pitt townships in Crawford and Wyandot counties. The reservation was equally divided among the following persons: Captain Pipe, Teshanau Dowdee, Thomas Lyons, Jonaceke, Captain Wolf, Isaac and John Hill, Tisha-ta-hoomes or widow Armstrong, Sanondoyeasquaw or Silas Armstrong, Teorow or Black Raccoon, Hawdoronwatis-lie or Billy Montour, Buck Wheat, William Dowdee, Thomas Lyons became somewhat famous in Ashland County before and after the war. He is as well remembered as many of the half chiefs.

Thomas Lyons became somewhat famous in Ashland County before and after the war. He is as well remembered as many of the old pioneers, and many amusing anecdotes are yet related concerning his achievements. Captain George Beckley, of Caledonia, Marion County, states that his father's family arrived in November, 1821, and laving located in the vicinity of the ancient trail, leading from Sandusky to Owl Creek, was Visited by hundreds of Wyandors and Delawares annually during the hunting season. His father having resided in Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, and being able to converse fluently in the German language, was soon visited by Tom Lyons the old Delaware, and a warm friendship sprang up between them. Tom spoke German, and was pleased to meet another Dutchman. The interview is thus related by Captain Beckley:—

"Early on the morning after our arrival at our now horse."

Lyons the old Delaware, and a warm friendsmy sprang up between them. Tom spoke German, and was pleased to meet another Dutchman. The interview is thus related by Captain Beckley:—

"Early on the morning after our arrival at our new home I took my rifle and started to view the surroundings along the Indian trail. I had gone but a short way (where Uriah Hipsher's field now is) until I found plenty of shellbark hickory trees, and the ground under them well bestrewed with nuts. I sat my gun against a tree and commenced gathering the nuts. Just imagine my surprise when the first object I beheld on looking up was an Indian standing between myself and my gun; and I had heard and read so many terrible narratives of savage atrocities that it made my blood curdle. But to my great joy he extended to me his hand, which I grasped with the usual salutations. He spoke good English, wore a pair of blue broadcloth leggins with red listing about an inch wide on the outside of each, and tied with garters; a neat blanket wrapped around him, secured with a belt, and his head dress was a small red shawl folded and tied around his head with the corners hanging down his back, leaving the crown of his head uncovered, and a neat pair of buckskin moccasins on his feet. I afterward learned that his name was Ditta Wawney. I shouldered my gun and returned with him to the cabin, he continuing on his way towards Owl Creek.

"But a day or two after that we espied another, an old Indian, riding around a large oak tree near the cabin, who was very attentively looking at the top of this tree, saying there had been honey bees in that tree. He came to the house, dismounted, took his saddle, blankets, and other lading off, and hoppled his pony by tying his fore legs together so near that he could not step more than a few inches at a step. We invited him into the new cabin, but I suppose he would have walked right in if he had not been invited. He was a great talker; could speak English or German. He said he was a hundred and sixty-five years old. Be his father, the chief, sent him with some other Indians to General Wayne's headquarters: 'General Wayne asked what my name is; me say me got no white man name; then General Wayne says I give you a name; I call you Thomas Lyons; and that is the way I got my name. General Wayne says I give you an ame; I call you Thomas Lyons; and that is the way I got my name. General Wayne, very good man! 'He afterwards often visited the old Dutchman, as he called him.

"A fewanecdotes about our venerable bero, Tom Lyons, might be interesting to some of your young readers. He was a notable personage all over this part of the State at that time, both among the pale-faces and Indians. He had his friends and his enemies, and the way he made many enemies was in relating incidents of the wars through which he had passed. He once told Joseph Riley of his valor in some of the massacres on the Delaware River. Then said Mr. Riley to him, 'Did you know Tom Quick, on the Delaware River?' Evidently the old Indian was offended when he was asked that question, as he sat mute and motionless as a statue, and there the conversation ended.

"This Tom Quick had several relatives killed by the Indians, for which his vengeance never slumbered, and when he had grown up to manbood he took the warpath after them, and woe be to the Indian when Tom Sairly on his track. He was about an equal to the Wetsels and Poes on the Ohio River.

"At other times when he related his war stories, as old heroes are apt to do, he would bring down upon himself their es and indignation of those who heard him. They would in return mete out to him rough words. Then he would tell them how the women and children would cry (mimicking them) when they were in the act of slaughtering them. These were current reports about him and were generally helieved to be true, but he never talked in that way at our hones; perhaps because we haver gave him any offence. He, with his son George Lyons and Jerry Killback, were encamped one winter for a few weeks east of Whetstone, on the land now under the influence of bad whiskey at the time, and refused at first to go; but being strongly urged, finally visited the cabin of Mr. Drake. Upon his arrival he looked at the child, which was in great pain, exclaiming, 'great pain, very sick.' He then stated he could not do anything for haif an hour, and laid down by the cradle and snored soundly for some time, then arose and called for milk, which was furnished, when he pounded some roots, which he had brought with him, and poured the milk over them and gave the child a portion to drink, and applied a lot more, in the nature of a poultice, to the place bitten, and 'rocked the child some time in its cradle, when it fell into a slumber and soon began to sweat freely; and apon seeing this effect of his remedy the Captain said, 'It get well;' and the child was out of danger in a short space of time!' Capt. Beckley continues: "We were visited by quite a number of Delawares and Wyandots, from Pipetown and Upper Sandusky. They usually passed by this place going from their towns on their Reservations to Killbuck Creek in Wayne Co. and other parts of their old hunting grounds. A few of their names were: Jonacake, Standstone, Dowdee, Moonice, White Eyes, etc. When they came to a white man's cabin they expected to receive the hospitality of its inmates; if they did not they were much offended. They would say, 'Very bad man, very bad man.' They would never accept a bed to sleep upon; all we had to do was to have a good back stick on and a few extra pieces of wood, especially in cold weather, for them to put on the fire when needed. They usually carry their blankets, and would spread them on the floor before the fire, and give us no further trouble; and they would often leave us a saddle of venison or some other commodity that they had to spare. We have seen as many as twenty or thirty in a caravan pass by here, with their hunting material and cquipage packed on their ponies, all in single file, on their old Sandusky and Pipetown trail.

"At one time a party of them were carried her to the place of burial.

Creck where one of their squaws died; her friends wishing to take her home for burial, took the corpse, laid it on a gentle pony, with her head hanging down on one side and her feet on the other, tied her securely to the pack saddle, and in that way carried her to the place of burial.

He had been imbibing a little, and on any home met one of those Indians who could not tuter one way home met one of those Indians who could not the pantominic language instead—that of gestion motions. But it so happened that whilst they of gestion motions. But it so happened that whilst they of gestion of Tommy and his olfactories not being at fault, inhaled the odor of Tommy's breath. He straightened up, looked Tommy square in the face, and lo! Mr. Indian's colloquial powers were now complete, saying in as good English as Lord Mansfeld ever could have uttered: 'Where you get whiskey?'"

In point of notoriety Billy Dowdee was nearly equal to Tom Lyons. Oaptain Beckley relates the following occurrence as given by Benjamin Sharrock, now well advanced in years, and formenly a citizen of Marion County:—

"About the year 1821 or 1822 there were several Indians who frequently examped and hunted on the waters of the West and Indian and Captain Dowdee's son-in-law, Nickels (the band Indian), and Captain Dowdee's son-in-law, Nickels (the band Indian), and Captain Dowdee's son-in-law, Nickels (the band Indian), and Captain Dowdee's son-in-law, in band Indians, and Captain Dowdee's non-in-law, in the had become embittered gainst Benjamin Sharrock, in the had become embittered gainst Benjamin Sharrock, in the had been become in the new of the pa would not be would never molest me, but would be my fast friend as long as he lived. I gladly agreed to his proposal, and to his credit, be it said, I never saw him after that time but that he met me with the kindest greetings.

"'About the same time some of the Indians told Stateler, "Nickels had Indian, by and by he go to Stony Creek, before he go he say he kill Stateler and two Shurvocks, and we 'fraid that big fight. We want white man to kill Nickels, then Indian say Nickels gone to Stony Creek."

"'We never saw Nickels after about that time, but did not know at what moment he would come down upon us. I often asked the Indians whether they knew where Nickels was, and they usually replied that he had gone to Stony Creek. We had often seen a gun in the settlement, first owned by one then by another, that I believed was Nickels' gun. Jake Stateler often stayed with us for several weeks at a time, and many times when we spoke about those Indians, Jake would say: "Nickels will never do you any harm," but made no further disclosures until a long while after when the subject again came up he said:—

""Ben, Nickels will never hurt you nor your brother."

""How do you know, Uncle Jake?"

""I know very well how I know, Uncle Ben. Did you never know what became of Nickels?"

""I thought my boys had told you long ago, as they always thought so much of you. I will then tell you how I know what became of Nickels. After he was about rearly to start for Stony Creek he had only one more job to do before he could leave Pipetown, and that was to kill Stateler, and you and your brother if possible. No sooner had Nickels left Pipetown than the Indians sent another Indian by a different route to give us notice of his coming, and of his intentions, desiring us to kill him and they would say he had gone to Stony Creek. The messenger arrived in time, and departed. I loaded my rife, put it in good order and went up to Coss cabin to watch the Pipetown trail, on which I expected him to come. I did not wait long before I saw him coming, and stepping behind a tree, closely watched his movements. After he had come within easy range of my rifie, hie stopped and continenced looking all around, which enabled me to take a steady aim at him; I fired, he sprang several feet from the ground with a terrific scream and fell dead, and that was the last of 'Bad Indian.' We took his gun, shot-pouch, tommy-hawk, butcher knife, etc., and laid them by a log, and buried him under the roots of a large tree that had been blown down near the foot of the bluff bank of the Whetstone, nearly opposite the old Coss cabin. Now, Uncle Ben, that is the reason why I know Nickels will never do you or me or your brother any harm."" why I know Nickels will never do you or me or your brother

Solomon Jonacake, the husband of Sally Williams, was well known to the pioneers of Marion. He lived at Pipetown and had formerly resided at Greentown, Ashland County. He was a well developed, good-natured, friendly lunter, and often visited the settlers in Marlon, Richland, and Ashland counties, while encamped in those regions. It was customary for Sally and the children to accompany him on his hunting excursions. He usually constructed a neat bark wigwam to protect his squaw and children from the storms and exposures of the forest, while he ranged the woods in search of game. He sometimes exchanged venison for side pork with the pioneers, and frequently met parties who had a curiosity to see Sally, who was a quarter-blood, and his children. Sally was regarded as a very apt housekeeper, and preferred, as far as possible, to mintate the whites. Her mother was a Castleman, captured in girlhood, upon the banks of the Ohio, in the eastern part of the State, some time after the close of the Revolution. Jonacake went west with his people, where his family grew up, and three of his grandsons volunteered and served in the company of Captain Duff in an Indian company, culisted near Wyandotte, Kansas, during the war of the rebellion.

By a treaty concluded at Little Sandusky, August 3d, 1829, John M'Elvain being United States Commissioner, the Delawares celed their reservation in Marion, Crawford, and Wyandot counties to the United States for $3000, and were conducted, as is believed, by Joseph Chaffee, to a new reservation in what is now the State of Kansas. Their journey was across Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri to their new home, where most of the old people have since gone to the happy land of the Great Spirit.

Marion County was included in the northwest part of the State of Ohio, purchased by the government of the Wyandot tribe about 1817, and brought to market in 1821, and organized as a county by the legislature March 1st, 1824, and named after General Francis Marion of South Carolina, a distinguished partisan officer of the Revolution. Its settlement for the first six or eight-years was not rapid, because of the prevalence of malarial sickness at that time, not only in this, but generally in all the counties throughout the same section of the State. Immigration gradually increased, the settlers coming not from any particular section of country or State but from all parts of the New England and Middle States,—Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, etc., and a considerable number from Germany, England, Ireland, and Scotland. The south half of the county is occupied in farms of moderate size, having originally been covered by timber. The north half being principally prairie, was purchased in good part in large tracts, and kept for graing purposes, but is of late years being divided into smaller tracts for cultivation. The malarial sickness prevailing at its first settlement, such as agues and bilious fevers, has measurably disappeared since the county has become more densely settled and improved by ditching. The territory of which the county was formerly constructed was known as being "Treaty Land," from the fact that it lay north of the old boundary established by the treaty made at Greenville in 1795, between General Anthony Wayne and the Indian tribes; but by subsequent treaties purchased, while they were assigned smaller reservations, which they afterwards sold to the United States and removed west to the Missouri. The plains and forests of Marion were a favorite resort for the Wyandots and Delawarcs as a hunting site. Game of all kinds, especially deer, was exceedingly plentiful in the lower prairies that skirted the timber lands, at the organization of the county. The county being naturally divided into two distinct portions—wood tracts and plains—the southern and western portion was an almost unbroken wilderness, abounding in grand and stately forest trees of the most valuable varieties. Walnut was so common that rails were made of it exclusively in many sections. Immense groves of sugar-maple were here and there found, furnishing ample stores of sugar and syrup for the early pioneers. Wild fruits abounded in plentiful profusion, and in the summer season the hum of myriads of bees could be heard gathering their stores of wild honey. Honey was so plentiful that it could be secured almost by wagon loads, so numerous and large were the swarms of wild bees. The flowers of the prairie blooming in rank luxuriance, furnished a wide range for the little hec. At the same time, the grasses grow from four to six feet in height, often higher than a horse. If it had not been for the autumnal fevers such a land would have been regarded as the most desirable spot in Ohio. As it was it attracted b the century.

There are so many disputes relative to who was the first white child born within the county limits we imagine it were best to leave this vexatious question in its present unsettled condition. The first pioneer in Marion County was undoubtedly Ebenezer Roseberry, from New Orleans, who settled in Grand Prairie Township in 1812.

TOPOGRAPHY AND GEOLOGY.

Marion County embraces about 425 square miles of land, and lies on the broad water-shed between the Ohio River and Lake Erie, about fifty miles south of the west end of that lake. It is immediately south of Wyandot and Crawford counties. It has Morrow on the east, Delaware and Union on the south,

It has Morrow on the east, Delaware and Union on the sourn, and Hardin on the west.

It contains no large rivers. The Scioto, which enters it from the west, is the largest, and leaves it just below Middletown, now called Prospect, in a southerly course. The Little Scioto traverses the county about midway, joining the Scioto at Berwick (Green Camp). The Whetstone or Clentangee also crosses it in the eastern tier of townships in a southerly direction. The waters of the Tymochtee and Little Sandusky take their rise in the northwestern portion of the county, and find their way to Lake Erie.

crosses it in the eastern tier of townships in a southerly direction. The waters of the Tymochtee and Little Sandusky take their rise in the northwestern portion of the county, and find their way to Lake Erie.

Much of the county is flat and has a black prairie soil, especially in the townships of Bowling Green, Big Island, Salt Rock, Grand Prairie, Scott, Claridon, and the western part of Marion. The streams that cross these prairie-like tracts are but four to six feet below the level of the land, and in time of freshet inundate considerable area. There are, however, sudden changes in the character of the surface, even in the midst of the prairies. Mounds of the unmodified hard pan still project above the general surface. These have a rolling contour, and an ashen clayey soil. They are generally covered with forest, while the prairies are treeless. The remaining portions of the county, namely the townships of Grand, the northern portion of Montgomery, Greencamp, Pleasant, Richland, Tuily, and the eastern portion of Marion are on the old drift surface, and have, with an undulating or rolling outline, a soil of brown or ashen clay, containing petibles and bowlders. The geological range of Marion County is from the Niagara to the Waverly, being greater than that of any other county in the State. It contains a depth of about 780 feet of the above groups.

The Niagara limestone, the lowest in the scale, is found in the northwestern part of the county, and is followed toward the east by the higher members in the order given, the general dip of the whole being in that direction. The water-lime, 100 feet thick, occupies the most of the townships of Salt Rock, Big Island, Greencamp, Montgomery, and Prospect, and all of Bowling Green. The lower coniferous, 50 feet thick, underlies the remainder of Grand Prairie, Marion, Pleasant, and Prospect townships, and the eastern portions of Soott, Claridon, Richland, and Waldo. The Hamilton limestone, 20 feet thick, occupies a narrow bet just on the east of the Sciote River. The found only in the eastern part of Tully Township. Of these, the Oriskany sandstone, 20 feet thick, and the lower configrous limestone, have not been seen in onterop in the county, owing to the unbroken mask of the drift deposits, and the other formations offer very mengre opportunities for learning their characters. It is only by tracing their lines of outcrop from other counties where they afford better facilities for observation, that their presence and their contents in Marion County can be ascertained by the geologist.

The water-lime is only seen in the bed of the Scioto at Middletown, near the southern border of the county. The surfaces of the bed are diversified with und cracks, and separated by bituminous films. It is a handsome and useful building material, comparing favorably with the upper corniferous linestone

rial, comparing favorably with the upper corniferous limestone for all uses.

At Marion the upper coniferous limestone is extensively wrought, there being a fine quarry near John Ballentine's, and one four and a half miles south of Marion, in Pleasant Township, where large quantities of lime are burned and shipped.

The Hamilton group is found in the hed of the Olentangee one mile below Waldo, and is a very hard blue, pyritiferous limestone, and furnishes a very valuable building stone for cellars, etc.

one mile below Waldo, and is a very hard blue, pyritiferous limestone, and furnishes a very valuable building stone for cellars, etc.

The Huron shale or black-slate is also found in the bed of the Olentangee or Whetstone. It is thin and brittle, and contains large quantities of concretionary black limestone.

The Waverly sandstone is quarried in limited quantities. It underlies the black slate, and is found in large quantities in the east part of Tully Township.

The drift is very extensive in Marion County. At Middletown the contents of a gravel bank were noticed to contain a great many large fragments from the water-lime, so arranged as to indicate not only the agency of water in rapid currents, but the direction of its flow. Some of these pieces of limestone were as much as two feet across, but usually not over two inches in thickness, and but slightly worn. They lay in the midst of gravel which had a stratification dipping rapidly toward the south. It would seem as if the water, precipitated in cascades down the southern slope of the glacier, bringing such dislodged portions of the drift as fell into the current, sought to arrange the obstructions to its flow so as to offer the least resistance. These gravel beds are being utilized by the farmers in the construction and repair of highways. About Berwick are found an unusual number of bowlders, some as large as six feet in diameter. They seem to have been much worn and must have been embraced in the drift. At Waldo the drift is seen to consist, along the river bank, of twenty-five feet hard-pan. Brown color prevails downward about fifteen feet; blue below that depth, soon becoming sandy, furnishing water. In other places within a half mile the top of the drift is gravel and sand, with only a thin covering of hard-pan. Gravel is found in the southern part of the county, and is extensively employed upon the roads. Clay, for red pottery and bricks, is abundant throughout the county. Stone taken from the various quarries in the upper coniferous formation serves

REMINISCENCES OF EARLY SETTLEMENT.

REMINISCENCES OF EARLY SETTLEMENT.

Daniel S. Drake says his father, Captain William S. Drake, came to Marlborough, now Wahlo Township, Marion County, in the year 1807, and entered 160 acres of land at two dollars and fifty cents per acre, paying one-third down and the balance in one and two year payments. He and his son Uriah cleared a small patch the first year and put in a crop of corn, pampkins, and potatoes. He then returned to New York for his family, leaving Uriah to cultivate the crop. He returned in 1808 with a family consisting of his wife and seven children. They travelled the entire distance in an old rickety two-horse wagon drawn by two poor plugs of horses. The amount of cash left on their arrival was twenty-five cents!

The Indians were very numerous at that time, and inclined to be hostile to the white settlers. This hostility was fostered by British spies and traders until war was finally declared in 1812. Apprehending hostilities, Governor Meigs appointed William S. Drake Indian Agent of the following tribes: Delawares, Wyandots, Potawatomies, and Senecas, then residing in the northwest part of Ohio. He made his headquarters at what was then known as "Negrotown," now in Wyandot Co. As soon as war was declared the Indians became very uneasy. They were uncertain about what to do. The Canadians were using all their arts to induce them to join the British, while Governor Meigs desired to have them remain neutral or join the forces of the United States. The Governor ordered Captain Drake to remove the Indians to a place called Zanesfield, in what is now Logan County. This occurred in 1811. The Indians mer him in counsel concerning the matter, and sat in deep consultation about forty hours without leaving their sents! They finally agreed to go, and in two hours were on their way. They numbered about six hundred. They remained at Zanesfield a few months, but becoming dissatisfied, returned to Upper Sandusky. A chief by the name of Zarbe or Crane seemed to have great influence among the Wyandots. He was regarded as being friendly to the United States. After their return the Governor appointed two Commissioners, Solomon Smith and Moses Byxby, of Delaware, to meet the head chiefs at Upper Sandusky to obtain a grant for a new road from Lower Sandusky to obtain a grant for a new road from Lower Sandusky to the old Greenville boundary line, the south line of Marion County and Waldo Township. The chiefs granted the request, and thee road was to be sixty feet wide. The Governor then appointed three Commissioners—Bell, Bare, and Yan Cleaf—to run and open the road. The chain carriers and blazers were Capt. William S. Drake, Major John Bush, and Jacob Foose. This road passed through what is now Marion City, about where Hon. John Bartram now resides, in a north-westerly direction. Upon the return of the Commissioners an incident somewhat memorable occurred. The Commissioners encamped in what is now the south part of the city of Marion and dined on salt bacon and other food, but had no water to quench thirst or moisten the food. About sleven o'clock at hight Jacob Foose declared he was thirsty and could stand it no fonger. He thereupon arose, took an axe and made a wooden shovel, and approaching a moist place commenced to dig well, declaring that he would "dig down to a very hot country or find water." He dug down about four feet and plenty of water ouzed into the well. This well was found by the thirsty army of General Harrison, and was used for many years by emigrants as a watering place, and in inonor of Mr. Foose called eyer afterwards "Jacob's Well."

In 1811, Uriah Drake raised a crop of corn at Lower Sandusky, the present site of Fremont, for Major Butler of Delaware, and on his return, when two miles north of what is now Titlin, was shot by hostile Indians. The home of Captain W. S. Drake was on the Greenville boundary, and just south of the Indi ware, and on his return, when two miles north of what is now Tiffin, was shot by hostile Indians. The home of Captain W. S. Drake was on the Greenville boundary, and just south of the Indian line.

In the spring of 1812, William S. Drake was drafted into the United States service. Being a captain at the time, he retained his office until the expiration of his commission. He was ordered to march to Fort Finley, which was constructed under his direction. On his way, the memorable surprise, called "Drake's Defat," took place. The story is thus related. The company passed out of Delaware County, over the Greenville treaty line, and atopped the first night at a point about four miles south of what is now Marion. After posting sentinels, and agreeing upon a plan of battle in case of attack at night, the men lay down to rest. The captain, who was considerable of a wag, wished to test the courage of his men; so, after the men had been sleeping some time, slipped out of camp by the sentinels into the woods, and, firing off his gun, hastened into camp screaming, "Indians! Indians!" Great alarm and confusion immediately followed! The most discreet and courageous tried to form for a fight, as agreed, while the timid ran away, depending more upon the power of their legs than upon their wespons of defence. The officers tried to rally the men, but the confusion was so great that every attempt only aggravated the slarm. Finally the captain seeing the constenation, And impending disgrace of his company, proclaimed the hoax and ordered a hait, but the officers by this time seemed to be as badly frightened as the men, and converted every sound into Indian pelis and the sanguinary warkness, and the reduction of the sanguinary warkness, and the reduction of the sanguinary warkness, and the constenancy of the fellows. One family, names they came riding through Pelaware on horseback, many in wagons, and some on foot, presenting all those groups and the latter seldon receive the sympathy of their fellows. One family, named Penry, draw night by Indians, he should return to the settlements to put the people on their guard. Captain Drake often admitted the folly of having given the false alarm; but was equally explicit in stating, that it was merely given to test his men, without a suspicion that it might produce a panic. The next morning, after having rallied his scattered men and reduced their ranks to order, the captain continued his march to the site selected for Fort Finley. While his company was quartered there, Fort Meigs was besieged by the British and Indians. He could hear the roar of the cannon, and judged a severe battle was taking place. He became very uneasy as to the result, and called for two volunteers to approach the fort and learn the cause of the cannonading. Orderly Sergeant McCalley and James Shaffer, the fifer, offered to go. They jumped into a canoe, or "dug-out," and descended the river. When they arrived in sight of the fort the British fired on them; but they rowed rapidly along, hoisting a flag of truce, and entered the fort. They carried a letter to General Harrison from Drake, and desired to return, but were detained because the woods were full of Indians and British. The next day a force was sent out to scour the woods in search of the enemy. McCalley accompanied the force, and was wounded in the ankle and fell, and while expecting to lose his scalp, a mounted Kentuckian rode up and offered his horse, and assisted him to mount. By this means he reached the fort, and lived to return home, and afterwards drew a pension of eighteen dollars a year, as long as he lived.

this means he reached the fort, and lived to return home, and afterwards drew a pension of eighteen dollars a year, as long as he lived.

In the absence of the captain, his family took shelter of nights in Fort Morrow, which was situated in what is now the south part of Waldo Township, or what is known as the old Wyatt farm. There were about two acres of land inclosed by a stockade of split logs, or puncheons, about fifteen or sixteen feet high, and made sharp on top so as to prevent the enemy from climbing over. There were two block houses inside, one in the sonthwest and one in the northeast corner. The second story of these block-houses projected over some four or five feet, all around the lower story. There were two cannon port-holes on a side in the lower and one in the upper story, and rifte port-holes every few feet in both-stories. The lower story was about twenty-five feet square. They have long since been torn down, and the site is now used for plow lands. There was also a brick house in this fort known as the old "Wyatt tavern." It was about twenty-two by thirty-six feet, two stories high. There was also a good well of water, affording plenty for the inmates.

While Captain Druke was in the service, eight or ten drunken Indians came to his house and demanded that one of his sons, a young boy, should drum for them, which he refused to do because it was Sunday, and it would rouse the neighbors. They seized him and set him in the centre of the room, and began a war-dance. They hopped and skipped, and yelled, flourishing their tomahawks and scalping knives around his head, and once or twice seized his hair as if they intended to scalp him! Mrs. Drake hurried the other children to the woods, there being snow on the ground, fearing they would all be killed, after which sle got a hand-spike, or wooden poker from the fire-place, and ordered the Indians to leave. They left the house, and she then blew the dinner-horn to alarm the neighborhood, which served to increase the fears of the children, who hastened t no one injured.

During the war of 1812 Gen. Harrison marched his army through what is now the city of Marion, and encamped at what was then called "Jacob's Well," which was located on the east side of what is now Main Street, between Canal Street and the foot of the hill. The direction his army went from here was a little northwest. Of course there were no cabins in this region at that time, and the thought of there ever being so flourishing a town in that locality never entered the mind of the hero of the war. ishing a town l hero of the war.

TOWNSHIP AND VILLAGE ORGANIZATION.

TOWNSHIP AND VILLAGE ORGANIZATION.

Marion County is composed of the following townships: Waldo, Richland, Claridon, Tully, Scott, Grand Prairie, Marion, Pleasant, Prospect, Green Camp, Salt Rock, Grand, Montgomery, and Bowling-green.

Among the first settlers in what is now Marion, were John and Ebenezer Ballantine. The "Land Sales" were held in August, 1820, and the Ballantines came in the fall of the same year. At that time Chandler lived in one of the cabins on the lot where Eber Baker alterwards kept tavern, and Edmund Hanford lived in the other. These cabins were built by Chandler. A man named Wright, and John Chandler each had cabins within the present corporation limits.

The site of Marion, except the swale along Canal Street, was covered with timber up to the time the county seat was fixed here. Deer were plenty, and so were wild hogs, so that no one need suffer for want of meat.

The Holmes family came here in 1821; also the Berrys the same year. The latter family owned one hundred and sixty acres immediately south of the town plat, embracing what used to be called "Berry's Hill," but more recently "Gospel Hill." The village of Marion was laid out by Eber Baker and Alexander Holmes. Baker arrived March 4, 1822, and the plat was acknowledged April 3d of the same year. Mr. Baker lived to see the viliage he laid out become a place of some 2500 inhalitants, with a large trade, and with two important railroads running through it.

In 1822 the question of locating the county of Marion began to be agitated. The legislature appointed Commissioners to select a suitable site for the county seat of the newly created county, whose boundaries had been named and defined as early as 1820. Of course there were many rival claims for the location. Eher Baker requested attention to be paid to his pretensions, and the desirability of his land. The Commissioners visited several localities, and finally concluded to report in favor of the locality of Marion. In law, the town had thus been created; in fact, there was a deserted log cabin and a patch of ground—perhaps five or six acres that had been occupied by a squatter; the rest was in a state of nature! At this time Samuel Holmes seems to have been a practical surveyor, and was employed by Mr. Baker to survey the village plat, when he gave the county the inclosure now occupied by a squatter; the rest was in a state of nature! At this time Samuel Holmes seems to have been a practical surveyor, and was employed by Mr. Baker to survey the village plat, when he gave the county the inclosure now occupied in the court-house, a lot for jail purposes, building thereon a substantial hewel log jail of two rooms; the lot where the Kerr House stands, and the one north of it; four lots for church, and four for school-house purposes, and also a tract of ground for cemetry purposes. When the question of the selection of the seat of justice had been finally determined, an old citizen (William Galdwell) who seems to have been present, thus describes the scene that followed:—

"When we first came to Marion there was but one family living where the town plat now is; that was Alexander Berry, the had a large family, principally boys, Abraham and Samuel being the two eldest. Mr. Berry lived near to Jacob's Well, a place which was J. Flellman, of Marion, who died before the legislature convened, and Eber Baker, of Marion, was elected to fill the vacancy."

At the first settlement of the town people experienced great difficulty in getting grinding done. There were water mills at Cardington and Delaware; but when water was low, the trouble began. To remedy this, as much as possible, Eber Baker huilt a horse-mill, and this mill was resorted to at times of low water by people from Hancock, Crawford, and other counties. Mr. Baker also built the first school-house. It was built of brick, and was used in early days by the different religious denominations for holding their services in. It was also used for a court-house till the time, or near the time, the present courthouse was built. The first church was erected by the Methodists, and the next by the Presbyterians. The former was built of stone, and the latter of brick.

The first tavern in Marion was on the lot occupied by — Chandler above referred to. There was a double log cabin on the lot when the town was laid out, which had been built by Chandler. In 1822, Eber Baker built a one-and-a-half story hewed log-house in front of the double cabin, and this was the first house erected after the town was laid out. It was about twenty feet square. Mr. Baker started a hotel in this building, but his accommodations proving too limited, in 1823 he erected a frame addition. This addition was twenty feet square, and his botel was now quite a large one for the times. The boards of this building were sawn out with a whip-eaw by Mr. Baker's sons, Lincoln and Charles, excepting the clapboards for the outside, which were split and shaved. The next hotel here was started by a Mr. Hoddy, in a hewed log-house, about one mile north of the court-house. About the same time Squire Davis kept hotel at the cornerof Main and South streets, Mr. Hoddy next built a large brick tavern on the west side of Main Street, south of where the C. O. C. and I. Railroad now crosses it. This building was used for a number of years by John Merrill for a tailor-shop, and by Curley Drake for a chair-shop, till the old house was ready to tumble down. It disappeared long ago. Mr. Tootle built a two-story frame hotel at the northeast corner of Main and South streets, This house was called for many years the "Catchall." It was torn down in 1852.

William and James Holmes erected a brick building on Main Street, next north of where Campbell's block now stands. The original building was only eighteen feet deep, and forms part of the present structure.

Elisha Crosby started the first dry-goods store on the original town plot. It was situated at the corner of Main and South streets, which locality at one time became the business centre of the town. William and James Holmes had a small stock of goods in a cabin. John and Ebenezer Ballantine had a small store about two miles north of town.

B. H. Williams, Esq., thus describes Marion in 1825: "My father removed his family from his farm, one mile east of Waldo, to the village of Marion, November 25th, 1825. At that date there were living on the original town plot seventeen families, to wit: Eber Baker, Goorge Baker, Benjamin Davis, David Tinton, Jr., Dr. George Holloway, Z. Higgins, John Baker, John Charra, James Withrow, Sanuel Fish, Mrs. Dr. Miller, Col. H. Gorton, A. C. Priest, Reuben Smith, Elder Bradford, James Junkins, and Dr. Simon A. Couch.

"There were three hotels in full blast, and Eber Baker also kept a kind of aristocratic house, where all the judges, law-yers, etc., stopped, but at that time had not hung out a shingle. You will see that hotel business must have been good, as about one-fourth of the population were land to mover there was

"Resolved. That there he creeted on lot No. 10, in the town of Marion, Marion County, Ohio, a log jail, after the following plan, to wit: The logs sixteen by fourteen feet. Two stories high, seven feet between floors, of square timber laid close together. The walls in the lower story sixteen inches thick, in the upper story twelve inches thick; two windows in the lower story opposite each other, one foot high, two feet wide, with strong iron grates set perpendicular in the centre of the logs not more than three inches from each other; two windows in the upper story eighteen inches square, with iron grates set in the same manner as in the lower story. The sills halved together and sunk six inches in the ground. The lower floor laid with hewel timber a foot thick, with shoulders in the sills of two inches. The middle floor laid with hewel timber a foot thick in a rabbet of five inches; the third floor laid as the first. The wall plates and end girders framed together on the upper floor. The roof put on with rafters and lap shingles, the gable ends studded and weather-boarded. One door in each story made double of oak plank one inch and a half thick, lined with sheet-iron in the middle, two feet in width, sufficiently ironed and spiked, with a good substantial lock on each, the lower door barred also with a strong bar of iron, and a padlock. The cracks pointed with lime and sand, the corners handsomely cut down, a pair of Millers' stairs on the outside to the upper door, the whole to be finished and completed in a handsome, workmanlike manner."

This building cost the county nothing. Eber Baker built it at his own expense, and presented it to the county.

The first physician was Dr. Couoh. He came to Marion, but as there was no place he could get for an office, Eber Baker set his sons Lincoln and Charles to work, a tree was cut down on the lot where Dennigs & Ditche's grocery recently was, the whip-saw was set to work, and in a very few days an office was finished and the doctor was ready for practice.

The first duplicate of the county will illustrate the wonderful changes that have taken place in fitty years.

Even as late as 1827, the total tax levies were but $2703.80. James Taylor was the heaviest tax-payer, paying upon more than ten thousand acres of land. His tax was $155.84, a truly enormous amount in those days. The town lots, now occupied by the Masonic Block, Kerr House, and prominent business houses of Marion, were valued at from five to fitteen dollars, exclusive of buildings.

The valuation of real and personal property in the corporation at present is about $2,200,000, which is very low, there being nearly three times that amount here. Financially the place is in good condition, no heavy or important failures having taken place here for years past. Marion has four banks, all good, reliable institutions, named as follows: the Farmers' Bank, the Marion Doposit Bank, the Marion County Bank, and Fahey's Bank.

The first banking done in Marion County was in 1840, by J. S. Reed & Co. As an adjunct of their mercantile husiness, this firm opened a banking department, receiving deposits, buying notes, loaning money, and selling exchange. In a few years the business grew so as to require a home of its own, and a regular office was opened. The present Marion County Bank is a reorganization of the firm, and has a pail-up capital of $100,000, with a large surplus and outside means ready to supplement capital as demands for money may indicate. The Farmers' Bank was organized in 1869, and succeeded The First National Bank of Marion, which was organized in 1853, when the Bank of Marion wound up. Marion has a population of about 4,000, and embraces territory one and a half miles square. It is quite a railroad point, being crossed by three important lines, vir, the Atlantic and Great Western, the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, and the Columbus and Toedo railroads. There are eight large dry-goods stores, two large levelry stores, three factories, unmber yards, flour mill, grain elevator, etc.

Dumble purchased a half interest, and the firm name was changed to George Crawford & Co. The office and paper have been run under that name ever since. It will be observed that the office, with broken links it is true, dates back almost fifty years—back to the days of infancy of the town and county of Marion. From a sheet 20 x 25, the paper has grown to a sheet 30 x 44 inches in size. It is on a firm basis with good machinery, good patronage, and feels none the worse for its half century of life already passed.

This paper was first issued June 4th, 1842. William Robins was editor and J. R. Knapp publisher, under firm name of Robins & Knapp. From its establishment until 1850, the paper underwent many changes, which are not at hand, and struggled along, as papers in those early days were subjected to many hardships. Sometime prior to 1850, the exact date the writer of this is unable to ascertain, the editorial management and proprietorship of the Miaror came under control of J. R. Knapp, Jr. January 1st, 1851, B. F. Warner became publisher; and during the years 1851-2-3, T. O. Thompson, A. R. Scott, and Thompson & Nugenbeel, successively appeared as publishers. During these years, J. R. Knapp, Jr. was the recognized editor. July 29th, 1853, the office was purchased by Philip Dombaugh, who continued in the ownership of the same until 1857. During this time Knapp was editor for a while, and part of the time Dombaugh was editor and publisher, and for a short time the office was rented to S. C. Nicholas. The oldest business house that is still operating without change of firm, is that of Magruder's Novelty Saddle Works.

These works were established in 1854 by T. J. Magruder, who in 1853 started a small shop in Toledo, in company with Wm. Rutan, of Bellefontaine. But, not being able to secure a room in the business portion of the city, and Rutan's principal business being in Bellefontaine, they concluded to accept an offer made them to come to Marion, as a matter of convenience in passing back and forth. They adjusted their affairs in Toledo, and within a few weeks shipped their stock of many new and beautiful styles of saddles to Marion, where they opened up during the last days of December, and commenced business on Monday, January 2d, 1854, making sale of the first set of harness to Jacob Kise, Sr., payable, one-half in firewood, balance in cash. At the close of the year, Magruder bought Rutan's interest, and has since then run the works alone, adding many new and valuable improvements to the business, some of which are extensively used by the trade at large. Among these improvements are the "Magruder Pad Trimmings," first manufactured by P. Hnyden & Son, Columbus, O., then by Samuel E. Tompkins & Co., Sing Sing, N. Y., and now by the Sargeant Manufacturing Company, Newark, N. J. The "Magruder Miltary" and Kilgore (Mullet Head) and Somerset Saddle Trees have proven a success, and are still gaining favor, and for which Mr. Magruder received a diploma from the Ohio State Board of Agriculture, in 1866.

Mr. Magruder's taste has not been confined to the Saddlery business wholly. He has fitted up a comfortable home for his family, a view of which is found in another part of this work. On his grounds once stood one of the first cabins built in the county. The spot is marked by a circular flower bed, as shown in the picture.

The Huber Manufacturing Company was "planted" in 1866, by Mr. E. Huber, who came to Marion in that year, and rented the use of machines from Knhole, Zook & Co., at twenty-five cents per hour, and in that way commenced the manufacture of the celebrated Huber Rakes, the manufacture of which has increased from year to year, from a few dozen in 1866, to seven thousand in 1877.

It was organized on its present basis, January 11th, 1875, by the consolidation of the firms of Huber, Gun & Co. and the Marion Machine Works. The latter company having been organized in 1868, by F. P. Leffner, of Marion, and William Holmes, of Galion. The company is now (1878) manufacturing a special line of Farm Engines, Revolving and Box Steel Road Scrapers, and Horse Rakes, hesides doing a general line of Engines, Machine and "Millwork, and the most extensive Planing Mill business ever carried on in this vicinity.

Thus by strict attention to business and carefully guarding the interest of all with whom they have come in contact, the managers have increased the business of the company from the labor of one man, on a single machine (the use of which was rented), the materials having been hauled in on a farmer's wagon, and the product being sold to a few neighbors, until now their shops cover two entire blocks. The machinery is run by a forty horse-power engine, and the employés number over eighty. They receive more than a hundred car-loads of material which is manufactured into their various lines of goods, and are shipped to all parts of the United States, and also to Europe.

The Scrapers, Rukes and Engines manufactured by this company, are in special demand in all parts of the United States, and also to Europe.

In 1822 the class was merged in the Delaware circuit, in charge of Rev. Bacon, who was succeeded in 1823 by Rev. Roe. In 1824, Rev. Erastus Felton was sent to the circuit, who, after visiting and preaching a few times at Marion, in 1825 organized the first class in the village. The members were John Ashbaugh and wife, Benj. Williams, wife and two daughters, Henry Peters, and a few others whose names are forgotten. Subsequently the names of T. J. Anderson and wife, Andrew Kinnear and family, and Horace Strong and family were added to the class. Henry Peters had charge of the first Sunday School, and also taught one of the classes, of which Mrs. Dr. Fisher is now the only surviving member. The Marion Circuit was formed in the fall of 1826, embracing Little Sandusky, Bucyrus, Caledonia, Rawl's Corners and Idlemans, with Rev. James Gilruth in charge, who was succeeded by Rev. Stoddard. In 1831, Rev. A. M. Loraine commenced and partly finished the first Methodist meeting-house in Marion. It was completed in 1833, and occupied till 1844, when they moved into the basement of the new Centenary M. E. Church, which was soon after completed under the auspices of Rev. Henry E. Pilcher, who was the first minister sent to Marion after it was made a station, and under whose ministry a grand revival was experienced, and many added to the grand revival was experienced, and many added to the surch.

In 1852 the B. and I. R. R. was located and built in front of the Centenary Church (now part of the planing mill of the Huber Manufacturing Co.), causing such inconvenience and disturbance that a new location was necessary, and in 1854, in charge of Rev. Jos. F. Kennedy, the present M. E. Church was erected on Centre St., and dedicated in Decr., by Bishop

After the dedication a series of meetings were continued by Rev. Kennedy, resulting in the greatest revival in the history of the church in Marion. During this and the following year, (1855) the Sunday School received a grand impetus for good. The Seripture Lossons began to be more thoroughly taught and studied—the singing was made livelier—an unusual interest became manifested, and the attendance increased, so that soon this became the banner school of the district.

When the first two companies were raised in Marion on the call for volunteers in April, 1861, a farewell service was held in this church, at which time stirring addresses were made by both male and female citizens, and each volunteer, wearing as yet only a rosette to designate him as such, was presented by the Sunday School Superintendent with a copy of the New Testament. In two instances, the entire classes, with the teachers, had volunteered, and the fact was there fully demonstrated that a Methodist Sunday School was a good place to secure recruits for the Union Army.

The Free Will Baptist Church of Marion, O., was organized in the year 1824, by Revs. David Dudley and Saml. Bratford. The stated meetings of the church were held in the school-house on West St., in Marion, and occasionally in the house of Mr. Salmon, who lived on "Rocky Fork" on the Bucyrus road.

A general revival of religion, enjoyed in all parts of the country in 1825, added quite a number to the church, and in 1828 the membership numbered twenty-eight.

In 1827, Rev. Geo. W. Baker was converted and united with the church, and soon began to preach, though attended with opposition and great pecuniary sacrifice. For many years he declined ordination. His labors were abundantly blessed of God, in the conversion of many persons, a large number of whom desired baptism at his hands, and after argent entreaty he finally consented, and was ordained in 1837. After preaching for a time in Marion, he moved to Licking Country, O., and preached there a few years. During his absence, the church being without regular preaching, and having no house of worship, came very near losing its visibility, many also having died or removed.

In 1841, Rev. Isaac Dotson visited the place and gathered up the fragments, numbering ten or twelve persons, and commenced a series of meetings in Jacob Ulsh's new harn, about a mile southeast of the village. An extensive revival followed, adding to the church till it numbered ninety. He became pastor of the church, and continued so for a few years.

In 1842 a church edifice was built. A majority of the members living outside, it was built on the Claridon road, about three-fourths of a mile southeast of the village.

This was a serious mistake. There were, at that time, several lots in town reserved for church buildings. Had the house been built on one of those lots, and the church had proper care, it would doubtless have grown with the town and been one of the largest churches in the place.

For a few years he town people attended the church in the country, but when pavements, and other houses of worship were built, but few, except members, continued to do so, and some of them joined churches in the village.

In the course of passing years the mistake of building so far away began to be realized, and an effort was made to move the church into town. It was at last accomplished, mostly through the personal labor of Rev. Geo. W. Baker, who had returned, and with his son, Rev. O. E. Baker, had had the church under his care for several years. Many members were so much opposed to its removal, that they dissolved their connection with the church, and owing to the in-bility of the remaining few to purchase a more favorable location, it was put on a narrow cross street.

Severe trials overtook the church, reducing its numbers till in 1857 there were only twenty members, and they were very much discouraged. During this year Rev. S. D. Bates became its pastor. The circumstances and surroundings gave but little hope of success. The first year's labor, however, resulted in restoring confidence. The second year, the citizens very generously assist seven at first.

Successive years of labor, under many difficulties, gradually

Successive years of labor, under many difficulties, gradually built up the church in numbers and efficiency.

In 1865, a site was secured on Centre Street, one block east of the Court House, upon which a house of worship was built, in the course of three years, costing $16,000, more than one-half of which was contributed by citizens outside of the membership and congregation. The inside material of the old church fitted up the basement of the new, while the old building was sold and fitted up for a residence.

The United Brethren Church was organized in 1937, by a small society in a private house, the home of Mr. Gruber, two miles east of Marion. This society gradually increased in membership till 1848, when quite a number of the members, who resided in and near Marion, organized a class within the incorporated limits of Marion, and worshipped in a private dwelling.

In 1850 this sect accepted of a previously specified proposition made by the proprietor of the village of Marion, viz., that any denomination first occupying lot No. 120, with a church building, should have and hold the same as the property of said denomination.

A frame structure 53 x 38, was commenced in the spring of that year, and in August it was completed and dedicated to the worship of God. Revs. P. Flack, J. Davis, S. Lindsay, C. Briggs, B. W. Day, and A. Berry were the preachers in charge of these societies up to 1859. Since 1860, Revs. W. Martin, Samuel Coulter, T. D. Ingle, F. Clymer, C. L. Barlow, I. Crouse, D. R. Miller, A. Orr, and J. M. Crim have had the pastoral charge.

From the organization to the present, the average number of members has been 82; the greatest number at any time was 150, and the lowest number 55.

In 1866-7, under the supervision of Rev. I. Grouse, the congregation built a very neat parsonage at a cost of $900, upon let No. 119, which was purchased for $300, which amount was left by will of Abram Young for that purpose.

In 1870, under the superintendency of Rev. D. R. Miller, Pastor, the church house was re-fitted and improvements made upon the parsonage at a cost of $920.

The present membership numbers 75. Both the church and parsonage are in good repair at present, and the congregation clear of indebtedness.

The German Methodlists held their first meetings in the Court House, Dr. J. Kindler being the first preacher, in 1845. At that time, J. H. Sauer and wite, who had belonged to the church in Cincinnati, moved to Marion, and took hold with the minister. Rev. John Bier succeeded Dr. Kindler and did good work. The first converts were Peter Schweinfurth and his brother John, the latter now being a prominent 'minister in the denomination. Rev. Biers' successor preached in the basement of the M. E. Church till 1868, when the society resolved to build a church of their own. They were but few in number and it looked like a large undertaking. However, they bought basement of the M. E. Church till 1868, when the society resolved to build a church of their own. They were but few in number and it looked like a large undertaking. However, they bought a desirable, well-located lot, and commenced to build under the supervision of Rev. Fleiner.

The edifice was completed in 1869, under Rev. Ch. Nachrich. It cost over $9000, and was paid for and dedicated free of all debt. The trustees were W. C. Denning, C. F. Meyer, Wm. Cull, A. Schweinfurth and C. W. Dennig.

The church building is one of the finest in town, and the membership numbers about 100. Last year they built a fine parsonage, adjoining the church. Their property is in a good location, being diagonally opposite the City Hall.

A large Sunday School is in operation, and the prospects of the church for constant increase and usefulness are very flattering.

In 1841, Rev. J. Van Linger came to Marion, and preached for the Lutheran and German Reformed Societies, holding service in the Court House, and other places, for two or three years. Stephen Neidlhart and Henry Koon were elders; Karl Mincenberg and Philip Dietrich, deacons; and John Uncapher, treasurer.

Mincetherg and Philip Dictrict, deacons; and John Uncapher, treasurer.

In 1843, the two societies united in building a church, the corner-stone being hild August 8th, of that year. Rev. Joachim Schladermund was at that time their preacher. The next preacher was Rev. J. E. Schneider, Lutheran, who was opposed to the two denominations worshipping in common, so they began to hold services afternately, each having their own preacher.

The German Reformed Society became a separate organization Feb. 18th, 1854. John George Ruhl was their preacher for about twelve years. Daniel Schroth, their present pastor, has been with them about nine years, and is a hard worker in the vineyard of the Master. He is much beloved by his people, and has charge of three churches, besides the one in Marion.

The two societies have always been united in their Sabbathschool work, and still carry on a union school in the little brick church on East Street.

Of the persons earliest in Marion township, who yet survive, there are but few. The following names comprise the list as now remembered: Rev. George W. Baker, Lincoln Baker, Charles Baker, Mrs. Sargent, Judge Bennett, John Ballantine, Ex-sheriff Mann, and Calvin Barnett.

Ex-siertif Mann, and Calvin Barnett.

Calvin Barnett was then in the prime of life, and could carry a bigger load, get away with more whiskey, and strike a larder blow with his fist in a fight than any man in the county. He still lives in the old homestead at the south end of town, is a pensioner, by reason of the loss of a son in the army. What he lacks in a support by the pension is made up by his friends, as he daily and hourly walks up and down the streets of Marion, passing his trembling hand to any who may have a spare nickel, and is willing to receive in return his "God bless you." Poor old man! "he has had his evil things in this world;" may he have a better home in the next! world;" may he have a better home in the next!

Ex-sheriff C. B. Mann came to Marion in 1825, from Delaware County, where he located with his parents in 1814, being formerly from Shenango County, New York, where he was born in 1804. When he came, the Indian trail ran from Upper Sandusky, hy Caledonia, thence by way of Mt. Gliead, Predericktown, and Mt. Vernon, down Old Creek to White Woman River. This was the old war trace and much travelled. The next trace ran from Upper Sandusky by John Balantine's old place to the head branches of the Scioto. A man by the name of Wright, a jeweller and blacksmith, lived on the trace in what is now Greenoamp township. The Delawares had traces running towards the Fire Lands on the Reserve, which they travelled a good deal. Mr. Mann's family consists of himself, wife and four boys, Gideon, William, George, Henry, and four daughters, Henrietta, Anne, Isabel, and Clara.

Daniel Norrie, born in Portsmouth, Ohio, March 22, 1808, Danier Norris, horn in Portsmouth, Chio, March 22, 1803, came with his father's family (James Norris), and settled seven miles north of Delaware in 1814. He subsequently removed to Waldo, and thence to Cardington, and to Marion in 1866. He and his father often visited and traded with the Delawares and Wyandots on their roserves. Their road was by the old Harrison trail, passing through what is now Marion. He formed an intimate acquaintance with the late William Walker, since chief or governor of the Wyandots, on their reserve in Kansas. He resided a few years after leaving Waldo at Cardington, where he acted as justice of the peace and mayor of the town. His family consists of himself, wife and one son, C. II. Norris, an attorney-at-law, and one daughter, Josephine, wife of Norris, an attorney-at-law, and one daughter, Josephine, wife of Dr. John Christian.

Judge S. S. Bennett was born in Massachusetts, January 9, 1791, came to Delaware County, Ohio, January, 1816, and located at the village of Berkshire. He resided there until he married, which was in 1828, and located in Marion, and still resides in his old homestead. Being a true New England man, he has been able to adjust himself to all exigencies; has been a merchant, stock dealer, farmer, and general business man. He was appointed Associate Judge for Marion in 1832, served a short time and resigned. He never sought office, preferring to remain in private life. But six or eight of those who preceded him as pioneers are now alive. Of these he remembers Judge Bartram, Dr. Holloway, Kennedy, the Bakers, George Clark, and old Mr. Barneta. His family consists of himself and lady, and daughter Eleanor, wife of Dr. Timothy B. Fisher, and Harriet, wife of Franklin L. Reed. All reside in Marion. Judge S. S. and lady, and daughter Eleanor, wife of Dr. Timothy B. Fisher, and Harriet, wife of Franklin L. Reed. All reside in Marion. John Ballanthe was born in Rensselaer County, New York, and came to Columbus, Ohio, in 1818, and Marion in the full of 1820, and settled two and a hulf miles northwest of what is now the city of Marion, on limestone ridge, where he continued to reside about thirty-eight years. He then purchased another farm two miles east of the former one, where he remained until 1864, when he located at his present residence in the northeast part of the city. He has been an active farmer almost continuously for a period of fifty-eight years. He has never sought office of any kind. He says the old trail, alluded to by Mr. Mann, ran, about one mile west of Marion in a southeast direction. He thinks he was among the earliest settlers in the township, Mr. Barnett having come in the spring of 1820, while he landed in October. He and his brother Ebenezer came down the Allegheny and Ohio rivers to Wheeling, Va., in a skiff from Olean, and thence in one of Richard M. Johnston's old coaches from Wheeling to Lancaster, Ohio, and footed it to Columbus. His father had been a revolutionary soldier, and owned three hundred acres of beach land in the county of Delaware, which he and his brother expected to improve; but when they reflected upon the labor, concluded to try the plains of Marion instead. His brother died in 1832. Mr. Ballantine has been three times married, and is now in comfortable circumstances.

Maj. Thomas Reynolds is a native of Virginia, and emiment with his fixther facility to the State of Ohio and longer of the labor, the state of the same labor.

Maj. Thomas Reynolds is a native of Virginia, and emigrated with his father's family to the State of Ohio, and located a short time in Delaware County in 1317. His father removed to Missouri in 1318, where he died. He then returned to Delaware County about 1820, and upon the erection of Union County, from territory of Delaware, was appointed Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas at Milford, and, upon the removal of the county seat to Marysville, resigned and returned to Delaware, where he was appointed Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, Supreme Clerk and County Recorder for seven years, and reappointed and served until 1832, when he had the misfortune to lose his wife and several members of his family by sickness, when he partially retired from business, since which time he has regarded Delaware and Marion counties as his home. It is proper to observe that Mr. Reynolds opened the court docket of Marion for Major Busby, the first clerk. His hirthday anniversary occurred March 7th, 1878, when he was eighty years of age. was eighty years of age.

Col. W. W. Concklin was born in New York December 14, 1799, and came to Marion County, Ohio, in August, 1822, and located, being one of the earliest citizens of the county. He resides in Marion, where he has been long engaged in merchandising, banking and agriculture, and owns a very large tract of fine land, which is in a high state of culture. He is well preserved for a man of his age, possessing an elastic step and a clear head. His ancestors were of English descent, and originally settled on the east end of Long Island in 1664. The Concklins of New York and elsewhere are believed to be descendants of the same Long Island families.

WILLIAM READE. Born in 1605. Son of William Reade and Lucy Henage. Sailed from Gravesend, Kent County, England, in the good ship "Assurance de Lo," Isaac Bromwell and George Persey, officers, in 1635. Settled in Weymouth, Mass., and was made a freeman September 2, 1635. Bought a house and land of Zachary Bicknall for £7 13s. 4s. in 1636. Was one of the first settlers in Weymouth, as it was made a plantation in May, 1635, with Rev. Mr. Hall as pastor, and twenty-one families of settlers. Was representative in 1636 and 1638.

Among the oldest men in the county we find Jonas Reen, now in his ninety-sixth year Born in Middleboro, Mass., and a lineal descendant from the orginal Puritans. William Reed, from Gravesend, England, had several sons, two of whom took a liking to Esther, daughter of Mary Cook, one of the "May Flower Pilgrims." As Esther could marry but one, she chose William in place of James, and Mr. Reed, the subject of this sketch, being descended from James, missed the May Flower genealogy. Mr. Reed married a direct descendant of Deacon Captain Smithe, who, according to Cotton Mather's Magnolia, "died of a pestilent witcheraft" at Hadley, Mass. Dr. Mather relates, with much detail, "the devilish bewitchment"—how the ministers gathered and preached, and exhorted and prayed over the sick man; how he groaned and suffered—probably at the protracted exercises; how the young men stoned the witch's house; how the sick deacon slept soundly while the windows and doors were smashing—a sure proof, says Dr. Mather, that the devil was disturbed in his spells; and how at last the good decon turned to the wall and died; and how strange mutterings and yells were heard from the witch's wicked house, at the moment the gody deacon died!

Mr. Reed's childhood was passed among the actors in revolutionary scenes, and he remembers when the dishanded soldiers of the Revolution still wore their quaint old uniforms. He resides now, and has for a number of years, with his son, James S. Reed, who has lived nearly forty years in Marion, engaged in mercantile and banking business.

He resides now, and has for a number of years, with his son, James S. Reed, who has lived nearly forty years in Marion, engaged in mercantile and banking business.

EBER BAKER was born in the State of Maine, and emigrated with his family to Newark, Ohio, in 1815, and from thence to what is the present site of Mariofi, in 1821, and found Alexander Berry and William Holmes on or near the present plat. Mr. Baker and an elder son, Geo. W., sawed the timber (whipsaw) for the first lumber for doors, flooring, and window casing, and rived the weather-boarding and dressed it with a drawing-knife, for the first cabin in what is now Marion. The following year he laid out his land in lots, and thus Marion began. He soon after erected a horse-mill, built the first jail and schoolhouse. His route from Newark was by Granville, Sunbury, Delaware, and Harrison's military road. He found between Delaware and what is now Marion the families of Judge William S. Drake, Wyatt, Brundige, Roop. Kepner, Berry, and a few others. He purchased a supply of flour at Newark before leaving, and afterwards attended mills on the Whetstone until he erected a horse-mill at Marion, in 1826, which was resorted to in dry times by people from quite a distance. The plains were very productive when brought under culture, and there was no scarcity of corn. Fruits were generally plenty in the older settlements of Delaware County, and the plains abounded in wild game and escaped hogs, so that all had plenty to eat. They were soon visited by the Delaware Indians, and the Baker boys amused themselves by wrestling with their red visitors. They well remember Jonacake, Dowdee, Tom Lyons, Capt. Pipe, Jr., and others. They state that Joseph Ciadfee, of Upper Sandusky, conducted the Delawares to their new home in the west. They relate that a leading Indian having died on the reserve about the year 1824, Dr. Holmes concluded to quietly resurrect the body for dissection and the skeleton. Having done so in the night season, he rode a valuable horse to bring in the b mouth, Mass.

Judge John Bartram, of Marion, was born June 12th, 1804, in Redding, Fairfield County, Connecticut, and came to Marion County, Ohio, Nov. 20th, 1827, and located in business. When he arrived, he is of opinion the following persons had preceded him to that locality a few years: John Ballantine, Geo. H. Busby and wife, Nathan Peters, Calvin Barnett, George W., Charles, and Lincoln Baker, and Mrs. Mehitable Sargeant, all of whom still survive. At that time the village contained but few inhabitants. The Judge maried Miss Jane Hopkins Sept. 25th, 1827, in Pickaway township, Pickaway County, just prior to having located permanently in Marion. At the time of his location, the Delawares from the reserve, which was in Grand Prairie township, Marion County, and Antrim township, Wyandot County, often visited the village to seil peltry, furs, and venison, and purchase such articles as were needed by them. He got acquainted with Capt. Pipe, Jr., who often visited the little stores of Marion to trade. Is not certain now whether he was married, but recollects he had a young squaw called his daughter (perhaps adopted). Silas Armstrong, Delaware, and he were half chiefs in lieu of the old chief of Greentown, Thomas Armstrong, who was then dead. Has often met Dowdee, Jonacake, and Billy Montour. These Indians, at that time, were generally harmless, and ranged over the south part of the county in pursuit of deer and other game. Thinks Tom Lyon was assassinated in his wigwam near Fort Seneca, in 1823 or 4. He was found dead in his hut, and the rumor was that old Paul Butler, of Delaware, and another hunter from the same locality, did the job. Lyon was a very old man, thought to be over one hundred years of age. The Delawares went west in 1823; thinks they were conducted across Indiana and Illinois to Kansas, possibly by Joseph Chaffee (who married Isaac Walker's widow) in behalf of the government. Judge Bartram began office as township clerk of Marion, in 1831. He was elected Justice of the Peace in 1832, and re-elected in 1835 and 1838. He was appointed postmaster by P. M. G. McClean, in 1833, and resigned in 1835, in consequence of ill health. He served as Assistant Auditor from 1835 to 1838. He was again appointed postmaster in 1838, and served until 1841. He then served as commissioner to fill a vacancy one year, and was made Fund Commissioner for Marion County, and states that the United States lost nothing by the transactions of this county, for every dollar was paid back when needed. In 1840, he was appointed Associate Judge, and served see seen years. About the same time he entered into the dry goods business, and continued in the same until about 1846, and then re-viewed his legal studies, and was admitted to the har and appointed prosecuting attorney, and served three years. From this period he has remained in the practice of law. In 1860, he was elected Representative, and served one term were needed by them. He got acquainted with Capt. Pipe, Jr., who often visited the little stores of Marion to trade. Is ROBT. KERR, Esq., familiarly known as "Bob Kerr," was born in Mifflin County, Pa., October 27th, 1807, and came to Knox County, Ohio, when but six years old. His father, James Kerr, was born in Franklin County, Pa. He married Rattou Ashvalda and mised a family and stated. Amos County, Ohio, when but six years old. His father, James Kerr, was born in Franklin County, Pa. He married Betsey Arbuckle, and raised a family consisting of five boys and two girls, the subject of this sketch being the third child. Robert had but little school education; in fact, less than six months altogether. His father was poor, and the boys were obliged to put in all their time at work. When eighteen years of age, Robert left home to learn the tanner's trade, at which he worked two years and five months. He then hired to Brow & McCracken, at three shillings per day, to drive hogs to Baltimore. We will now give his future in his own words. He says: "It took fifty days to go through, owing to the mud. I returned from that trip with one dollar and fifty cents in my pocket. This I paid over to my brother on a debt, and still owed him a dollar and a half. I then hired to Orange Hollister, at eleven dollars a month, for three months in the spring. In the harvest field I got fifty cents a day to reap, and one dollar a day for eradling. I then went to cutting cord wood at twenty cents a cord, and clearing land at from two dollars and a half to three dollars per acre, according to the hardness of the timber. This was in Knox County, Ohio.

"In this way I made enough money to pay thirty-two dollars on eighty acres of land, in Marion, now Crawford County, which I had bought at a dollar and a quarter an acre. This was in 1821. After praying for this land, I entered into a contract to cut and deliver in Upper Sandusky one hundred cords of wood, at three shillings a cord, and had a distance of two miles to had. While I was working at this job, an Indian came along one day and said, 'You clear this?' I said 'Yes!' He says, 'If Indian have to clear that land or die, Indian die first.'

"In 1829 or 1830, I cleared the timber from forty acres of land, upon which a part of Upper Sandusky now stands, for one hundred and thirty-nine dollars. After that I worked for the half-ludian chiefs, Garrett and Walker, clearing thirty acres of land for seventy dollars, and making rails for fifty cents a hundred. Have made rails for thirty-three and a third cents a hundred, and made money at that. About 1832, I bought eighty acres of land of John Addy, for two hundred dollars. On the 29th day of August, 1833, I married Miss Matilda Swiggart. Her setting out was a cow, a hog, a bee gum, and a bed. This was our start. I put up a log cabin on my first purchase, and we went to housekeeping. I then bought sixty acres of Murphy, adjoining the piece I lived on, and paid him one hundred and fifty-six dollars, cash down. A year or two after that, I bought eighty acres of Benj. Walker, for two hundred and two dollars and a half. My next purchase was one hundred and sixty acres, for one thousand dollars. After that I bought eighty acres for eight hundred dollars. After that I bought five hundred acres, for which I paid six thousand two hundred and fifty dollars. The next purchase I made was two hundred and fifty dollars. The next purchase I made was two hundred and fifty acres for twenty-eight hundred dollars. In 1829 or 1830, I cleared the timber from forty acres of eighty for nine hundred and eighty dollars, and three hundred and sixty for fifteen hundred dollars. Then I bought eighty acres more for eight hundred dollars. Next I bought four hundred and forty acres for thirteen thousand dollars, cash, and four hundred and forty more for twelve thousand four hundred dollars. After that I purchased three hundred and twenty acres for ten thousand dollars, cash, down. All this land I still own, besides a number of houses and lots in other places. I have two in Columbus, worth four thousand dollars, and the hotel in Marion, which bears my name, 'Kerr House.' This cost me fifty-five thousand dollars. I own property in Kansas City, worth six thousand dollars. I own property in Kansas City, worth six thousand dollars, and one hundred and twenty acres in Gage County, Nebraska, worth fifteen hundred dollars. Also, a house and lot in Nevada, Wyandot County, O., worth two thousand dollars.

"I have fifty thousand dollars paid up stock in the Farmers' Bank of Marion, fifty-one thousand in the Deposit Bank of Nevada, Wyandot County, and eleven thousand four hundred and fifty dollars in the Hocking Valley Railroad.

"What I have lost and given away in the last twenty or twenty-five years amounts to over seventy-five thousand dollars.

"I have been a dealer in stock for the last forty years. At "I have been a dealer in stock for the last forty years. At one time I had eight thousand five hundred sheep."

Mr. Kerr is well known through Ohio and adjoining States as an extensive live stock dealer, and is not confined to any one kind, but invests in whatever his judgment tells him will pay best. When he sees money in sheep, he buys sheep, and when cattle seems to be best, he invests in cuttle. He is an excellent judge, and his investments generally prove profitable. He is well known for his square dealing, and prides himself upon living up to his contracts.

His has been a busy life—at first full of hardships—and we can only hope his declining years may be full of rest, and that he may peacefully enjoy the fruits of half a century of toil.

BOWLING GREEN TOWNSHIP.

BOWLING GREEN TOWNSHIP.

What is now known as Bowling Green was part of Grand township, at the organization of Marion County. In 1832, when Montgomery township was organized, it included Bowling Green. The organization of this township as it now exists, took place March 5th, 1838.

The first white man who settled in Bowling Green, though not permanently, was Moses Dudley. He and Major Wm. La Rue, raised the first crop of corn ever raised by white men in this township. This corn-field was on the farm now owned by I. F. Guthery, Esq. Jesse Bell was the first resident land owner, and settled on the east bank of Rush Creek, in Feb. 1831; though there had been two or three cabins erected temporarily in the "Wind Fall" one or two years previous.

"The Wind Fall" is the name given to a tract of land swept by a tornado in 1823 or 1824. This tornado took its rise in Logan County, southwest of Bellefontaine, passed over that village, destroying a part of the buildings in the northern portion of the town, and carrying bits of shingles and pieces of clothing as far as the plains in Big Island township. It entered Marion County about three miles south of La Rue, following the direction of Rush Creek, crossed the Scioto about a mile below Longarer's mill, and spent its fury in the woods of Big Island township. The timber was broken and scattered in every direction along its track, which varied from one-fourth to three-fourths of a mile in width. This strip of country grew up in weeds and brush, which was burned off in the fall of 1829. It was a custom of the Indians to burn the woods over yearly for convenience in hunting, and when the fire swept through the Wind Fall," It consumed the fallen timber, brush, weeds and grass, and left the ground in a condition that by digging with hoes among the few remaining logs, considerable com was raised. In the spring of 1829, Moses Dudley, and others, from Big Island, went there and planted about twenty acres in corn, without plowing or fencing, and this crop grew without cultivation.

township, and La Rue was laid out, on the east bank of the Scioto River, which entirely killed Holmesville, and that town is lost sight of, the lands being now occupied by I. F. Guthery, Esq., for a residence and farming purposes.

The above-named Thos. Parr also crected a "horse mill," which was of great value to the settlers, as previous to this they had to go twenty or thirty miles to get grinding done.

The first election in the township was held at Mr. Parr's house, in the spring of 1838, at which time Mr. Parr was elected township treasurer. Silas H. Cleaveland was elected township olerk. The first justice of the peace elected after the 'organization of the township, was Jos. Guthery, Esq. father of John D. and Isaac F. Guthery, who was commissioned May 14th, 1839. Wm. Graham, who resided in the township, was commissioned as justice of the peace, April 12th, 1836, having been elected before Bowling Green was set off from Montgomery.

was commissioned as justee of the peace, April 13th, 1336, having been elected before Bowling Green was set off from Montgomery.

The first school was taught by P. Lampheare, in a rude cabin in the south part of the township. This structure was built of logs and lighted by paper windows, formed by taking a log out of two sides of the building, and covering the openings with paper, pasted upon bars or sticks, placed in these openings for that purpose. The "house" was warmed from a large wood and dirt fire-place, built in one end of the structure. Soon after its organization, the township was divided into three school districts, which were furnished with the same kind of buildings as above described. These have since been superseded by eight fine frame houses. There is but one metric highouse in the township, though there has been church scrives ever since its first settlement; at first in private houses, afterwards at the different school-houses.

The land is generally level and is well watered, the soil being a rich black loam.

Among the pioneers of this township still living, is Jonary Reference and the second of the structure of the land a rich black loam.

Among the pioneers of this township still living, is JonaHAN Bell, who was born Nov. 1st, 1826, in Union County, Ohio, about five miles east of Marysville, and moved with his father and family to what is now Bowling Green township, Marion County, O,, in February, 1831, being the first resident land owner therein. They located near the Union County line, on the east bank of Rush Creck, and in sight of where Indians were camped; having to open the road for nearly two miles from where there was a settlement of six families in Union County. These were the nearest white neighbors, some of whom had settled there two years previous. At the time of Mr. Bell's arrival in this locality, bears were seen occasionally, and wolves and deer were abundant. The latter were frequently found in herds of from fifteen to twenty.

Mr. Bell's arrival in this locality, bears were seen occasionally, and wolves and deer were abundant. The latter were frequently found in herds of from fifteen to twenty.

Mr. Bell experienced the hardships usual to pioneer life, and can relate many incidents of trial and privation, of which we of the present day know nothing. He has lived to see the country changed from a vast wilderness to fine cultivated fields, dotted with comfortable farm-houses, with convenient roads, numerous towns and villages, etc.

In 1847, Mr. Bell was married to Sarah Harraman. They have raised a family of seven children, and still live in sight of the spot where his father settled when he first came to the township in 1831. He has filled most all the responsible township offices, serving as clerk and trustee for several years. Has assessed the township three times, served as justice of the peace for twelve years, and is now serving his sixth year as Director of the County Infirmary.

MONTGOMERY TOWNSHIP.

MONTGOMERY TOWNSHIP.

Daniel Markley built the first cabin in what is now Montgomery Township, about the year 1820. It was located on the Scioto River, at the crossing of the trail from Mechanics-burg to Upper Sandusky. He kept a sort of wilderness entertainment house for those who passed that way, this being the only travelled trail for twenty or thirty miles up or down the river. He vacated about 1824, and the cabin was destroyed by fire during the burning of the woods—the place afterwards being known as the site of "Danny's Cabin."

The next cabin built was by Samuel Franklin, at what was Cochranton. He was "entered out" by Wm. Cochran about 1823, went to Salt Rock township, but in 1831 returned and settled on Section 2.

Cochranton. He was "entered out" by Wm. Cochran about 1823, went to Salt Rock township, but in 1831 returned and settled on Section 2.

In 1824, Colonel Wm. Cochran, from Ross County, settled at Cochranton. A post-office was established at his house, the mail being carried from Marion to Bellefontaine on horse-back. This place is now called "Scott Town," but the post-office still retains the name of Cochranton. The colonel was a worthy specimen of frontiersman. He could crack a joke or tell a story with fluency sufficient to attract attention in almost any company. He was an active church member, taking part in all the services, but would not hesitate to kill a deer, even on the Sabbath day, if one came within gunshot of his cabin. The colonel was a good neighbor, the frugal and industrious always finding him a friend in need. He and his family left about 1836 or 1838.

McMurray Johnson settled about 1826 on section 2. He died eighteen years ago at the advanced age of seventy-four years. Mr. Crandal settled on section 17 in 1825 or 1826, and died previous to 1831. His widow and family remained several years, but finally moved West. Maj. William La Rue settled on the Scioto River, where the village of La Rue now stands, in 1825. His nearest neighbors, excepting the Crandal family, were six miles off till about 1831. In the fall of that year and the winter following quite a number of settlers came in. John Tucker, Jerry Jones, William Besey, James Ramey, James Smith, and Mr. Wright, settled above La Rue. William J. Virden, Samuel Franklin, J. M. Johnson, and A. Brian, near Tymochtee Creek.

In June, 1832, Montgomery township was organized, including what is now Bowling Green township. At a special election, Jerry Jones, A. Brian, and McMurray Johnson were elected Trustees, William La Rue Clerk, and J. Tucker Supervisor. The supervisor called out his hands in the fall. They came from the Scioto settlement to the road on the north line of the township, being the only road in the township. They put in their two days' work, returned, and in the afternoon opened four miles of newroad from Brian's to their own settlement. This is a specimen of the go-ahead in those days.

About 1833 or '34 the State road from Marion to Lima was laid out. Quite a number settled on the ronte. J. T. Harvey, H. Corn, J. Owens, L. Louderback, A. Dudley, J. and C. Wallis, H. Hinkle, P. Fleming, John Clark, J. Anderson, C. Conklin, William H. Davis, three of the Carters, J. King, J. D. Richards, J. Thompsqn, — Whalen, A. Virden. The following settled below La Rue: William Little, M. Van Fleet, — Dickason, A. Johnson, V. Dutton, J. T. Walker, W. M. Cand, Jos. Starges, — Clayton, Russell Carey, W. W. Carey, and Wingate Carey, J. Elland, and J. Lint. These compose most of the settlers of that time. Thefirst justice of the peace elected was Colonel Cochran, and William H. Davis was the second. Joseph Sturges and L. Ramouse creeked a water-mill on the Scioto, just south of the present site of New Bloomington. This mill was of the primitive style, consisting of one run of corn burrs set on a puncheon floor platform, and was roofed with claphorards, laid across poles set on sticks planted in the ground. About 1839 this mill and power were purchased by Daniel Longacre, who erected a frame 25 by 40, three stories high, with two run of burrs, a huller, belts, etc., into which h

The village of La Rue is thus described by Joshua Cope-

The village of La Rue is thus described by Joshua Copeland, M.D.:

LA Rue is situated in the southwest corner of the township on the Scioto River. Where the village stands, was, in 1851, the centre of Mr. La Rue's farm, through which the Bellfontaine and Indiana Railroad was located. William La Rue, the proprietor of the town, was born in Washington County, Ohio, December 22, 1799. In the fall of 1823, he moved to Marion County, Ohio, and in the spring of 1825 he moved to where he now lives, and built a house in the woods, where the village of La Rue now stands. He was possessed of but little means, barely able to enter about seventy acres of land; however, by hard work and good economy, he in the course of a very few years owned three hundred acres together.

At that time what are now Montgomery, Grand, and Bowling Green townships, was known as Grand township, and perhaps not more than half a dozen families lived within the hounds of this territory. For some time the place of holding elections was at Marseilles, now in Wyandot County. Up to 1852, this township was settled very slowly, but is now quite well settled, and is one of the best townships in the county. It 1851, after the railroad was located through Mr. La Rue's farm, he laid out on the east bank of the Scioto a town, and at the suggestion of the people named it La Rue. This town plot embraced the best improvement he had made.

When I came here in May, 1852, but three or four houses were completed; the hotel was up and inclosed and full of boarders, railroad hands, etc. Many of them had to be content with a bed on the floor. Good lands surrounded the newly laid out village, but the settlement was thin for a few years.

Newly laid out village, but the settlement was thin for a few years.

When I came the grading of the railroad had commenced. Richard Wilson seemed to be running this part of the matter. The village commenced its growth, grew up with the country around substantially. The business men who started with the place, have nearly all disappeared. Some have died, some failed, and others moved to other parts. Three physicians started with the place, viz: Patten, Olds, and Copeland—and before long Dr. Wilkins came in—in course of three or four years only one remained. Dr. Lee came in, and later still Dr. A. W. Disney, whe remained here until his death in 1876. At present, and for a few years past, we have had Drs. Delong, Mouser, Scott, and Copeland. We have two first-class stores of long standing, kept by H. S. Lucas & Co., and Hopkins & Leonard, situated in the brick block on High Street, a large and creditable block, 80 x 180 feet, containing six rooms below and as many above—also drug store, by W. Y. Campbell, and grocery in this block. On the same street, two hardware stores, and four other groceries, livery stable, Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, and the Catholic churches, Union schoolhouse, the two hotels, saddle and harness shop, and two milliery shops, a large warehouse, etc. It will be seen that High Street is the point in La Rue. We have a flouring and saw-mill, planing mill, four blacksmith shops, two furniture shops, etc., two wagon and carriage shops, four shoe shops, and one tailor shop, on other streets. We also have a weekly paper, the "News." The proprietors, Messrs, Fleming & Tritt, are persevering and highly esteemed young men.

The population of La Rue now is 900. When I say 900 I mean 900. The township is well settled up, and well improved, and the population made up generally of industrious, prudent citizens.

Land rates at from forty to fifty dollars per acre. William La Rue, the proprietor of La Rue, is still living here at his old home. There is still room for more industrious men here, and we are glad to see such coming.

Bloomington was surveyed and platted, March 22d, 1856, the proprietors being Armstrong Smallwood, W.W. Carey, C. A. Darlington, and Wingate Carey, each laying out ten lots on his own corner. The name of the railroad station was Carey's. Soon after a post-office was established by the name of New Bloomington.

Soon after a post-office was established by the name of New Bloomington.

In the spring of 1865, Dr. A. W. Buell came to this county, and purchased forty-five acres of land, including the west half of Bloomington and Carey Station, except two lots before sold off. Upon this half of the village was one small, cheap plank house, and an old log cabin. Upon the northeast quarter was a small plank house, and upon the southeast quarter was a small plank house, and upon the southeast quarter was a warehouse and three small frame dwellings.

Dr. Buell immediately laid out and recorded a new village, which he called New Bloomington, the same name as the post-office. Numerous additions were made, and the old town of Bloomington was re-platted and re-numbered, and added to it. The name Carey's station was also done away with, and the present flourishing village of New Bloomington stands forth as the result of the enterprise and energy of its founder. When Dr. Buell came there were no stores in the place—one inferior and very hard saloon was all the trading house of any kind. There were no mechanics, and no prospect of the village ever growing, but the Dr. threw open his lands, began to sell or trade lots on any side or corner, and built houses in any part that would sell. Improvement was soon noticed, business sprung up, and the population increased till now it has several hundred inhabitants. It was long since incorporated, and contains a jail, a nice church, a fine union school-house, stores of every kind, mills, warehouse, mechanics' shops, ce., etc. It has good streets and nice plank walks, and is a thriving place.

GRAND TOWNSHIP.

This township was organized June 7th, 1821, and extended across the entire western side of the county. In 1832, Montgomery township was struck off, and included what is now Bowling Green.

Among the early settlers within the present limits of Grand township, was Enoch Clark, who settled in 1820. Champness Terry and family, from Virginia, came in 1831, and settled on the farm where he still resides. Thos. J. Terry was then a child. Others who came in at an early day, were Edward, Thomas and Joseph Rubens, Chas. Merriman, Hugh Long, Jacob Scaborn, Gibert Olney and his son, Benjamin, Elisha Davis, Walter Davis, P. Seaman, Geo, Barnes, John Lindsay, Thos. Lapham, Geo, Gray, and David Stiverson.

At an election held June 26th, 1824, Wm. Cochran was elected justice of the peace, receiving twelve votes. Subsequently at the State election, Oct. 12th, 1824, Jeremiah Morrow received thirteen votes for Governor, and Allen Trimble six.

row received thirteen votes for six.

Grand is the smallest township in the county, and has no village. It is well watered, and is quite productive, raising wheat, corn, onts, and clover in abundance. There are several artesian wells in the northeast part, from which the water rises to the height of three to seven feet above the surface. Several quarries of good building stone are found in this township.

George Gray was born in Essex Co., State of Delaware, on the 18th day of May, 180:. His father, Frazier Gray, was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, referred to in another part of this article. George worked on a farm with his father until he was seventeen years of age, when he went to learn the carpenter and joiner trade. He worked three years, and was then married to Miss Jane Barr, on the 18th day of February, 1827. Has raised a family of seven children, live are still living. After his marriage, Mr. Gray worked for two years in a shipyard near home. He emigrated to this State with his brother, Rev. David Gray, May 20th, 1829, his brother stopping at Zanesville, O., and George coming to Salt Rock township, in this county, where he worked at his trade for a while, as mechanics were very much needed at the time.

In 1835, he was elected by the legislature as Associate Judge of Marion County, and served seven years. In 1860, was elected Probate Judge of Marion County, and re-elected in 1863. Was elected Mayor of the City of Marion, which office he soon afterwards resigned.

He was elected justice of the peace for Montgomery township, and in 1858 was appointed post-master at Cochranton P. O. (Scott Town). Of the many offices of honor and trust which he held, the last was justice of the peace of Grand township, where he still lives. He is now past seventy-two years of age, having been an active man all his life, loved and respected by all who know him.

years of age, having been an active man all his life, loved and respected by all who know him.

Frazier Gray.—In the Union graveyard at Scott Town, there stands a stone over the remains of Frazier Gray, a soldier of the Revolution. Mr. Gray enlisted in the Dehaware Continentals, and served as one of the "Blue Hen's Chickens" until the conclusion of the war. He returned to Dehaware with his disbanded comrades, and resided there until 1839, when he joined his sons, George and Samuel, in this county. He died in 1849, aged about eighty-nine years.

Mr. Gray was with his regiment on the Hudson at the time Major André was captured, and was one of the soldiers who gnarded him while in confinement, and stood near the gallows when the Major was hung. He related the occurrence from a soldier's point of view, about as follows: André was well and neatly dressed, was polite and courteous in his manners, never betraying the least emotion, and when on the seaffold he made a beautiful speech, full of loyalty to his king, and denying any intention of emacting the role of a spy. He claimed that under the circumstances he ought not to be hung, but if death was inevitable, a soldier's death by shooting should be ordered. As his last appeal met with no response, he turned to the officer near him, and with smiles on his face, signified his real liness to die in any way for his king and country.

Mr. Gray knew and had conversed with Washington. One incident he related was this: A few of the "Blue Hen's Chickens," Mr. Gray among the number, had leave to go out of the lines, chestnutting, on Sunday. While so engaged, Washington and his orderly rode near them, and called Mr. Gray to him. "What are you doing here?" said the General. "Gathering some nuts, sir," replied Mr. Gray, "by permission." "It is right then, but remember green chestnuts are very mwholesone. Be careful and not eat too many, for we can not spare any Delaware men," and with a regular military salute the General rode away.

The old veteran died suddenly, without pain, f

SALT ROCK TOWNSHIP.

SALT ROCK TOWNSHIP.

The following sketch was contributed by a former citizen: Ebenezer Roseherry was the first settler. Other pioneers were Daniel Swaggart, William Woolsey, John Wilson, and Platt Brush, all of whom came prior to or about 1820.

The township got its name as follows: The above mentioned pioneers were together, and, as usual, Roseherry spiced the occasion with a hunting story, never allowing one to be incomplete, with his abundant natural store of material. It run about thus: "I had shot and wounded the largest buck I ever saw, not so seriously, however, but that he could get over the tall grass pretty rapidly on three legs. In the pursuit I stumbled and fell over what I supposed to be a rock; but it looked so white I turned and broke off a piece, which I declare was pure salt."

In the laugh that followed, Platt Brush said, "That will do. Salt Rock shall be the name of the township."

The first merchant, Ora Bellis, from New York, located in 1819, and died the same year, being the first death.

The first birth was that of Rosanna Bowser, in 1820. Her father, a few days after, was at the first election in the township, and his vote was challenged on account of minority. He could not testify to his age, but "thought he was entitled to vote, for he had a wife and baby." This election was held at Eb. Roseberry's, near the present site of Amos Taylor's residence. Roseberry's fept an entertainment house, being the first and last for over fifty years. Other early settlers were Hugh B. Smith, I saae Woods, John McElvey, George King, and Mahlon Marsh.

John Green was the first pustice of the peace. — Bradley was the first State senator. Win. Brown was the first serveyor, also the first representative. The first school was taught at John Green's in 1828. The first hunting hounds were brought from Virginia, in 1826, by Robert Martin and his sons.

The principals attending this wake were John Green, presiding officer, Henry Bowser, head cook—these two, being selected and duly appointed by Roseberry before he died to not in the ceremonics to follow—Sam Green, Charles Best, Bill Sims, and several others. The entertainment, as Roseberry directed, was to continue till the contents of a whiskey barrel were exhausted. It was a carousal probably never equalled; it lasted four days, Roseberry, the corpse, being raised to his feet and the glass put to his cold lips, to take his unslighted turn with his comrades.

A comist between two Indian chiefs, near Carpenter's Cross A combat between two Indian chiefs, near Carpenter's cross Roads, was witnessed by a settler, unbeknown to them, and is thus described: "They met, dismounted, and immediately rushed into deadly strife, one with a tomahawk, and the other with a long butcher knife. They fought like madmen, and dealt stroke after stroke, and cut after cut, till both fell to the ground exhausted. One soon recovered, took the tomahawk of the other and threw it into the bushes, then staggering to his bony remounted and went out of sight, dripping with s pany remounted and went out of sight, dripping ood. his pony remounted and went out of sight, dripping with blood. The eye-witness of this terrible hand to hand combat went to the nearest house and reported it, and accompanied by the writer, then a boy seven years old, returned to the scene of encounter. The wounded Indian had recovered, so that, with a little help, he was soon on his pony, wending his way hack to his tribe. The wild grass was stained with blood marking the track of the struggle.

Little Sandusky Creck, a simous stream, meanders across the township, and along its banks are many springs, in early days the haunt of wild animals, and the scene of many hunting adventures, whites and Indians often joining in the wild sport. Near the banks of this stream are the remains of extensive wigwams. The plan seems much like the Pawnee houses, though, before the ground was disturbed, some two years since, the tracings of a large amphitheatre were quite perfect. Near by, on the table-land, is an oldong circle around the highest point in the vicinity, inclosed by a ditch five hundred and fifty paces in length. The break, or passage way in the ditch is on the southwest and northeast, in a direct line with the fallen buildings. Two wells are distinctly visible on the sontheast. Oak trees are standing in the ditch to mark the passing of hundreds of years. In the immediate vicinity, as the trees were cut down a few years since, axe marks were found in several trees, plain and perfect as though made by a recent hand, though over a hundred years had covered up the scens.

The foot-prints of the mound-huilders were left to an interesting extent in the northeast part of the township. In the vicinity of Morrattown is a circular mound several feet high, and in the days of the early settlers quite prominent, with a hickory tree upon its apex. The tree is now gone, but the ground has never been disturbed, and its tracings are still distinct. One mile from this are other curiosities, undisturbed till two years ago, showing that this section has been the home of those of an unknown past.

One mile northwest of these ancient mounds, on the edge of the prairie, and near a large pond, as the sod was turned over for the first time a few years since, lead lullets were discovered in the furrow, and boys found them by the pocketful. They were near or quite an ounce in weight. Being six or eight inches under the surface shows they were not of recent deposit.

As a matter of history, "Goose Pond" should not be omitted, though now extinct. As late as forty years ago it was known to sportsmen in every city west of the Alleghenies. Its area was about fifty acres, and at times, in the spring and fall, the noise was annoying for miles around, from the squawking of geese and ducks coming and going constantly. The present generation can scarcely imagine the immense numbers of migratory birds that made "Goose Pond" their half-way stopping place, between the lakes of the North and the bayons of the South. In earliest days here, there were no shot-guns; the flint-lock rifle was all the sportsman carried, and I have known the discharge of one bullet to kill five geese.

This pond, as a pond, is no more. Drainage has dried it up, and the husbandman reaps a rich reward annually from the rich siluvial, accumulated in centuries gone by.

Salt Rock is all in what is known as the Sandusky Plains, and Morral was laid out a few years ago, on the line of the Columbus and Toledo Railroad, on the lands of Samuel Morral, Sr., and now has three stores, a hotel, post-office, and depot.

BIG ISLAND TOWNSHIP.

This township was first settled by Jacob Croy and Joshua Cope, who settled, or "squatted," before the land came into market, Jacob Dickerson, Samuel Jones, William Britton, Alexander Britton, Dr. Alson Newton, and Hezekiah Gorton. Others came in about the same time, among whom were Leonard Metz, Newton Messenger, Col. Everett Messenger, Portius Wheeler, David Thompson, Elder David Dudley, Mr. Southwick, and Caleb Johnson. Mrs. Col. Messenger, Johnson's daughter, is the oldest resident now living in the township. Her parents moved in when she was but five months old; and as she is now fifty-seven years of age, it makes the date of their arrival about 1821. She tells of an Indian funeral that took place near their residence. The corpse was that of a squaw, who was held in high estem among the Indians, and believed by them to be more than ordinarily "good," for they would speak of her as "she good squaw." They constructed a sort of bier out of poles and brush placed thereon, upon which the corpse was deposited covered with shawls and blankets, and in this manner carried to Upper Sandusky for burial.

Among the "squatter sovereigns" of this township were a widow Nevil and her two bachelor sons, William and John, the state of the backets with the widows "of Navilla Run in widow Nevil and her two bachelor sons, William and John, who settled about a mile from the "chops" of Nevil's Run in 1821. They were "entered out by Mr. Day in 1825 or 1826, and then squatted on the south part of section 2. They made their living by hunting,—farming as little as possible. It is said the game was not thinned out much by them, for they were not "mighty hunters." They left Marion County in 1835, going northwest through the Black Swamp, cutting their way as they went, and late in the fall arrived at the St. Joe settlement in Indiana.

Vernon, or to King's Creek, on or near Darby Plains. When the corn hardened sufficiently in the fall, meal was often made by means of a grater. Any person skilled in the use of the rife could always keep the family supplied with deer and turkey meat. Caleb Johnson erected the first grist mill in the township. It stood near his residence on the Radnor road leading from Upper Sandusky to Delaware. It was what was known as a borse-mill, the power being furnished by what was known as a horse-mill, the power being furnished by four horses, or a team of horses and a yoke of oxen, working on a tread-wheel The carpenter work of this mill was executed

The first election in Big Island township was held at Caleb Johnson's residence, where Col. Messenger now lives. The two political parties were known as "Coheas and Yankees." Mr. Johnson was a "Yankee."

Fever and ague was a prevailing affliction, and to such an extent did this exist that oftentimes there were not enough well ones to take care of the sick. Dr. Norton was the only practising physician, and under his wise and careful treatment his patients generally recovered.

These pioneers were not without their meetings of worship. Elder Dudley, a pious and good man, was their preacher, and it was thought no bardship to go a mile or more on foot to attend evening meetings, using hickory bark for torches to light their way back.

At an election held June 5th, 1824, Joshua Cope was elected justice of the peace, receiving twenty-four votes, his opponent receiving thirteen. In the fall of the same year, at the State election, Big Island township polled thirty-nine votes, four-teen for Morrow and twenty-five for Trimble, candidates for Governor.

The village of Big Island was laid out March 12th, 1829, by Alson Norton. In 1831 it had three stores, with quite a run of trade from the west part of the county, but the springing up of other villages took the trade elsewhere.

Alexander Porter settled in this township in 1819, hefore the land was surveyed or ready for sale. The same year a man named Wicks "squatted" on land now owned by the Johnson heirs. This land was entered by Levi Hammond about 1820 or 1821. A man, named James Oweu, located a little further south ahout the same time. In 1820 John Ashbaugh entered the Block House tract. Among others, who came within a year or two, were Andrew Sullivan, David A. Town, James Murphy, Levi Perry, Ehenezer Perry, and George Wright. Wright was a silversmith, who had left his wife—an Indian woman—and was engaged in selling trinkets to the Indians. At his death he left his personal property to his children, but his real estate he left to the township for school purposes, and this was sold, a vote being first taken. John Logue, Alexander Jenkins, and John Straw were squatters in 1820, but never bought or entered any land in the township. William Humphreys and Samuel Powell were early settlers. During the war of 1812, a company of men under Captain Green encamped on the river within the township limits, from which circumstance it derived its name.

At an election held May 11th, 1824, for justice of the peace, Joseph Boyd received eleven votes, Samuel Fish seventeen. At the State election, in the fall of that year, this township cast seven votes for Trimble and three for Morrow. The township was organized June 8, 1824.

Mr. J. F. Sifritt says: "My recollection does not extend as far back as some, perhaps, yet being the oldest native of this township now living in it, I send you the following. When my father, John Sifritt, settled in this township in 1836, there was living here a colony of Germans, who had emigrated to this country four years previous, and purchased a tract of land four miles west of the Scioto River, and settled on it. They opened a wide street through the entire tract, and built their houses on either side, extending f woods, from a visit to one of his neighbors, a violent storm came up suddenly, and not being able to reach home ahead of it, he crept into a hollow log which lay near the path. Soon after the wind blew a large tree across the log he had entered, making him a prisoner, but late in the afternoon a neighbor, happening to pass by, heard his crics, and getting an axe chopped him out.

chopped him out.

The first school taught in District No 5, was in the winter of 1838-9. It was commenced in one of the houses vacated by the Germans, but in a short time the house caught fire and burned down. Mr. Adam Imboty had lately built an addition to be been but had not yet occupied it, so he gave the to his house, but had not yet occupied it, so he gave the school permission to occupy it. But a disturbance soon arose, school permission to occupy it. But a disturbance soon arose, and it again became necessary to remove, which was done, to a house 12 by 14 feet, in which my mother had kept her loom when weaving. Here the term was finished. The next winter the directors secured another house, which was used for several years. It was built of round logs, with clapboard roof, the boards being held in place by poles laid across the building on top of them. The floor was made of puncheons, mude by splitting large logs into slabs about three inches thick with one side hewed smooth. The seats were made of Lynn logs, split apart and legs put in them. The cracks between the logs were filled with clay taken from under the floor, and as the clay washed out each year and had to be replaced, it soon made quites hole under the floor. The room was lighted by greased paper windows. About one-half of one end of the building was occupied by the fire-place, the back wall and jambs of which were made of stones, and the chimney of sticks and mud. sticks and mud.

jambs of which were made of stones, and the eniminey of sticks and mud.

For many years the practice was followed of barring the teacher out, on the day before Christmas, until he would agree to treat the school on apples and cider. On that morning the scholars would get to the school-house before daylight, and, by piling the benches against the door, would have it securely fastened when the teacher arrived. In the winter of 1842 a young man, named Gyrus Carter, taught the school in District No. 5, and, when the time arrived, he was barred out according to custom. But, thinking to outwit the school, he climbed on to the roof, and removing the boards made an opening, through which he dropped to the floor. However, he had no sconer landed than the large girls of the school caught him, and raising one of the puncheons put him in the hole underneath the floor, where they kept him until he agreed to treat the school.

For several years wolves were very troublesome to settlers who owned sheep. They have killed sheep within six rods of our house. The last black bear seen in this section was killed by James Chard, near the southwest corner of the township. It was customary in the spring for farmers to mark the ears of their hogs and turn them into the woods, where they would soon become wild as deers. When snow fell the following fall, they would generally be found in some hollow log. After fastening them in, teams would be brought, then they would be chopped out, tied and hauled home."

Berwick was laid out by David Beach, August 14th, 1838. It is now incorporated and called Green Camp.

PROSPECT TOWNSHIP.

Ezra Markley, from Penna., was the first settler. Thomas rugh, from Wales, came next. These came prior to 1819. These tobert Cratty was the third settler, and is still living. Others nat came soon after were Philip Lawrence, James Thomas, van Evans, John Bowen, Thomas Adams, D. Landers, John and Ilsaac Martin, Thomas Phillips, and John Vanne.

Henry Hain says: "My father came to Marion County in June, 1830, and commenced housekeeping in a small log cabin, near Locust Grove Church, on the Delaware pike. The cabin being very small and the family large, we hadn't sufficient room to set a table. We brought a large chest with us from Pennsylvania, say five feet long and thirty inches square, which answered for our table. In this cabin one of my sisters was married, and the wedding dinner was eaten off said chest.

"Money was very scarce, and no furniture to be had without money, so we were obliged to manufacture our own. A bedstead was constructed in this manner: At a proper distance from the corner of the house bore a hole in the logs on either side, about two feet from the floor, into these holes insert two saplings, and where they would cross set up another stick for a post, into which stick the other end of these saplings—then lay clapboards across, to answer for bed cords; on top of this the bedding was thrown, and there we would sleep. When I say we, I mean the people in general, at that early day. "When the corn got too hard, in the fall, for roasting ears, we would take part of an old tin pail, and with a nail punch it full of holes; then fasten it on a clapboard in the shape of a horse-radish grater, and on this rude article we would grate the corn for mush and pone. When the corn got hard enough to grind, we would take a sackful, on a horse, and go through the woods and across the prairies, to where the road from Marion to Claridon crosses the old mud pike, where a man by the name of Olds had a horse-mill, built entirely out of round hickory logs, and when the mill was running it would shake, so that it was in danger of falling down. Mr. Olds was his own carpenter, blacksmith, miller and millwright, and had scarcely any tools to work with, save a hammer, an axe, and an augur. In many places the master wheel was tied together with chains and hickory withes, and when starting the mill in an augu. In many places the master wheel was tied together with chains and hickory withes, and when starting the mill in the morning or at noon, he would stand under the master wheel with a handspike and drive the cogs back or in. Once while thus engaged, the spike caught in the trundlehead and knocked him down, and for some time his family supposed he was dead.

"The building in which my father first settled was a small shop, large enough to put three beds in, constructed as above described, and permit the door to swing, so we put that number of beds into it. The cracks between the logs were not daubed, and as a great deal of snow fell that winter, which was a very cold one, we would frequently find two inches of snow on our heds in the morning. Such were some of the experiences of pioneer life."

ences of pioneer life."

Prospect township was organized in 1840. Its surface is generally level or gently rolling. It has an excellent sandy soil. The Schote River passes through from north to south, near the centre, and affords a splendid mill site at Prospect village. This village was originally called Middletown, and was laid out Dec. 25th, 1835, by Christian Gast. The first school-house and the first church in the township were built in Middletown, by Mr. Gast and Mr. Cratty.

After the advent of the Columbus and Toledo Railroad a few years ago, numerous additions were made to the town, and it is now quite a business point, having a number of good stores of various kinds, a large grist mill, a commodious warehouse, an excellent hotel near the depot, and numerous mechanics' shops.

John Quincy Roads, a prominent citizen of this township, was born in Licking Co., O., Aug. 17th, 1828. At the age of seven years his mother died, and he was taken by his uncle and kept at school until he was twelve years old. He was then sent to a higher school, where he finished his education at the age of nineteen. In 1847, he spent some months travelling in Canada, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin. Sept. 20th, 1849, he was married to Margaret Ann Arnold, who was born Aug. 6th, 1828, in Fauquhier County, Va. She came with her parents to Knox Co., Ohio, in 1831. In 1837, they moved to Licking Co., O., where she lived till her marriage. In 1847, she attended the Presbyterian Seminary at Granville, Ohio. Elder Jas. Harvey, a Baptist minister, performed the marriage ceremony.

Elder Jas. Harvey, a Baptist minister, performed the marriage ceremony.

Mr. Roads came to Marion Co. Oct. 18th, 1849, to look up a location. He purchased the land on which they have resided ever since. On the 14th of Nov. 1849, with his wife and household goods, he arrived at the "old cabin in the woods." It looked dismal and dreary compared with what they had been used to having and seeing, but God gave them courage and blessed the labor of their hands. With but a few acres cleared at first, in a few years they had one hundred and twenty acres of green forest cleared up. Comfortable dwellings and barns were built, and they now live quietly and pleasantly, spending their time as husbandman and domestic duties require. For twenty years sheep have been their favorite stock and the source of their income.

ROBERT CRATTY, the subject of this sketch, was born near Chambersburg, Pa., Aug. 24th, 1784, and is now over ninety-three years of age, yet in remark-ubly good health and vigor.

When Mr. Cratty was but two years old, his parents moved to Westmoreland Co., Pa. From there to Butler Co., Pa., where they resided about twenty years. Mr. Cratty next lived in Beaver Co., Pa., for four or five years, then came to this State, locating near Ostrander, Delaware Co., in 1817. He settled upon his present location in 1820. He built his cabin in the fall of 1819, but did not move in until the following spring. This cabin was erected in one day. Men came eighteen miles to help build it. They made the clapboards, put it up and went home the same night. At the time of Mr. Cratty's arrival this section was a dense woods. The nearest neighbors were Ezra Markley, who lived about two miles away, and Thomas Pugh, about a mile and a half.

Indians were plenty, but peaceable and friendly. They camped in the woods round about, while hunting, and would call at the white men's houses nearly every day to get provisions. Deer were very plenty, and Mr. Cratty says he could get one in an hour's time most any day. They used also to have plenty of bear meat. The fat when rendered made excellent lard.

On the 3d of March, 1820, Mr. Cratty planted eight acres

On the 3d of March, 1820, Mr. Cratty planted eight acres of corn, from which he gathered an excellent crop.

Mr. Cratty's first wife died this same year. Her maiden name was Elizabeth English. They were married Dec. 27th, 1808, and had ten children. At the time of her death, seven of them were living, the oldest daughter being then but thirteen years old. She did most of the work and looked after the younger members of the family. Two of these children are still living, Robert Cratty, Jr., in Marion, and Eliza Clay, at Centreville.

She is a native of Conesteo, Steuhen Co., New York, and came to Cleveland, Ohio, June 25th, 1797; her father's being one of the first five families that settled there. Mr. Cratty's family have quite a war record. His father was a soldier in the Revolutionary war. Himself in the war of 1812, and four of his sons served their country in the war of the Rebellion.

He was second lieutenant in Col. Miller's Regiment, Penna Militia, in the war of 1812, acting as ensign, and

Mr. Cratty has never taken an active part in politics, nor held any office. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, and in early days was Superintendent of the Sabhati school at Prospect. Himself and Christian Gast built the first school house there. The house in which he at present resides he built in 1839. Around the old familiar hearth, he loves to tell of by-gone days, and relates many incidents of pioneer life, some of which are embodied in another part of this work.

But few of the early residents of this county yet linger with us; they too must soon pass away, and in coming years the records of this volume will be perused with curiosity and eagerness, to ascertain the names and deeds of its pioneers; among them none will have a fairer name than the subject of this sketch.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP.

Rev. Jacob Idleman settled in what is now Pleasant township early in 1820. A contributor furnishes the following account: "In the year 1813, Rev. Jacob Idleman and his wife, Susannah, with their three children, left Hardy Co., Va., for the 'Far West,' as Ohio was then called. After travelling five hundred miles in a two-horse wagon, over mountains and through the woods and mud, they landed in Highland County, Ohio, where they lived on a reuted farm for two years. From there they came to Marion Co., arriving at 'Slab Camp,' one mile north of the 'old boundary line,' in Feb. 1320. ('Slab Camp,' was a camp occupied by Gen. Harrison and his soldiers during the war of 1812, when passing through on their way to the frontier.)

"Here they passed the first night with no shelter but the covered emigrant wagon, Mrs. Idleman and his hired man slept under it. Having built a large fire heside a log, and placed the wagon near it, they were enabled to pass the night without much suffering, though the snow was six or eight inches deep. The next day a cabin was hastily built, the snow shovelled out and a fire kindled in the centre, a hole having been left in the roof, through which the smoke escaped.

"In this cabin the remaining part of the winter and the following summer were passed. In August Mr. Idleman attended the land sales at Delaware, and purchased one hundred and sixty acres of hand, on which his youngest son, Silas Idleman, now resides. In the fall of 1820 a cabin was erected on this land, in which Silas was born, he being the first white child born within the present limits of Pleasant town-ship.

"The first religious society was formed by Jacob Idleman and Christian Stealy, in 1829. A local preacher by the name of Stewart, who lived in Radnor, Delaware County, preached for the society occasionally during that year. In the fall of 1821, the M. E. Conference sent them a preacher named James Murray, who formally organized the society and received them into the Delaware Circuit. This society built the first meeting house on the 'new purchase,' as well as the first in the township. It was built of hewed logs, with cabin roof, dedicated by Rev. Jas. Gliruth about the year 1823.

"The first school was taught January, February, and March, 1821, in a cabin built by Van Horn, on the land now owned by A. Taverner. The first blacksmith shop was opened by Henry Peters on the same lot in 1820. Near the same place George Washington Dittowanna, a Wyandot Indian, camped while hunting."

Henry Peters, above referred to, says: "The first day of April, 1820, I left Fairfield County, O., to find a home on the Sandusky Plains. It was said land was to be sold cheap there. About the third or fourth day I arrived at Drake's, on the 'Boundary line.' The first family I found on the road was Jacob Idleman's, tented at 'Slab Camp.' He was then putting up a small cabin. Next was Van Horn's, next David Tipton's. Next was A. Berry, just south of where Marion now stands. Next was Jas. Murray and Hugh O'Harra, the one living north and the other south of the forks of the road, about a mile north of the present limits of Marion. Next was Danl. Fickel, south of Rocky Fork. On the next quarter wo'—olwell. Next was Swinnerton, who had just arrived, where the family now lives. Next was Heckerthorn, then Jacob Coon, then Reder's hotel, just south of where Little Sandusky now stands. Next was Armstrong, opposite to where T. Reber now lives. Next the Block House at Upper Sandusky, it was then standing, and Jonas Whitaker kept tavern, with plenty of Indians all around. I staid here two days, and found that I had passed through the 'New Purchase,' and the land here was a 'Reservation.' I returned to Colwell's. He was putting up a blacksmith shop, and I worked for him a month, then returned to Fairfield County, to wait for the 'Land Sales' in August. At this sale I bought the eighty acres of land on which Van Horn's cabin stood. In October I built my blacksmith shop, and took up my residence with Van Horn. He shortly afterward moved away, and a school was taught in the cabin that winter.

"In the fall of 1821, David Tipton sold out and moved away, and Squire Crawford resigned his office in the spring of 1822. John Stealy and myself were elected justices of the peace in their stead. In 1825 I moved to Marion. The first minister I heard there was Elder Bradford, who preached at the house of Elber Baker. After the service he wished to know how many present were professors of religion—only two persons rose.

"In the spring of 1826 the first Sabbath-school in the county was organized by a Presbyterian minister. We raised forty dollars to buy books for this school. It was kept for some time in the brick school-house on West St., Mariot."

An old citizen furnishes the following: "Among the first settlers in the southwest part of what is now Pleasant township, but at that time was Green Camp township, was Humphrey Mounts and his wife Sarah, with three children. They came from Radnor township, Delaware Co., in the fall of 1820.

"Wm. David and his wife Magdalene came from Delaware Co. about 1824, and settled about a mile and a half north of the 'Boundary Line,' and died on the same farm.

"Friend Biggerstaff and Phœle his wife came into the neighborhood in the year 1825. Mrs. Biggerstaff soon died, and he married the widow Cool, of Fairfield Co. She is still living on the old farm, with her son.

"Hugh Cummins and wife Nancy, with five children, were among the early settlers of the neighborhood. Mrs. Cummins was the first corpse buried in the Mounts graveyard, which was in Sept. 1827.

"The first saw and grist mill was built near the present centre of the township, by Mason and Lindenburger, and was run by stean. The first school-house was located on land owned by John Nickelson, in 1823. It was built of split logs, with open fire-place, and not a nall was used in its construction. The first church, built of hewed logs, was erected by the Presbyterians in the Mounts graveyard. Rev. Henry Vandeman was the first Presbyterian minister to preach in the township, and held meetings in the house of Hugh Cummins in 1825 or 1826. Rev. Barbour organized the first Presbyterian church, and Jos. Boyd and Sam'! Gratty were elected elders.

"Indians occasionally visited the early settlers to trade jewelry for bread, sometimes bringing their wives and papooses with them on Indian ponies. They had a hunting camp a few rods east of where Mt. Union church now stands, on the banks of Sibler's Run. This run received its name from a man by the name of Sibler, who, in attempting to cross it one evening, with a team and wagon, got stuck in t

"On the 11th of June, 1822, John Fantrees was prosecuted for selling liquor to the Indians, and bound over to court under a penalty of thirty dollars. Feb. 23d, 1824, Jas. Murphy sund Levi Hammond. Judgment for plaintiff for eleven cents, and costs, one dollar and thirty cents. Sept. 2d, 1830, Isaac Darling sued Isaac Dutton. Judgment for plaintiff six and a fourth cents, and costs, sixty-five cents."

Another old citizen says: "The church in the Mounts graveyard was built by voluntury labor, and used first by the Presbyterians, afterward by the United Brethren.

"On lands now owned by P. O. Redd is the place where Drake's defeat' took place. On lands owned by James H. Berry is the largest rock in this part of Ohio, on level ground. After the siege of Fort Meigs, a squad of soldiers on their way home, ate their last rations near this rock, whilst one of their number stood on it as sentinel.

"In 1830, a man with a large family came here from Pennsylvania. He bought a cow with a young calf; the milk was divided between the calf and the children; the calf died with trembles, or milk sickness, whilst ti did not affect the children at all. This was considered almost a miracle."

GRAND PRAIRIE.

GRAND PRAIRIE.

The first white settler in Grand Prairie township was a man by the name of Ridenour, who came from Ross Connty, and located on the north side of Little Scioto River. He made some improvements, and afterwards sold the land to James Swinnerton, from Delaware, who came in 1819. His wife, Mrs. Eleanor Swinnerton, died October 19th, 1821, this being the first death in the township.

In 1824, Capt. John Vanmeter settled in this township. He came from Berkley County, Va.—now West Virginia—and was a captain in the war of 1812. Benjamin Salmon, from the State of Delaware, came in about the same year. As a Pike settled here in 1826. Mr. Pike was born in Rutland County, Vermont, in 1798. He came to Grand Prairie when about twenty-eight years old, and settled on the farm now owned by S. N. Titus, with whom he resided until his death a short time since. Mr. Titus has in his possession the old family Bible, containing the family record, etc., which has been in the family for over one hundred years.

This township was organized June 9th, 1824. John Page came about 1828, Eleazer Parker in 1829. Other early settlers were Reuben Drake, Samuel Hoxter, Daniel Swiggart, Abraham Haldeman, Abner Bent, John Bunn, Henry May, John Cleggett, John Fitzhugh, Samuel Bretz, Landy Shoots, Peter Miller, Stewart Tate, John Bibler, and Michael Campbell. Henry May started a tavern about 1828, which was located near Brush Ridge Corners.

John Crock, John Vanmeter, and John Burtsfield were the first settlers seat of Rocky Pork.

Mr. Burtsfield, who is still living, was born September, 1822.

John Cook, John Vanmeter, and John Burtsfield were the first settlers east of Rocky Fork.

Mr. Burtsfield, who is still living, was born September, 1822, in Franklin Coonty, Pa., and came to this township in April, 1828, where he has resided ever since. At that time the whole country was a wilderness, and neighbors were few. Captain John Vanmeter was his nearest neighbor, and Benjamin Salmon next. There were no grist mills near by at that time, and the settlers in this section had to go to Oid's horse-mill in Claridon township. Wild game and deer were abundant. Indians were plenty, but were disposed to be peaceable and friendly, except when under the influence of "fire-water." It was their custom to go among the settlers and give war dances was their custom to go among the settlers and give was or something to eat, but never committed any depredations at Several years ago, while digging a well on his farm, Mr. Abraham E. Lucas found a grapeshot about eight feet under the surface, and thinks that at an early day a battle may have been fought in that locality. Recently he found an Indian relic near the same spot. It is a stone about six inches long, an inch in diameter, and has a half-inch hole bored through from end to end. It is supposed to be a handle for something. This is a good farming and sock raising township, is well improved, and contains many handsome farm residences.

SCOTT TOWNSHIP.

SCOTT TOWNSHIP.

The settlement of the original surveyed limits of Scott township commenced in the antumn of 1821. But, at that time and for a year or more afterwards, Claridon, Scott, Tully and Canaan were united in one township-called Canaan. As the population increased, those townships were severally organized and received their present names.

Toe first families who settled in Scott township at the above date, were John Beckley, Henry Parcel, Nathan Parson and Martin McGowen, his two sons-in-law, and Josiah Packard, an old soldier of the Revolution, with his four sons. Also Alanson, Phincas and Horatio Packard, together with Jason Gleason and Solomon S. Wilkinson, sons-in-law of old Josiah Packard. All these and some others were that winter living on section 36, of the subsequently organized township of Scott. About the same time Samuel Sourceon and William Packard. All these and some others were that winter living on section 36, of the subsequently organized township of Scott. About the same time Samuel Spurgeon and William Shaffer settled on Muddy Run, and John Humphrey where Robt. Clements now lives. Next above Humphrey lived John Johnson, Jacob Stateler (the man who killed "Bad Indian," mentioned elsewhere) with his three sons, Andrew, James, and John, and old Mr. Kline with his three sons, all on lands now owned by Anthony Houser, in Tolly township. The principal occupation of these three families was lunting and trapping. About the same time Isaac Foreacre settled on section 16, about three-fourths of a mile from where Letimberville now is. To the westward lived Capt. Benj. Tickel, an officer in the Revolutionary war, who located on the bank of the Little Scioto, where the Marion and Bucyrus, road crosses that stream. He had two sons and two daughters (unmarried) living with him. His son-in-law, Moses Vansky, also lived at that point. Next above him lived Mr. Scott, from whom the township received its name, at its organization, June 8th, 1824. A part of Mr. Scott's family died there, and the balance returned to their former home. Next above lived David Bryant and his brothers, Jacob and Simeon, and on section 11 lived Conrad Roth (usually called Rhodes), a minister of the United Brethren Church, who built a double log cablin, which became a well-known way mark, as for many years it was the only house on the road from this settlement to Bucyrus. Mr. Roth did not remain long, but removed to Bucyrus, thence to Sandusky city, where he died.

The foregoing were all pioneers of the first year's immigration. Soon after came old James Larrabee with his three sons, and a daughter who afterwards married Amos A. Boynton. About the same time came John Lindsay, Adam Hipsher, all on section 36, aforesaid, Noah Lee, Sr., John C. Lee, old Jas. Likins with his three sons, Joseph, Jamea, Jr., and John, Daniel Plotner (now in Tully), and Thos. H. Miller, with a family of nine children, all of whom are still living, the eldest (Mrs. Jacob Crawford) being now over seventy years of age. Father Miller was an exemplary man and a model farmer.

About the time the Columbus and Sandusky fraud (called a turnpike) was constructed from south to north through the centre of the township, an active and enterprising population settled along its route, as many could pay for their lands in labor in making this road. Others bought their lands as usual, among whom were Peter Spyker, Daniel Weyand, David Prince, Seth Knowles, where Hiram Knowles, his cliest son, now lives, Joseph, James and John Likins, Samuel J. Hill, Joseph B. Sharp, and John Wilson. Also Osborn Monnette and old Thomas Monnette, who lived east of Letimberville, James McCauley, William, Robert, and John Quay, John Foos, John Vanvoorst, Peter Weyand, Ross and David Arbuckle, Daniel Reesor, Alexander Kirkpatrick, Jackson and David Dowling, Jeremiah Tillotson, Samuel and Abraham Line, Constant Bowen, John Reeder, Henry D. Parcel, Thomas F. Johnston, Robert and Johnson Kerr. On the Little Scioto were George M. Pickel, Moses Kay, John Boyce, Frederick Loughborn, Madison, Edmund, and Mannington Welch. In the southwest were Joseph Lucas, Lambert Wilson, and Daniel Walter, all comprising a population which for industry, thrift, and enterprise were second to none.

Other incidents of early days in this section are to be found in Capt. Beckley's reminiscences in another part of this work. Lettimberville was laid out June 17th, 1833, by M. Letimbre, a Frenchman, who came from Buenos Ayres to that place, and bought a large tract of land previous to laying out this town. He subsequen'ly sold to John Vanvoorst, and went to Missouri.

Auong the prominent citizens of Scott township at present is Hon. John Rosecrans, who was horn at Nanticoke, Wyoming Valley, Luzerne Co, Pa., Aug. 14th, 1803. He received a common school education, and while young, himself taught school. Served as commissioner and auditor for six years in Luzerne Co., Pa., and came to Ohio in 1847. His worth and efficiency as an officer was appreciated here, for he was chosen as county commissioner and served six years. He also served as representative in the State Legislature for two years. Has been justice of the peace for thirty years consecutively. He is a relative of General Rosecrans, and his grandfather was a soldier in the Revolutionary war.

Mr Rosecrans is a well-to-do farmer, highly respected and honored by all who know him. Is affable and courteons in manner, polite and interesting in conversation, and conscientious and upright in all his dealings. He cast his first presidential vote for Gen. Jackson and his last for Tilden.

CLARIDON TOWNSHIP.

CLARIDON TOWNSHIP.

Most of the early settlers of this township were from England. Joseph Hornby, and his wife who is still living, settled here in 1820. Vincent Douce, with a family of ten children, came in 1822. John Hinds and family settled here in July, 1822. His son Thomas is still living on the same farm. William Thew came in 1823, along with several other English families mentioned elsewhere. Nathan Clark, from Connecticut, came in the spring of 1820, and entered part of the land in which Catedonia now stands. George Ulsh, from Perry County, Pa., came in 1827. Elisha Underwood located in what was afterwards known as the "Underwood Settlement," in 1829. His son Jesse still lives on the homestead farm.

Other early settlers were Peter Gable and Henry Holverstott, in 1830. Joseph Smithson, Charles Owens, and James Lawrence in 1832. Matthew Fields, Jefferson Smith, and Obadiah Miller in 1834.
For incidents and sketches of pioneer life in this township, see Cap. George Beckley's "Reminiscences," in another place. Calebonia is an enterprising business town of about one thousand inhabitants, situated in the northeast corner of the township. It was laid out April 11th, 1834, and owned by W. S. Farrington, C. H. township. It was laid out April 11th, 1834, and owned by W. S. Farrington, C. H. Weed, Richard Wilson, and G. P. Cherry. Its location is almost central, between Marion, Galion, Bueyrus, Cardington, and Mt. Gilead, the comparative distance to those points being from nine to fourteen miles. It is a very convenient point for shipping all kinds of country produce and stock, being situated on two important railroads, the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati & Indianapolis R. R., and the Atlantic and Grent Western Railway. Two firms, in two years, shipped 318,232 lbs. dressed poultry, 1240 live geese, 1368 bils. eggs, 2055 tubs of butter. Near the railroads is situated a large warchouse.

In 1865 Dr. Weeks opened the first drug store. C. Ponmert opened a shoe store the following year. At the same time a stove and tinware store was opened, also a hardware store. At present there are two drug stores, two hardware stores, three shoe stores, three dry goods stores, several grocery and provision stores, one clothing store, two millinery establishments, one harness and saddle shop, two large furniture stores, a bakery, one hotel, one livery and feed stable, three blacksmith and wagon shops, two saw and planing mills, two extensive steam flouring mills, and two cooper shops. Also, two artists, five physicians, and three lawyers. The Calebonia Argus, a spicy weekly newspaper, is published by George Henness, Esq., who is both editor and proprietor.

Four churches are located here. The M. E. Church was organized before the town was laid out, and is situated in the south part of the town. The Presbyterian. Universalist, and Catholic societies are of more recent organization. All have regular preaching and well organized Sabbath-schools, except the Catholic. The buildings are neat and well finished. There is also a large union school, comprising four departments, with four teachers. The house is large and commodious, of beautiful design and finish, and would do honor to a larger town. The cornerstone was laid September 27th, 1873, by the Free Masons, the exercises being conducted by Dr. O. W. Weeks, and participated in by the home lodge and visiting brethren. An eloquent address was delivered by Judge Beebe, of Mt. Gilead.

Oliver Lodge, No. 447, F. & A. M., was organized in 1870, and numbers at present about fifty members.

Caledonia Lodge, No. 299, I. O. O. F., was organized in 1856, and now has a membership of over sixty.

country, with splendid railroad facilities, there are few points that offer better inducements than Caledonia.

Capt. George Beckley, of Caledonia, was born in Dauphin County, Pa., November 29th, 1804, about seven miles east of Harrisburg. His father was of German descent, and mother from Donegal, Ireland. In 1812 his father, John Beckley, removed to Northumberland County, Pa., where he suffered severely from the financial troubles of 1817 to 1820, and from thence, in 1821, removed to what is now Marion County, about one mile northwest of where Caledonia now is, having but one hundred dollars left, with which he bought eighty acres of land. When he arrived, he had a family of eight children, to obtain a future home for whom he entered the wilderness, and cast his lot among the retiring Wyandots and Delawares. Here, with diligence, industry, and economy, he repaired his former losses, until, in 1835, he emigrated to Cass County, Indiana, with his entire family, excepting George, his eldest son, who had united in marriage with Eliza Miller, daughter of Thomas H. Miller, and has continued to reside there ever since, having raised a family of four children, three sons and one daughter. As a scholar, Mr. Beckley is self-taught, having apent over fifty years as a school-teacher. He has been county commissioner, and is now county surveyor. He is, perhaps, the best posted man in Marion County on Indian and ploneer reminiscences. When he entered the county wild game was exceedingly plentiful. He relates that one warm, scorching morning, a few years after he landed, he started up, in one drove, $\tilde{R}_{IV}$-eight deer, that had huddled in one gang to lie down and enjoy the pleasant rays of the morning sun! Honey was very abundant, and all had plenty.

Since the above was written Mr. Beckley met with an accident which resulted in his death. From the Caledonia Argus, May 16, 1878, we clip the following:—

"This community was plunged into a state of deep affliction on Monday last, by an accident at the railway depot, which resulted in the death of Mr. Geo. Beckley.

As many of our readers are aware, trains from the East on each line arrive at Caledonia nearly together, and on Monday, about half-past ten, while the train on the C. C. C. & I. Road was leaving the depot, one on the other road was approaching. Mr. Beckley was crossing on Water Street, with the evident intention of going to his home. It is not known whether he was actually aware of the approach of the train on the A. & G. W. Road (although two or three persons endeavored to apprise him of the fact), or whether he thought he could cross the track in time to escape it; however, he stepped on to the track and was making for the sidewalk on the west side when the pilot caught him and threw him against the end of the boiler. The engineer reversed steam and pulled up as quickly as possible, but meanwhile Mr. Beckley was thrown upon the track, pushed and dragged a considerable distance, until his head struck against the platform and he was drawn under the engine, the wheels of the engine and tender and the fore tracks of the baggage-car passing over him. He was taken from under the baggage-car passing over him. He was taken from under the baggage-car in a sadly mangled condition, at a distance of about forty yards from the spot on which he was struck. He lingered, with conscious intervals, until about four o'clock in the afternoon, when he quietly breathed his last.

Deceased was one of the carliest settlers in Marion County.

four o'clock in the afternoon, when he quietly breathed his last.

Deceased was one of the earliest settlers in Marion County. His father came with his family to this State in the spring of 1821, and entered land in Scott township. Deceased possessed a very active mind, and every effort was made—often under great difficulties in those rude times—for the acquisition of information. When obtained, he was ever ready to impart this knowledge to others. He taught school at various places, often under adverse circumstances. This he did at intervals, while pursuing the occupation of farming. One of his favorite avocations was that of land surveying, in which he was considered skilful and reliable.

About thirty years ago he was instrumental in organizing a company of militia, in which he was appointed captain.

During the gold mania of 1849 his fancy, backed by some knowledge of geology and mineralogy, led him to the Pacific slope prospecting for the precious metal. He returned in 1852 and again started in 1854 for California, and afterwards travelled through a good portion of Central and South America, chiefly bent on prospecting and mining speculations. After his return he once more left for the Great West, reached Pike's Peak, in the Rocky Mountains, where he erected a quartz crushing or similar apparatus, which was exchanged for a large tract of land in Indiana. This was considered one of his most fortunate speculations.

Of late years Mr. Beckley has devoted much of his time to land surveying, and at the fall election of 1876 he was elected county surveyor on the Democratic ticket.

He was quite an enthusiast in becculture, and has recently been active in making known the advantages to beckeepers of Mitchell's patent bec-hive, of which he sold a large number. He was a prolific writer, dispensing and acquiring information in various directions. He was a frequent contributor to the columns of the Araus, and his 'Reminiscences of the Whetstone Valley,' and other articles, have doubtless interested many of our reader Deceased was one of the earliest settlers in Marion County.

many of our readers. He has more than once spoken of having more reminiscences nearly ready, but the consent of some parties was needed for the publications of names.

Mr. Beckley was held in great respect wherever he was known. He had lived a very temperate life, was a man of great probity, and probably had as few enemies as is common to man. He was one of the few individuals who were instrumental in building the Universalist church in this place—in fact he was regarded as the founder and father of that church. He was, moreover, a regular attendant and consistent member, and an active worker in the Sabbath-school, with a kind word of encouragement ever ready when needed.

As a friend the deceased was liberal with advice and assistance; as a citizen, upright and honorable; as a Christian, one whose conduct will bear initation. His loss will be regretted by all classes of the community, and since his lamented death the common expression by our citizens has been, 'He is the one whom we could least spare. Who shall fill his place?'"

William Thew, of Claridon township, was born in Lincolnshire, England, April 1, 1791, and enigrated to America in 1823. He came to Claridon with other English families, among whom were William Dickson, Robert Boulton, Vincent Douce, John Hootan, Mr. Sergeant, William Parker, Hugh Osborne, Henry Hatfield, William, John, Michael, and George Welbourn, Matthew Fields, with his sons John, Joseph, Matthew, and Henry, and several daughters, George Bayles, Mr. Warwick, and others, all settling within a few miles of each other; nearly all of them became farmers in the strictest sense of the word, and were industrious, economical, and contented, of whom nearly all have passed through the valley and shadow of death, leaving this world none the worse for laving been in it. Prominent among all these stood Mr. Thew, as a model farmer, a discreet counsellor among his neighbors, and a charitable Christian philanthropist. As is well known, Mr. Thew and his estimable lady were for years keeping an asylum for the helpless and the needy, and their house looked more like a public hospital than like a private furmer's dwelling. It was often a matter of surprise how Mr. and Mrs. Thew could endure the fatigue of rising from their slumbers at any and all times of night or day to minister to their sick and dying friends in their advanced stage of life; they were never heard to utter a murmur or complaint, having no children of their own. Mrs. Thew died some ten or twelve years ago, and Mr. Thew still lives at the advanced age of eighty-seven years, and is still quite vigorous and active.

Jacob Howser was born at Mayslick, Mason County, Ky. When ten years old he moved to Ohio, and located at Carliz, Harrison County. In 1852 he removed with his family to this county, and settled near Claridon village. He is a very successful farmer, and has taken a great interest in the improvement of stock. He was one of a company of three, known as the Marion Importing Company, who imported a number of excellent foreign horses that were sold in most every State in the Union. He visited France three times to make purchases and still owns Prince Imperial, a horse imported by the company, that has successfully contended for prizes at different fairs in the State, and at the Ohio State Fair in 1871, held at Springlield, this horse took the prize of three hundred dollars, against sixty horses in the same class. He has taken many other prizes of equal importance.

Mr. Howser does not devote all his attention to any one kind of stock, but on his farm will be found some of the finest blooded cuttle in the State, as well as the finest sheep. He has also devoted much money and time to the introduction of the best breeds of hogs. There is no doubt that Mr. Howser is one of the best judges of stock in the country, and all stock raisers would do well to visit his farm and examine the different kinds, all of the best quality as to breed and form. His principal production is wool. His motto is "work," and as a result financial success crowns his labors, and each year adds a new farm to the old homestead.

LAPAYETTE J. HOLVERSTOTT was born March 21st, 1837, being the second son of Henry Holverstott, one of the early settlers of Marion County. He was married March 24th, 1863, to Miss Frances E. Painter, and died at his home November 8th, 1877, on the same farm where he was born. He was one of the leading farmers of the township, and previous to his death had built a beautiful residence, a view of which will be found in this volume.

WILLIAM GARBERSON was born December 20th, 1797, in Westmoreland County, Pa. Was married to Miss Eleanor Slator October 24th, 1820, and moyed to what is now Claridon township, Marion County, Ohio, in March, 1823. He settled near where Caledonia now is, and started a tannery. Capt. George Beckley thus relates the circumstance:—

"Just about this time, in the spring of 1823, down dropped the right man in the right place. It was no less a personage that Billy Garberson, with his wife and one baby, Rebecca. He was the man to supply the place made vacant by the death of Mr. Norton. He very fortunately brought a small supply of leather with him. He built a cabin on the hill north of the brick house low stands. He commenced by burning his own lime on a large log-heap, and grinding his bark with a wooden bark-mill; and that was just about on an equality with blowing the chaff out of our wheat with a sheet. It was sloue in this wise: He first made a puncheon floor about twelve or fourteen feet in diameter, and grinding his bark with a wooden bark-mill; and that was just about on an equality with blowing the claff out of our wheat with a sheet. It was done in this wise: He first made a puncheon floor about twelve or fourteen feet in diameter, then a wooden wheel of hewn timber six or seven feet in diameter, then a wooden wheel of hewn timber six or seven feet in diameter, about twelve inches thick, near the shape of a huge mill-stone, with a hole and axle through the centre; one end of this axle was fastened into a vertical revolving shaft in the centre of the floor, and old Pete hitched to the other end, outside of the wheel, then the bark to be ground was thrown on the floor in the track of this great wheel, and by the time Pete had rolled this Juggernaut around over the bark for a few hours he would have a bushel or two of bark tolerably well ground. This is a fair sample of the bark mills in general use throughout the country about that time. As soon as Mr. Garberson legan to supply the people with leather, shoos, and subsequently boots began to supply the place of moceasins. We have often known him to do a full day's work on his farm, or attend a raising or log-rolling, then go into his tannery and work during the larger portion of the night, as he had a large amount of business of that kind to do. There were not many beves killed, but the murrain prevailed much more than it has since the ponds and swamps have been drained, besides there were a great many hogs' hides to be tanned. The hogs usually strayed away so far from home, and soon became so wild that the only way was to shoot them, and dress them by flaying instead of scalding and scraping or shaving them; and it was not uncommon to see the leather of some of the older subjects, in some parts, more than a half-inch in thickness. Tabout the same time we also had a neighbor who had a fair amount of talent in the composition of poetry, in the person of Alanson Packard, Esq. At some eventful moment he hapened to awaken his muse, and composed a song culogizi turned into wine was, but now that Armstrong had turned it into whiskey, rum, and brandy.' The next point was for this same kind of 'water he had paid full thirty-seven cents per pound in Garberson leather.' Now we think both of our neighbors were entitled to many grains of allowance. If Mr. Armstrong had the faculty of turning water into those liquids, I always found them plenty strong enough for my use whenever I tasted them.

"I have many times seen Mr. Garberson's customers approach him saying:—

"'Have you my leather out yet?'

"'No, it is not tanned enough yet.'

"But we must have shoes. The weather is getting cold, and we are all barefooted,' holding up his foot with only an apology for a shoe on it; 'these are all the shoes I have.'

"Well, I can take it out of the vat and finish it for you, but it is not tanned as it should be.'

"At other times customers came there to buy leather, and were informed that he had some leather in the shop, but it was not yet dry enough. He shows him several sides of sole leather; customer says:—

"I have heard him have many such dialogues, always leaving it to the judgment of the customer to say what he thought was right. Uncle Billy always enjoyed a joke very much, but he relished them much the most when they were gotten up at some other person's expense; and this was one way that others returned the compliment at his expense. But be that as it may, his institution was a vast benefit to a large portion of Marion County. I think he went two trips with a team to Zanesville for salt. He had the advantage of his neighbors, as he could exchange leather for salt, as they were both cash articles; then, after supplying his own wants, he would dispense the remainder among his needy neighbors, and I doubt whether he has received pay for near all of it to this day.
"The Indians were frequent callers at Uncle Billy's cabin, to exchange meat for salt or meal. They were always very friendly with him."

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.

The first settlements in this township were made on the Whielstone, Grave Creek and Grape Run, a tributary of Grape Creek. Beginning at the old boundary, or Greenville Treaty Line, was Mr. Staley, from Perry County, P.a., who had settled there previous to the full of 1821. The next cabin above was occupied by Henry Worline, who built a mill, since known as the Oborn mill. Near this place there lived a Mr. Book and Mr. Lust, from Germany, who were the pioneers of the thriving and populous German settlements of Richland and Pleasant townships. East of Worline's mill subsequently came Mr. Jacoby, also from the "Vaderland." His son, Michael Jacoby, now lives on a fine furm directly east of this mill. Next above the mill stood the cabin of Daniel Oborn. Then came Daniel Worline, just above the mouth of Grave Creek. The first election in the township was held at his house in 1822, at which time William Crawford was elected justice of the peace. Next was the house of Joseph Oborn. This was quite an aristocratic looking edifice when compared with the surrounding settlement. It was built of beautiful, straight, young sugar maple logs, very nicely hewn, the first of the kind in that section. Usually the cabins were "raised" without even taking the bark off, and the inhabitants considered themselves favored if they could have the inside walls seutched down a little with a broad axe. The next cabin was where Mr. Clark, an old Revolutionary soldier, lived. His son, Israel Clark, was one of the pioneer school teachers of Marion County. Next was William W. Smith, who, in connection with his farm, carried on the blacksmith trade. Next in order was John Emerry, who dipl a few years ago at a ripe old age. His brother livid and died on the east side of the creek. Next was the cabin of Aunt Amelia Rogers, a widow with one son, Alexander, and several daughters. Next above was John Gilson, near where Jacoh Retterer now lives. East of the river lived Thomas Rogers and Annasa Gleason, near where George Hinaman now lives. Next above li tions of usefulness.

John Waddel settled, about 1821, on the farm now owned by his son, Samuel Waddel, Esq. Among those who settled on Grave Creek were Mr. Saylor, Andrew Kepner, and Job and Jeremiah Blockson.

The foregoing embraces the settlements from 1821 to 1827, when a strong title of German immigration set in and continued for several years. They came with willing hearts and strong arms, before whom the gribs, the brush, the old logs, and the giant oaks had to vanish and make room for the plow, the spade, and the hoe.

The first death in the Jownship was that of Mr. Klinger. The spring of 1821 was very cold and backward, so that no planting could be done till June. Having a wife and five or six children to support, his money and provisions giving out, he became discouraged and drowned himself in the Whetstone. The township was organized June 8th, 1824. Thomas Rogers was elected justice of the peace October 12th, 1824, at which time the township polled twenty-nine votes for Governor. Morrow receiving twenty-three and Trimble six.

The first marriage was Owen Moore and Miss Zubie Wilcox. The ceremony was performed by Squire Crawford, and for his few Moore was to water two hadden with Schoett a Corward.

The first marriage was Owen Moore and Miss Zubie Wicox. The ceremony was performed by Squire Crawford, and for his fee Moore was to make two hundred rails. Shortly afterward Moore went to the Squire and complained that the fee was too high, and he would not pay it. He declared he would never make the rails, and the Squire could untle the knot. Soon after Moore left his young wife and ran away. The circumstance was noticed, in a paper published at Delaware, thus :—

Owen Moore has rnn away, Owin' more than he can pay."

"Owen Moore has me away, Owin' more than he can pay."

The soil of this township is very rich and productive. The improvements are good, the houses substantial and comfortable, and the harns large and convenient.

Mr. Joseph Morris has an extensive nursery, and raises a large variety of standard and dwarf trees, as well as ornamental trees, shrubbery, etc. He thus relates of his early experience: "My great-grandfather, George A. Morris (Scotchman), came to America about 1680; when a youth settled in New Jersey. My grandfather, Anthony Morris, had fourteen children, several of whom had families. My parents, Joseph and Rachel Morris, had twelve children. Eleven lived to maturity—at present only four survive. My parents with their funily removed from New Jersey to Obio, and settled in Columbiana County in 1821, which was then comparatively new. We built our cabin in the woold, My father lived but a few years after our settlement there. My marriage with Jane Warrington took place in 1823. In 1837 we removed with our little family of three children and settled in Richland township, Marion County, on the land where we now reside. We now have seven children—one in lowa, two in East Tennessee, the rest near by and at home.

"Our means of support while clearing the farm was limited. Wild game was plenty, especially turkeys and deer. I remember of trapping, in a pen made of rails, twenty-six well-grown turkeys in one winter. A portion of these we salted and dried. This the Indians called 'jerk.' These advantages, together with the generous kindness of our few neighbors, made our situation quite comfortable. One evening, while seated upon a log not far from our cabin, these lines presented themselves to my mind with animated force, and were often remembered afterwards when discouragements would present themselves:—

"' We are here on Marion soil, Far from our kind relations; The hope of rest makes light our toil And lesseus some privations."

And lessens some privations."

"One evening as I was chopping wood for the fire, a respectable appearing German man came to me. He was lost, and had wandered in the twilight of the evening hunting some trail by which he might find his way home. Not being acquainted with each other's language, we were unable to converse. I took him into the house, and my wife prepared a comforfable supper for him. At bedtime I made signs for retirement, The next morning I learned by him what neighborhood he belonged to, and after breakfast went home with him. He is yet my neighbor, and of the first class. He is now nearly ninety years old, with his wife still living, and no less Christian than himself.

"In 1843 I commenced the nursery business, in which I have continued ever since, and should I forget the kindness manifested to me in this undertaking at that early date, I should be ungrateful indeed. My dear friends of Marion, Upper Sandusky, Maryaville, and clsewhere, some of whom are still living, nided me much by their recommendations and general interest, which placed me nicely before the people. And I may also acknowledge with gratitude the many blessings and signal favors of our Divine Creator for his protecting care in the past, and even now at the advanced age of seventy-four years."

WALDO TOWNSHIP.

The township was originally called Marlborough, and changed in name after the laud sales to Waldo.

Capt. William S. Drake located on a quarter of land in said township about 1807. His son Uriah was tomahawked by the Indians, in 1811, near Lower Sandusky. The Drake family were on the outskirts of the Delaware County settlements, and adjacent to the old Greenville treaty line, and, as has been stated elsewhere, Capt. Drake was drafted in the war of 1812, and his family took shelter of nights, in times of danger, at Fort Morrow, then Wyatt's. The first settlers were the Brundiges and Wyatts, who entered the thomship as early as 1806. In 1812 Nathaniel Brundige was elected first lieutenaut of the first company organized to defend the border, being that of Capt. Wm. S. Drake. Daniel S. Drake, now well advanced in years, states that the first death in the township was that of Lavina Bush in 1803. She was about seventy-five years of age—the funeral sermon was preached by Elder William Brundige, an old-school Baptist. The next was that of Col. Flinn, wounded, when on his way home on furlough, in Grand Prairie township. Three other soldiers were wounded at the same time, and died at Fort Morrow, and were buried at the old Wyatt cemetery The first justice of the peace was John Milligan; he was also the first school-teacher, and was an officer in the war of 1812, and died at Chillicothe. Before the war two Wyandot families resided in the Quawqua valley, on the farm now occupied by Addison Taerner. Their names were John Standingstone and Dittawana, the latter of whom was the largest Indian I ever saw. He alterwards lived at Upper Sandusky, was appointed chief, and was killed by two Canadian Indians in front of his own wigwam while lying on a puncheon at rest. They accused him of killing their father twenty years before, and stabbed him to death out of revenge. This was in 1816. They returned to Canada.

After peace a good saw-mill was built on Whetstone in this ordering.

After peace a good saw-inill was built on Whetstone in this township. There were but two grist-mills on Whetstone in this township. There were but two grist-mills on Whetstone in this township. There were but two grist-mills on Whetstone in this Delaware, and one two and a half miles below Delaware, built in what is now Stratford, by Col. Mecker. These accommodated people for a long distance. The land sales occurred about 1821, prior to which a good many squatters settled north of the Greenville line, among whom were Jacob Idleman, William Holmes, and David H. Beardsly, who became associate judge after Marion County was organized.

The site of Waldo formerly belonged to Robert Hayes, father of President R. B. Hayes, of Baltimore, Md. It contained about one section. It lay as commons for a number of years, and at last Mr. Hayes let it self for taxes. Eliza Porter, from the State of New Yofk, bought one hundred acres where Waldo now stands, and tips other part eastaf the Whetstone is known, as the Dickont farm. Waldo was hid out in 1831 by Milo D. Pettihone, and named after his son Waldo. Mr. Pettihone built several small houses, and a double-hewed log tavern, the house now occupied by Mr. John Lunger. The first store in Waldo was kept by McCasky. The first physician was Dr. Lewis. The first blacksmith was James Patterson. Captain William S. Drake served as associate judge in Delaware County for a period of fourteen years. He also carried the mail from Delaware to what is now Freunont four years, at a period when there was but one white man between Waldo and Fremont, John Walker, a half-blood. He also carried the mail the next four years from Worthington to Fremont, and the following eight years from Columbus to the same point. He takes great pride in exhibiting stock at county fairs, and is rewarded by many prizes.

hy Capt. Taylor in the war of 1812, was situated in front of Brundige's cabin on Nathaniel Wyatt's land. Mr. Wyatt-kept hotel in a brick building inside the breastworks of this fort. The early settlers, to be safe from attacks by the Indians, were compelled to seek refuge inside of the fort every night. Traces of the fort are still to be seen on its old site one mile south of Waldo village.

"Other early settlers were Isnac Bush and Hira Wilcox, who settled on the banks of the Whetstone shortly after the Brundiges and Wyatts. Joseph Curran and family settled in 1809. David Curran was born in this township in 1822. The first death that occurred in the neighborhood was that of Ellen Reed, a little child, in Delaware County. Ruth Wyatt was the first to die in what is now Marion County. The first marriage was that of Thomas Van Horn and Sarah Wyatt. The first saw-mill erected in this township was built by Henry Shaffer, on the site of the present Waldo mills. Shaffer sold the mill and mill-site to Nathaniel Wyatt, who put up the first grist-mill, which was known as Wyatt's mill. It has been succeeded by the Waldo mills. The first school was held in a house built for William Wyatt's residence, and was taught by Sophia Clark in 1809. Religious meetings were held in dwelling houses, school-houses, etc., for a long time. David Dudley ordained the first church (Free-will Baptist) in the house now occupied by Mrs. Levinah Dudley.

"The first cemetery is situated on the west bank of Whetstone Greek, on the old Nathaniel Wyatt farm, and is known as the Wyatt graveyard. In it are buried the first settlers of this county; also, about a dozen brave soldiers of the war of 1812, two of whom fell in a fight with the Indians on the northwest bank of the Little Scioto River, near where the Marion and Upper Sandusky road Toroses the same. When found, the heart of one was lying on the body of the other. Others died of sickness; some two or three were taken care of by Mr. Brundige of Delaware. Col. Kilbourn also laid out Bucyrus; he coal. The number of places where human bones have been dug up in this neighborhood are many, and in every instance they lie on a bed of charcoal."

TULLY TOWNSHIP.

This township was organized and named March 4th, 1828. The first white settlers were John Johnson, Jacob Stateler, Mr. Cliee, and Alanson Packard. All have left the county. The Johnsons, Statelers and Clines mostly followed trapping and hunting. Johnson felled the first tree and built the first abin, John Williamson built the first frame house, and Jotham Clark the first brick house in the township. Widow Boynton, with her daughter Cornelia and son A. A., settled in Tully in 1824. The first marriage was that of John Parcel to Mercy Manly, at the house of Solomon T. Wilkinson. The first death was that of Rev. Josiah Packard, a Baptist minister and a revolutionary soldier. He died at what is called Clyde, so named by Alanson Packard, from an old song, "The Banks of the Clyde," sung by Samuel Haislet, a young man who came to the township with Father Beckley, from Pennsylvania, in 1821.

The first grist-mill was that of Jotham Clark on the middle fork of Whetstone. The early settlers generally produced their grinding at Wyatt's mill, below Waldo, and at Delaware and on Owl Creek, Knox County.

The first lumber used was puncheons made by splitting logs into flat pieces of suitable thickness, and hewing them smooth enough for use. For doors and other work, where lighter material was required, the boards were rived and shaved.

The first saw mills were Rangania Sharrack's near theria.

enough for use. For doors and other work, where lighter material was required, the boards were rived and shaved.

The first saw mills were Benjamin Sharrack's, near Iberia, and Royce's at Claridon.

The chief articles of trade were beeswax, honcy, deer skins, and furs. Merchandise was usually bought at Pittsburgh and Wheeling, after being first brought on wagons from Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The following is a copy of the first poll book of Tully township: "Poll book of the election held in the township of Pully, in the county of Marion, on the 24th day of May, 1828. Henry Parcel, Noah Lee, and John Buckley, judges; James H. Larrabee and William Van Buskirk, clerks.

"Names of Voters.—Henry Parcel, Noah Lee, John Lindsny, J. B. Packard, William Van Buskirk, George Beckley, Henry D. Parcel, Benjamin Warner, Adam Hipshire, John Rudd, James Decker, Amos A. Boynton, John Beckley, Chas. Larrabee, Adam Hipshire, Sr., James Likins, George Walton, James Larrabee, Daniel Smith, Simon Van Horn, Jr., Amariah Thorp, Jason Gleeson, James H. Larrabee, Alanson Packard, Daniel Parcel, William D. Parcel, John Parcel, John Jamison, Nathan Arnold, Simon Van Horn, Sr.—30 in all."

The election was for two justices of the peace. Alanson Packard received twenty-two votes, Jamison and Warner fourteen each, and by lot Jamison obtained a majority, and he and Packard were declared elected.

Packard evidently had some dry fun in him, as shown by the following extract from the record of the marriage of Norton B. Royce and Eunice M. Dexter, March 14th, 1832.

"An awkward, ungainly, long-legged pair, lly me in marriage joined wers.
lly sages wise it has been said
That matches, all, above are made;
If so, these ones in heaven have been,
(fol knows they'll never go again.
h, 1832.

Alanson Packard, J. P." March 24th, 1832,

Other early settlers were John McNeal and family, Benjamin Masters, James Decker, Wm. Irven and John McKinstry. John McKinstry was born in Ireland, and came to this country with his father, Nathaniel McKinstry, when but eighteen months old. They settled in Bucks County, Pa., in 1775, and from there moved to Franklin County, Pa. In 1807 John was married to Miss Mary Patton, and the same year moved to Washington County, Pa., where he remained till 1833, when he moved to this country and settled in Tully township, having a family of four children. Here he remained the balence of his days, enduring the hardships and privations of pioneer life. The family are extensively known for their hospitality and jovial nature. His son Matthew still resides in the old homestead.

Tully is the northeast corner township of the county, is well watered, and has but little waste land. The surface is a little rolling, and the soil sandy, well adapted for raising wheat

Three Locusts is a small village near the centre of the township, has three stores, a steam saw-mill, and a shoe-shop.

REMINISCENCES OF THE EARLY SETTLEMENT OF THE WHETSTONE VALLEY, MARION COUNTY, OHIO.

BY CAPT. GEO. BECKLEY.

(Published in the "Caledonia Argus," in 1875.)

(Published in the "Caledonia Argus," in 1875.)

On the 12th day of October, A. D. 1821, my father, John. Beckley, with my mother and eight children, of whom I was the eldest (not yet seventeen years old), after a weary drive of twenty-five days, via Circleville from Northumberland County, Pa., arrived at Wyatt's tavern, the last brick house on that road in northwestern Ohio—a half mile above Norton and about two miles south of the old boundary line, and known in history as the Greenville Treaty line. Here had been a fort called Fort Morrow, used during the war of 1812.

Mr. Wyatt very kindly tendered us the use of one of the block-houses of the fort as a shelter until we could select a lot of land, and build a cabin. The next morning found us in our temporary home, without a bedstead, table, chair, or any furniture; but in contrast with this seeming privation, we were visited by many kind neighbors, who bade us welcome to our new home, that was to be. Mr. Wyatt advised my father to go up the Whetstone where his son Daniel lived (the town of Caledonia is on part of the land he owned), and where Thomas Vanhorn (his son-in law) had a cabin, about where Mr. Koch's barn now stants. Accordingly, he mounted his horse, and wended his way through an almost trackless widerness to Wyatt's, and then and there he made his first meal on corn bread, but it was not the last one, I assure you. Mennwhile we discovered in part what kind of society we were to have "up Whetstone." Here came a half dozen or more Wyandat Indians, going into the white settlements on a trading expedition. They had their ponies loaded with divers articles of merchandise, such as cranberries, honey, splint-baskets, wooden butter-ladles, mocassins, etc., for which they took in exchange sicataw (salt , koosh-koosh (hog or pork), na-hali (meal), flour, or almost anything in the shape of clothing or implements. They were very curious and friendly—would sinke hands with every one and say, "how-a-muttera." We took it for granted that these were no had or profa

the windows, and two ash boards from Norton, of which we made a door and table.

Then we cut down a walnut tree, and cut and split out timber for bedisteads, chairs, frames, and any other furniture we might choose to make. Now comes the tag of war—a well to dig and wall without stone or bricks, so we must dig it square and wall it with timber, and that spoils the water terribly, but it must be endured for the present.

In less than a month after our arrival there were seven more families on section thirty-six, three of the Parcel and four of the Packard families.

About that time Daniel Worline had settled at the mouth of Grave Creek, Amasa Glenson where George Retterer now lives, Mr. Herrington on the Piotner farm, helow the Charidon township line; old Mr. Stuart, with several of his sons' families.

About that time Daniel Worline had settled at the mouth of Grave Creek, Amasa Glenson where George Retterer now lives, mile below Claridon; Jacob and Henry Aye, where Mrs. James Donce now lives, Mr. Gloyd and Mr. Gaylord on Muskrat run, near the Noshit school-house; Joseph Riley and John Roberts, Esq., on the lands now owned by T. W. Roberts, The next were old Mr. Allen, Seth, John, and Hiram on the John Thew lot, and Henry Parcel, near where the Thew bridge is now. Mr. Parcel was a representative man in our settlement, and will have to bear a conspicuous part in our narrative. He soon after removed up to near the mouth of Muddy run. He had afready built several cabins in the settlement. He had a whespread notoriety for his frequent removals. He once removed to Knox County, and in a year or two came back to the old farm again. When it was not in every way suitable to remove to a great distance, he would remove his buildings to some other part of the farm, he had a young orchard which was never to do things hy halves, but always to make fluished johs. At one time, when he had removed his habitation to another part of the farm, he had a young orchard which was negating to bear, and not be leave the land was never to David Beadle, where Bucyrus is now; then Hosford's, or Lorenck's settlement, where Galion now is; Sharrock's settlement, where old Benjamin Sharrock yet lives, about a mile above Iberia; Harding's settlement, near Blooming Grove; Mosier's, or the Quaker settlement, above Cardington; Norton settlement, at Norton, which was our nearest post-office, and that or Mansfeld was the nearest post-office from Beadle's settlement. The next in order was the Raduor settlement, below Middletown; and, lastly, Kirby's, or Welsh's settlement, in Grand Prairie township, on the Indian trail from Owl Creek to Upper Sandusky, through where Caledonia is now.

This Indian trail was all the road we had anywhere through this region, yet all through the winter, and early spring emigrants were alighting down for settlement like Colorados on a potato patch. We must have roads from one sattlement to the other, and more especially east and south to the old settlements for flour and corn meal. As for meat, milk, butter, and vegetables, our settlements were soon self-sustaining. The modus operandi we will endeavor to give further on.

Our method of locating and opening roads—no petitions, no county commissioners, no viewers or surveyor, no thirty days' notice—but one or two professional hunters, who have chased the deer, the turkey, and the raccoon all over and over the proposed route for said road. They take an axe or two and start on a clear day, when they can see the sun, by which, instead of a compass, they take their course over the highest This Indian trail was all the road we had anywhere through and driest ground, marking the trees as they proceed, avoiding swamps or other obstructions as much as possible, and entting and removing the underbrush as they go. Now you have a road ready for horsemen or footnen; after this, the first man who was under the dire necessity of going through with a team, which usually was a young pair of steers, not very well "broke," made fast to the tongue of a two-wheeled wagon, took one or two men (the more the better) with axes to remove small trees, logs, or any other obstructions that might be in the way; and once through, our teamsters usually had the courage to think they could return by the same road.

Bridges over streams of water or causeways, over mucholes between here and Mosier's mill, or the "big road," where Waldo is now, were wholly unknown for many months after our arrival here. We had but one remedy for that evil, and that was, when any one started out for the Owl Creek settlement, or down towards Columbus or Laneaster, the usual places to procure flour or meal (especially in a wet time), he must not forget his axe, and when he saw a bal-looking muchole—especially with a few poles lying in it—that was to him conclusive evidence that they had been used by some misguided teamster for the purpose of lifting his wheels out of the muchole. The cantious driver now stops his ox team, which is usually a very easy thing to do; he seams the wools for a new route; he selzes his axe and vigoronsly betakes himself to opening another track around the muchole. He goes back to his wagon, takes up his whip, says, "gee, buck," and is past the muchole, not knowing or wishing to know how soon he may see the next one.

Another feature of those pioneer roads through the beech as past the multiple, not knowing of washing to know how soon he may see the next one.

Another feature of those pioneer roads through the beech woods was, that the wagon seemed to be continually jolting over the high roots near the trees; indeed, in some places, where there was much beech timber, it would seem as if their roots woods was, that the wagon seemed to be continually folding over the high roots near the trees; indeed, in some places, where there was much beech timber, it would seem as if their roots were nearly all above ground.

In the autumn or early spring of A. D. 1821, Col. James Kilbourn, of Worthington, a gentleman well known by the ploneer of Northern Ohio (a land surveyor, a writer of poetry, and also had the reputation of being a good ballad singer), came up the Otentangee to a point a few miles east of the centre of Marion County, taid out a town in the woods near the west bank of the above named river, in Canaan township, as it was then called, naming this village Charidon, not forgetting to compose a beautiful song about "Sweet Claridon," wherein the charming and enchanting beauties of nature were most eloquently and vividly described. Several settlers were living near this point, as it was expected that the county seat must be located not many miles "from this very spot," among whom were Amos Earl, Joseph Hornby, Joshua B. Bearse, James Lambert, and others. And the prospect of the county seat soon attracted inmitgrants to this new village. A commolions hotel was soon ereteil; it was a long eabin, with one or two log partitions with door-ways sawel out an I checked up. They were usually made of round logs, then, after they were up, the bark, and sometimes a little of the wood on the inside of the wall scutched off with a broad axe. In a few instances we have known them to hew the outside in the same way; but whether this cabin was hewn on the outside we do not remember, but George Shippy was the enterprising host of this ploneer hotel, and simultaneously came. Ansel Matoon from Worthington, a blacksmith, Mr. Broman, a cabinet-maker, and before a twelve-month had passed he had received several orders for coffins. And here also came Ansel Matoon from Worthington, a blacksmith, Mr. Broman, a cabinet-maker, and hefore a twelve-month had passed he had received several orders for coffins. And here also came Ansel Mat

Bucyrus; he made another song, and could sing it on all proper occasions.

In the spring of 1821 our branch of Whetstone overflowed its banks several times, and I do not think there was a bridge over that stream from its source to its confluence with the Scioto. After the waters had subsided, the settlers resolved that a bridge must be built over the Olentangee.

Mr. Henry Parcel was understood to be the architect and engineer in chief of this great enterprise. Accordingly, at the next cabin raising (of which we usually had several every week), due notice was given of the time and place, and all hands were to be on the ground early; some with their teams (oxen of course) and log clinin, others with axes, maul and iron wedges, also a few shovels and loes. Now mind—there was no allowances made for delinquencies other than absolute necessities. Uncle Henry, as he was familiarly called, was on hand betimes with all his available force, his four elder sons, John, Dan, Jim, and Henry, and two sons-in-law, Nathan and Martin. The Packard connection came up in about equal force; there was old Joshua, an old soldier of the Revolution, Bruce Alanson, Phin Resh, J. Gearson, Sol. Wilkinson, Lon. Alonzo and Con. Bacon—these were the Parcel and Pack-and tribes; some were detailed with shovels and loes levelling the foundation for the abutments, others chopping the logs for same, and right here were the oxen looking at the logs, and ready to drag them up as soon as they were chopped off. Then there were other men ready to fit and build both abutments without delay, and yet other parties were at work with their mains and wedges, splitting the puncheons to be laid down as soon as the timbers should be placed on the abutments, and before night we had a bridge over the Oleutangee that withstood that turbulent stream for many long years. A brief on thee of the way we made us of our time during the first winter we passed in our new homes in the then Par West. As you will readily understand, very few could bring any household furniture with them, especially when a family of from faur to cight or to members came four or for unimizing any household furniture with them, especially when a family of from faur to cight or to members came four or four immigrants came here just in that way. The first thing to do was to divey opor team near a large, fallen tree near where the cabin was to be built. Now all is in motion; a temporary salelter is quickly constructed; logs must be cut to built the eabin; some of the neighbors (in some places, several miles distant) come to see the newcomers, and, if desired, might on the morrow be seen, some with axes, a crossent saw and a frow, coming, and before the sun's down a large tree has been cut, sawed and riven into claphoarias—enough for the roof. Notice having here circulated, in a day or two the cabin is raised and the roof put on, always on the same day, and we often flushed the task by two or three of chock, and played a few games of townball afterwarks; next the puncheons were to be split and here for the chinner, and the walls alrege and the walls and here of the part to made and the roof put on, always on the same day, and we often flushed was an appropriate name for that exercise. After the mud was well mixed for the jams, b

Not only were wild game and bees plenty here, but hogs also.

No matter how tame they were when brought here, as soon as the mast began to fall they would stray off and become wild by being constantly frightened and harassed by men who wild by being constantly frightened and harassed by men who were hunting their pigs. Every person having cattle or pigs had his peculiar ear-mark recorded by the township clerk.

To-day you have a dozen or more flue, fat hogs which have been about home every day of their lives, to-morrow they don't come, and you never hear of them again.

This compelled parties who had lost their hogs to offer a large premium for their recovery; and that was no less than one-half, which was freely given. This fine prospect for gain brought numbers of hog hunters into the field, but strange to tell, quite a large number of those benevolent pig hunters either forgot or were otherwise prevented from returning to the owners their half, but quietly and carefully salted them all down, asking no questions.

the owners their half, but quietly and carefully salted them all down, asking no questions.

We will now bring to your view another scene, contrasting joy with sorrow, hope with despair and disappointment. Every family was here in the wild woods on their first trial to raise food for future support. No one had so much as a potato patch until he cleared a field in the green woods; and it was a hard task to get from three to five acres of ground ready for the plow in proper season for our spring crops. All the trees over eighteen inches in diameter were usually left standing, and deadened by chopping a girdle through the bark and sapwood of each tree.

pwood of each tree. After our cornfield, of four or five acres (and but few had more than that) was cleared, the plowing was commenced among the trees, stumps, and roots, and with such plows! all with wooden mould boards. Many farmers made their own among the trees, stimps, and roots, and with such plows; in with wooden mould boards. Many farmers made their own plows, for the very good reason that there was not a mechanic of that kind within twenty miles of here that we knew of. As the corn is planted, here are all sorts of birds and squirrels, black squirrels, gray squirrels, red squirrels, and ground squirrels, digging after it; but fortunately potatoes, beans, and other vegetables, were not molested. As soon as the corn began to have ears, all these pests came down, and many fields were nearly or totally consumed by them, excepting what was consumed hy the families before the grain was ripe. We continued shooting them until there was no more ammunition to be had either in Delaware or Mansfield, our nearest stores; then Daniel Parcel and I attacked them in Indian style with bows and arrows, and succeeded tolerably well even in that way. Our whole population was compelled to depend upon the old settlements for their breadstuffs for another year at least, and but few having either money or means to buy with, left no other way but for the most able-bodied member of the household to go where he could obtain grain for work, and in this way procure bread for his family.

This scarcity of grain was another cause of our hogs straying off and becoming wild. There was no corn to winter them on, consequently they must go to the woods and procure their own subsistence, and when we wanted a piece of pork we had to seek, but were not always sure to find, but when we did find them they were usually fat enough to kill at any time of the year.

Our cattle usually came through the winter on wild hay in tolerable condition, if it was well put up, and we gave them

Our eattle usually came through the winter on wild hay in tolerable condition, if it was well put up, and we gave them plenty of it.

Next year our prospects began to look much brighter. We had now more than double the acreage of cleared lands, and most of the last year's cornfields had been sown to wheat, which looked promising for a bountiful harvest. Our good people determined on making an attempt at curtailing the rayages of the squirrels on our incoming crops, and for this purpose a squirrel hunt was proposed, and a committee appointed to make the necessary arrangement. A subscription paper was circulated, and each one subscribed as many bushels of corn as he thought proper, to be paid the next fall, then the prizes were arranged accordingly. The man who produced the largest number of squirrel scalps took the highest prize, and so on, the hunting to continue two days. On the afternoon of the second day the scalps were to be counted and the several prizes awarded. It also came to pass that this committee, or some other committee, had provided a full supply of whiskey, maple sugar, and eggs; whereupon another committee was appointed to mix, mingle, and commingle those three ingredients into a fluid which they called egg-nog. It was a time long to be remembered; and it has often been said that there was but one man who left that place soler, and that was Daniel Parcel, who had never been known to take a dram. This summer brought us our first wheat harvest, and it did not come before it was needed, as flour and commenced had become scarce. We cut some sheaves, threshed them, winnowed the chaff out, boiled the wheat, and ate it with milk. We lived on that kind of food, while we cut and stacked nearly all of our first crop. Now, as soon as the wheat was dry enough to grind, there were other things to be learned. The first was to make a threshing floor. This was done by shovelling off the surface of the ground, throwing some water on, and tramping it down as smooth as possible. Some would thresh it out with flail sheet, blowing the chaff out, and doing it tourrably well too. sheet, blowing the chaff out, and doing it tolerary went too. But flapping that sheet is very fattiguing work, often producing blisters on the flagers in a few moments. After the wheat was cleaned, the next thing to be done was to yoke the oxen, hitch to a cart or a pair of wheels, load up and start for Mount Vernon, to mill; and there would be plenty of our good neighbors impatiently awaiting our return in order to borrow some flour.

After the death of Mr. Norton, the tanner, at Claridon, the settlers were much in need of a tanner, as leather was a cash article, and no stores as yet nearer than Mansfield and Delaware, until Mr. A. Holmes brought a few goods to Marion, and E. B. & Charles Merriman commenced with a small shop in Bucyrus. Most of their goods were then brought from Pittsburgh on wagons; and after a two-horse wagon load of goods, wares, and merchandise were piled up and exposed to the view of customers, it was a rare sight. But not many years after, it sometimes so happened, that a five or six horse-team would be driven up to the door of a store-room in Marion or Bucyrus, which had been laden at Baltimore or Philadelphia, and brought all the way over rivers, montains and valleys, without change, right fresh from headquarters, in less than four weeks, "cheaper than the cheapest!" (No middle men in the case.) Sole leather 37½ cents per 1b., bar iron 11 cents, nails 12½ cents, muslins and prints 25 to 27½ cents and, etc. After the death of Mr. Norton, the tanner, at Claridon, the

The pioneers of Marion County did not suffer from chills and fevers alone, but another form of disease more to be dreaded than the fevers was that fearful seourge, the milk sickness, which was most fatal in the rich valleys of the Cuquaw and Grave creeks, where there were but few families which did not experience more or less of the fearful effects of this terrible disease, either on man or beast. But few of the people being acquainted with its effects, its cure or preventive, and having but few physicians (and at first none that I remember of), and when the first ones came here they were mostly unacquainted with it, a large per cent, of these cases proved fatal. Some parents would go or send to Mt. Vernon, Delaware, Mansfield, Columbus, or Laneaster, and provide a supply of jalap, calomel, "tartar mattix," etc., and doctor their families and neighbors; others would boil a kettle full of butternut bark and make up a hatch of butternut pills, or dig up a quantity of blue flag, culver, mayapple or blood root, pulverize and swallow them, or take them in pills or decoction, just as might suit the fancy of the giver or receiver. But this state of things did not long continue. We soon had plenty just as might suit the fancy of the giver or receiver. But this state of things did not long continue. We soon had plenty of doctors traversing the highways and byways so much that any one who wished to be doctored could be so treated to his heart's content.

The next year, 1824, Dr. Lee, from Mount Vernon, came to our relief. He brought his family, and resided in the Vanhorn cabin, before mentioned. From that time on we were not unusually afflicted with sickness.

About this time Amariah and John Thorp built a saw-mill usually afflicted with sickness.

About this time Amariah and John Thorp built a saw-mill about four miles above where Caledonia now is, and still further up the stream another was put in operation by Mr. Eberhart, and several others were built on the Middle Fork by Jacob Rice, Win. Shafer, Benjamin Masters, John McKinstry, Benjamin Sharrock and others. All the above-named mills were driven by water power, and consequently there was not enough water in those streams to keep them in operation during more than half the year, thereby causing our enterprising fellow-citizens to erect another class of flouring mills, to be propelled by horse power. Of these there were two kinds, one was by hitching four horses to the arms of the master wheel, similar to the horse-powers used at the present day; the other kind was by the tread-wheel. The first mills of this kind we remember of were Adams', below Bucyrus; Snyder's and Adrian's, northwest of where Gallon now is, and in a few years there were plenty of them throughout the "region round about," and usually, when we took a grist to one of them, and it was ground, and the toll taken out, it often so transpired that there was not much left for the poor customer to take home, and that not superfine XXX; but that was better than the hominy block or the hand-inill.

In the autumn of 1823 or 1824, our good old sires conceived the idea of inaugurating an English school. The site of the "school-house" was in Mr. Charles Larrabee's field, about ter rods southwest of where Mr. Sultivan S. Place's house now stands.

The next move was a day appointed to commence the struc-

The next move was a day appointed to commence the structure. The logs were twenty-four feet long. The foundation was laid the first day, and several rounds of logs notched down, and in a few days we had the model school-house for all the "region round about." It was composed of round logs, but the logs on the inside were slightly hewn down with a broadaxe. The floors were of puncheons split out of logs and hewn, leaving a fireplace in the centre of the room, with a chimney in the shape of an inverted funnel over it. The upper floor was made of the same kind of plank as the lower one, the only difference being that the joints in the upper floor were filled and besomeared with mud, making the room very warm and comfortable.

We had three windows, two of paper and one of glass. They were arranged in this wise: On the east and west sides a log was cut out of the wall, and small sticks of wood set in about ten inches apart, and paper pasted to the logs and to those sticks serving in the place of window-sash. The paper was then well besmeared with raccoon's oil, through which the light would penetrate much better than without the oil. Then we had a six-pane window in the north side, filled with glass. Next in order was our school furniture. For this we cut a straight-grained linden, about two feet in diameter, and near the length of the room, split it into four planks, and hewed one face on each; the two widest ones, resting on large pins driven into the wall, served as desks, and the other two we made into long benches to sit upon. Other scats were made in the same way, with never a piece to rest our backs against. Now it may not be amiss to give a list of the householders in this school district, namely: Henry Parcel, Josiah B. Packard, Jason Gleason, John Humphrey, Solomon S. Wilkinson, William Shaffer, Samuel Spurdion, Noah Lee, John Lindsay, Adam Hipsher, John Beckley, James Larrabee, Joseph W. Larrabee, William Van Buskick, John Lee (Beech), William Garberson, Daniel Wyatt, Nathan Clark, Jacob Rice, and Benjamin Bell.

Outnerson, Daniel Wyatt, Nathan Clark, Jacob Rice, and Benjamin Bell.

I believe I had the honor of teaching the first school in the little village of Letimberville. A list of the householders of this district may be of interest for comparison with the present settlers, to wit: Henry Parcel, Peter Weyand, Christian Long, James McCauley, James Young, John Foos, Jesse Foos, Samuel J. Hill, Seth Knowles, Job McCumber, Peter Spyher, Joseph Lykins, Thomas Monnette, Martin McGowen, John Reeder, Thomas F. Johnston, Constant Bowen, Charles Wilson Mrs. Smith, Jackson Dowlind, John Vanworst, Daniel Hipsher, and William Quay. Charles Wilson kept a store and tavern; Jackson and David Dowling, carpenters; Alexander Kirkpatrick, blacksmith; Thos. M. Smith, shoemaker, etc.

Hipsher, and William Quay. Charles Wilson kept a store and tavern; Jackson and David Dowling, carpenters; Alexander Kirkpatrick, blacksmith; Thos. M. Smith, shoemaker, etc.

I taught school at Judge Idleman's cross-roads, in the winters of 1829, 1830, and 1831, at ten dollars per month and "board around." The school committee urged the propriety of having their school taught at low wages in consideration of being promptly paid on the last day of the term. That promise was kept to the letter. At that time there was but a small portion of the tuition fund raised by taxation—about from one-third to one-half—and the balance was to be paid by the householder, according to the number of days each one sent; and verily, on the afternoon of the last day of the term, after notice had been given, those householders presented themselves at the captain's office and paid each one his apportionment. The names of the householders, that I remember of, were Jacob Idleman, William Pontius, Philip Fulter, Jacob Kepnor, John James, Jr., Abraham Hardin, George Rupp, Joseph Boyd, James Johnson, John Myers, William David, Cyrus Brown, Mrs. Carpenter, John Jones, Sr., and Hiram Wilcox.

We also had other experiences on the banks of this Olontangee River. One was on a contract with William Smith, above King's mill, for a three-year old colt which he valued at thirty dollars, for which I agreed to clear seven acres of bottom land; namely, to grub it, as it was termed, and chop all the trees up to eighteen inches in diameter, chop all the to old logs, all lynd trees of all sizes, trim and chop the same as all the balance of the logs, about foutteen feet long, suitable to roll up in heaps for burning; also to burn the brush, thus to make it ready for rolling. I was terribly deceived in the amount of labor it would take to clear away those lynd trees, and there were many of them on the seven acres.

We also had the pleasure of clearing several other fields further up the creek, on section sixteen, one the farm now owned by Mr. George Retter

Once upon a time I was down the Whetstone on secular Que, upon a time I was down the Whetstone on secular business, when at nightfall I applied at Mr. George Retterer's for lodging, which was readily complied with, and in the morning, after a sumptuous breakfast, I tendered him the needful for his hospitality, which was promptly refused, saying he would take no pay from the man who cleared the first trees from the land upon which he was then raising his bread. Long live George Retterer, and may his shadow never grow less!

Long are George Retterer, and may his shadow never grow less!

At an early period of our history, Mr. William Shaffer, then living on the farm now owned by Mr. Samuel Hill, in Scott township, conceived the idea of erecting a mill, to be driven by horse power, but before it was completed he sold his lands to George Hosbaur, and bought the land now owned by Mr. Joha-Pithman, on the middle fork of Whetstone Creek, where he soon had a small grist mill in operation, and subsequently a small distillery was thereunto annexed, thereby enabling his customers to mitigate both hunger and thirst. He afterwards sold to Jacob Kistler. He next built a saw-mill on Thorn run, afterwards known as Bockoven's mill. Mr. Kistler sold his mill and still to Abraham Krisely; the next owner was David Rettick, and lastly it came into possession of Jacob Rice, About this time Hiram Morse, the next neighbor above the mill, commenced a prosecution against Mr. Rice for damages, resulting in a vexatious and protracted lawsuit, and the mill was abandoned.

About the time this mill was built, Messrs. Apt and Straw-

About the time this mill was built, Messrs. Apt and Strawman, formerly from Switzerland, settled on Thorn run, and were soon afterwards joined by Messrs. Glathart and Glause, also from Switzerland. About 1828 came Elder John Parcel from Knox County, who failed not to make his mark in the advancement of our community. He was a master mechanic at the carpenter and joiner business, and had been a Baptist minister. From him community. He was a master mechanic at the carpenter and joiner business, and had been a Baptist minister. From him several of us learned how to construct frame buildings. His method was first to make his mortises and tenons, bore the pin-holes through the mortises, put his frame together, mark his draw-bore on the tenons, take them out far enough to bore them through, then put them together and tack them with hook-pins. Square your work by the 6-8 and 10 problem in order to seribe his braces, then his work was laid out. But about that time we heard several reports of a Yankee, down East somewhere, who could frame a building without trying any of his work until he was ready to put it up, and it would all come together complete. But our carpenters would believe no such thing until they saw some crazy Yankee demonstrate the problem, then they had to "gove him up."

About 1830 Mr. Parcel bought the eighty-acre lot of Manning Richardson, and forty acres of Daniel Wyatt, on which the original town plat of Caledonia was laid out a year or two after this time. He commenced erecting a frame house for a store-room on the Boham lot, and after the house was finished Mr. L. Van Buskirk joined with him as a partner or assistant, but think he was a partner. They obtained their stock of goods of Daniel S. Norton, of Mt. Vernon. This little store, small though it was, saved us many a weary trip to Bucyrus or Marion.

Soon after the store was in operation Mr. Parcel commenced stock of goods of Daniel S. Norton, of Mt. Vernon. This little store, small though it was, saved us many a weary trip to Bucyrus or Marion.

Soon after the store was in operation Mr. Parcel commenced building a saw-mill, succeeded by a grist-mill, where F. Fisher's mill now is. He also contemplated the laying out of a town plat here, whereupon several calins were built on the contemplated town site, but the town was not legally laid out and recorded until after Mr. Parcel had sold the tract of land from the centre of Marion Street north to the half section line to W. S. Farrington and C. H. Weed, and the south part to Richard Wilson and G. P. Cherry. These gentlemen had the town plat surveyed by Samuel Holmes, named it Caledonia, and recorded it on the 11th day of April, 1834.

Mr. Farrington brought a stock of goods here in the spring of 1833, and occupied the old store-room until he built a new one on the corner now occupied by H. Hunter. About the same time Messrs. House and L. Van Buskirk opened a new firm on the east side of the street, Isaac Cherry, Esq., built the house now occupied by J. R. Riley, Josiah Boyce built a hotel at Cross's corner, Samuel Littlefield had a chair factory on the bank of the creek, but soon afterwards died and was succeeded in the business by Garry Clark, who had his turning lathie driven by dogs on a tread-wheel. Among the other pioneer mechanics were John W. Dexter and Robert McBride, shoemakers, Joseph and Charles Wooley, blacksmiths, and G. P. Cherry, tanner and currier.

Waldo, Iberia, and Letimberville, were all inaugurated at about the same time. Waldo being situated on the west bank of Whetstone, on the old Columbus and Lower Sandusky road, where the Columbus and Sandusky turnpike separates from this old road, in a rich and fertile district of country, was then thought to be a favorable site for a thriving country village about midway between Delaware and Marion, and perhaps would have been if there never had been a railroad built, but all points cannot expect to be espe

There existed about that time round about Letimberville a few specimens of the genus homo that were a caution to all honest men. They seemed to be properly organized and drilled for any task. It was not unusual for a fat hog, a heifer, bee-hive, or any other kind of "goods and shuttels" to mysteriously disappear and never more be heard from. One lustance: William Quay, after he had butchered his winter's ment, made a large quantity of sausage (for a large family) and hung them up in an outhouse to dry. On the next morning Mrs. Quay went into the old house to get a nice mess of sausage for breakfast, when lo! to her horror and to the horror of the whole family not an ource of sausage was to be found.

ing Mrs. Quay went into the old house to get a nice mess of sausage for breakfast, when lo! to her horror and to the horror of the whole family not an ounce of sausage was to be found, and never was heard of until Harvey Larrabee obtained the particulars of the whole transaction from one of the members of this organized gang of marauders in Texas. Such cases were transpiring in the neighborhood monthly or weekly, without any case ever having been detected that we remember of.

The Columbus and Sandusky Turupike was made by a company, and organized by a few speculators in and about Columbus who obtained a charter and a grant of every alternate section or tier of sections where it went through government lands. It was obtained about the year 1828. Col. James Kilbourn was one of the master spirits in this great enterprise for the benefit of the growing West. George Ulsh lives on a tier of turnpike lands; next in order was where Joshua Sechel lives; next where Capt. Knowles and the Walton farm is; next Thomas F. Johnston's and Henry Johnston's. These alternate tiers through this county were usually several miles wide—wide enough to make up for losses where the government lands had been bought. The whole distance from Columbus to Sandusky by this road was about one hundred and six miles. By the terms of this charter said road was to be made of "good and substantial material," well drained, and kept in good repair. But instead it was made of only such material as could be plowed and scraped in, composed of sods, muck, and clay. I do not remember of seeing even one wagon-load of stone or gravel that had been hadled on it from one end to the other; yet this company, after having received all those government lands, had the bold hardihood to put up toll-gates and collect the same rates of toll for travelling on their "clay pike," "mud pike," or whatever they might call it, as was charged on good ones. You may imagine what kind of a road it was in a wet season. We have often known teamsters to be compelled to call upon the neighbors to bring their teams and help them haul their wagons out of mud-holes near the tollto be compelled to call upon the neighbors to uring their and help them haul their wagons out of mud-links near the toll-gates, where they were compelled to pay toll before they were allowed to go through. This grievance having been endured a dozen or more years, we had petitious printed and circulated from one end of this road to the other, which were signed by from one end of this road to the other, which were signed by nearly every man to whom they were presented, and were sent to the care of George Sharp, of Delaware, Representative in the Legislature from this district, who had the matter investigated, which disclosed the fact that the Columbus and Sandusky Turnpike Co. had perpetrated a gigantic frand upon the good people all along the vicinity of this road. About this time the teamsters began to demolish the toll-gates, whereupon the company promptly instituted legal proceedings against the offenders, but they were signally vanquished, and down went all the toll-gates; and that was about the last we ever heard of that Turnpike Company.

In 1847 or 1848, the Mad River R. R., connecting Sandusky City with Cincinnati, was put in operation. Next in order was the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati R. R., completed in 1851, and the Bellefontaine and Indianapolis Railway in in 1851, and the Bellefontaine and Indianapolis Railway in 1853.

Lands soon advanced from eight to forty dollars per acre; horses from sixty to one hundred and fifty dollars per head, with other farm products in about the same proportion. On the contrary, commodities of importation, such as iron, cottons, sugar, salt, etc., became cheaper, thus proving a decided benefit to the farmer.

This unprecedented advance in the value of property stimulated our enterprising people to construct public roads, bridges, expensive public buildings, and private improvements of all sorts.

of all sorts.

The first reaper I ever saw was near Bucyrus, in A. D. 1848. It was a rude-looking apology compared with those now in use. About the same time the first corn planters and wheat drills were invented. Our farmers were very tardy in purchasing wheat drills when they were first introduced, until offers were made to let any farmer have a drill for the difference of a crop sown by drill or broad-cast on twenty-five acres. The difference in several instances was so great in favor of the drill as to be about double the common price of them. Almost simultaneously came the corn plows, single and double, with many other improvements for the benefit of the farmers. So it was in every branch of mechanical and manufacturing industries.

it was in every branch of mechanical and manufacturing industries.

In our first remembrance there was no such thing known as a shoe closed up with pegs. Then after they came into use every shoemaker had to learn to whittle his pegs out with his shoe-knife; but not many months after that Mr. Yunkee had his machine in operation for making pegs. He was able to measure any size of his pegs out to his customers by the bushel, which produced an entire revolution in that branch of business.

So it was with common farm implements. When Mr. Farmer of business.

So it was with common farm implements. When Mr. Farmer wanted a new axe, a hammer, a draw-knife, a chisel, a fork of any kind, or a hoe, all he had to do was to go to the nearest blacksnith shop and have them made. Our young men cannot imagine what clumsy kind of tools their "grand-dads" had to work with. The vast improvement that has been made in the mode and manner of manufacturing iron from the ore to a cambric needle, a razor, ship anchor, or the most gigantic steam engine, is almost incomprehensible! Go into whatever department you may choose, and you will see one man with a horse or two and a simple machine of some kind perform with ease the amount of labor which would have required ten men half a century ago.

We desire to return our thanks to all who in any way furnished information for this department of the work. Many of the sketches may appear somewhat crude in form, but we prefer to give them in the exact words of the contributors. We are especially indebted to Dr. Hill, of Ashland, O., for his able article on the Indians of this section. Also to George Crawford, Esq., of the Independent, to Messrs. Newcomer & Christian of the Mirror, and to the late Capt. Geo. Beckley. We desire also to acknowledge the many courtesies extended to us by the county officials.

A. W. BUELL, M.D.

A. W. Buell, M.D., was born June 9, 1830, in Fairfield Co., Ohio; his father, Hiram Buell, M.D., was born in the State of New York, and his grandfather, Joseph Buell, was a native of England; his mother, formerly Magdalene Coffman, was a native of Virginia; and her father, Martin Coffman, a Baptist minister, was a native of Germany. Young Buell lost his mother and a sister, who died of cholera in 1834, when he was but four years old. At eight and a half he lost his father, and at nine was attacked with white swelling of the hip and thigh, afterward termed hip-disease. Hundreds of fragments of bone were thrown out by the disease, and the surgeon's knife was frequently used. While yet a cripple, he supported and educated himself, and laid up a little money. Having a very hard home after the death of his parents (his disease being the result of cruel treatment), he set out for himself, at an early date, barefoot and proorly clad, with not a friend in the world to help him. He started on Sunday, found employment on Monday, and was never afterward known to idle an hour. When not able to work, his books were closely attended to. He began teaching as early as possible, and being a successful teacher and a faithful hand, he always readily found employment. Some of his father's books (all botanic), fell into his hands: but being financially unable to purchase new books, he sought and obtained access to an allopathic library by entering the office and drug store of a practising physician from whom he received constant instruction. Here young Beell spent his sevenings, and all the time not taken up in teaching or labor; here, as a cripple and invalid generally, he saw his handships; here he diligently applied himself to his studies, with an especial determination to rid himself for the terrible disease that afflicted him; here, after numerous experiments were made upon his own person, the crowning result was reached; here he cured himself, and many others; here Buell's Magic Relief was compounded, and hy its use his hip a and to conquer. As a giant family medicine, it found its way into thousands of homes, and has relieved millions of aches and pains, being the best remedy in the world for both internal and external use.

In California, Colorado, and other mining districts, it proves itself to be the best remedy for that terrible disease called miner's colic. In cities it is pronounced the hest remedy for painter's colic, cholera, cholera, cholera, cholera infantum, summer complaint, etc. In rural districts it is universally acknowledged the best remedy for colic, bilious colic, griping, cramps in the stomach or bowels, districts, it is universally acknowledged the best remedy for colic, bilious colic, griping, cramps in the stomach or bowels, districts, it is universally acknowledged the best remedy for colic, bilious colic, griping, cramps in the stomach or bowels, districts, it is universally acknowledged the best remedy for colic, bilious colic, griping, cramps in the stomach or bowels, districts, and for that complaint known only by a few of one sex, accompanied by the most excruciating pains that human ever suffered, it is without a rival. Dr. Buell also manufactures other useful medicines, some of which have been the result of experiments upon himself. Buell's Sarsaparilla is used in diseases of the blood. Blotches and old sores are removed by its use, and for old constitutional taints of any loathsome disease, it has no equal. Buell's Healing Balm is one of the best liniments ever used on man or beast. Buell's family medicines have all proved a perfect success. Formerly living in one of the worst malarious districts, where the ravages of fever and ague often baffled the skill of the best physicians, young Buell conceived the idea of experimenting in this direction. He selected from his father's books a root, a bark, and an herb, each a remedy separately for said disease. With these, in equal parts, he compounded a new remedy with which he never failed to cure, but it being botanic, he feared the displeasure of his precep

Mrs. Buell having been an invalid for many years before marriage, and continuing so during life, required the almost constant attention of her husband. She died March 5, 1864, leaving her husband and three small children to mourn their loss, the youngest being two and a half years of age.

The doctor's property having become reduced to a small amount, he was now placed in the most trying circumstances of his life. He was advised to hunt permanent homes for his children, and give them away; but the doctor having himself been given away, and travelled the rugged thorny path so often trod by pentiless orphans, he turned a deaf ear to every one.

When offers were made to take this or the other child, he would pleasantly reply, "When I have spent my last cent, and exhausted my strength and energy, if my children are then unable to care for themselves, I will thank you to assist me." Relying upon God and his own indomitable energy, he lost no time in decision or action. His children were boarded by the week, well fed, well clad, and sent to school, all supposing that the doctor's last cent would speedily come into the market, and that his iron will would soon be subdued. But hints, or assertions to that effect, moved him not; his ever ready reply was: "I have been young, and now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread," "The Loard is my shepherd, I shall not want," etc. The result is before the world, and when the doctor is now interrogated as to how he happened to succeed, he replies by referring to Joseph's corn and the widow's oil, both of which, however, were used; but when the doctor's youngest child set ont in life for himself, not even the first cent of principal or interest of his original small capital had been touched.

It is oldest child, Julia Ann Buell, now Mrs. C. W. Powelson, was married Jan. 2, 1870. His second child, Americus Webster Buell, was married March 26, 1876. Carlos Fremont Buell, his youngest child by first marriage, when sixteen years of age, five feet seven inches in height, and weighing one hundred and fifty pounds, concluded to try his fortune in the west.

The doctor and Miss Eliza Ann Sharp were married Jan. 25, 1874, he having been a widower nearly ten years. With this add the house of the pricture appears when were member he had no children to binched his decord to think his troubles were near an end; however much the outside world stormed, thundered and lightened, he was sure of a paradise at home. But these hills full hours were few, and of short duration.
