HOW TO USE THIS INDEX

A good index is an art form that follows predictable rules but always includes some arbitrary decisions made by indexer to make the index more useful and to deal with the unique problems posed by the indexed material. These decisions are described below.

This index is really TWO indexes, the Every-Name Surname Index and the Non-Personal Name Index.

THE EVERY-NAME SURNAME INDEX

Surname Arrangement and Cross-References

FULL NAMES- The every-name index is arranged alphabetically first by surname and thereafter by first initial and by given name. Surnames without given names are listed first. Spelling variations of the surname are either close enough in the listing to catch the eye or are cross-referenced to another spelling or surname. Be sure to scan above and below the surname of interest for these variations and for the cross-references to other variants listed in bold letters as the first listing of the surname. The cartographers and printers of this atlas made many spelling errors that seemingly created numerous spelling variations for many surnames. I have included multiple cross-references between all of these variations if they seemed to be the same surname.

INITIALS

Only initials appear on many small plots of land. These initials did not appear to be abbreviations for schools, churches or other structures identified on the maps with consistently used symbols. It is presumed, therefore, that these were the initials of land owners and so they were placed in the Every-Name Surname Index in strict alphabetical order, that is, the initials "A.G." would appear under "A" not "G." Initials and full names are cross-referenced initials appeared on the map in close proximity with a landowner whose full name corresponded to the initials. Initials that could not be matched with a nearby landowner were not cross-referenced.

NAMES OF COMMERCIAL ESTABLISHMENTS - If the name of a firm is a surname or several surnames, each of the surnames mentioned in the firm's name are listed within the Every-Name Personal Name Index with cross-references to the full name of the firm. Names of firms are listed twice under the heading "BUSINESEES" and in the alphabetical listing of the Non-Personal Name Index.

Special Markings

UNDERLINED LETTERS in the index designate letters in doubt, as they were difficult to read.

PARENTHESIS- Letters enclosed with "( )" indicate an abbreviation that I have completed for clarity where the missing letters are obvious.

DOTS instead of letters indicate that the letters on the map were not readable.

NON-PERSONAL NAME INDEX

AN INDEX OF PLACE NAMES, WATERCOURSES, BUSINESSES AND MAN-MADE STRUCTURES INCLUDING CEMETERIES, CHURCHES, AND SCHOOLS

Arrangement of Entries

This index lists in alphabetical order the above cited items as found either in the map sheets or in the historical introduction of the atlas.

Integrated Subject Index

Listed in alphabetical order in the non-personal name list are some subject categories that have their own particular arrangements. These categories are as follows:

CEMETERIES, CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS - Each of these categories has a separate listing within the general alphabetical listing. Each entry for a cemetery, church or school has one or more of the following identifiers to aid the search:

- religious denomination of the adjacent church or cemetery,
- place name,
- section number,
- name of landowner.

Examples:

- Cemetery (M.E. Church) Kennonburgh 45
- Cemetery (Sect 5) (John McCleary) 33
- Church (M.E.) (Carlisle) 79
- School (Sect 15) 85

POST OFFICES

Within this category are listed the names of post offices with each cross-referenced to the town place name. The U.S. census and local histories often cite place names and post office names interchangeably. Towns in the alphabetical listing appear again under the heading "TOWNS" with cross-references to the respective Post Office name.

COUNTIES, TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS

Under each of these three categories are alphabetical listings of all the administrative subdivisions that were more than a passing reference. A Post Office having a name different from the town in which it was located is also listed under "POST OFFICES" alphabetically by Post Office name.

NOBLE COUNTY GOVERNMENT

A listing of town, county and state structures but not including schools.

ORGANIZATIONS (CIVIC AND FRATERNAL)

BUSINESSES

There are also separate sub-categories for Mills, Railroads, Hotels within the alphabetical Non-Personal Name Index. Surnames used as proprietary names are cross-referenced in the Every Name Index back to the full business name in the Non-Personal Name Index.

ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THE MAP AND THEIR PROBABLE MEANINGS

C. CH.- Catholic Church
CEM. - Cemetery
CH. - Church
G. MILL- Grist Mill
H. - Heirs of
HRS. - Heirs of
M.E. CHURCH- Methodist Episcopal Church
P.CH. - Protestant Church
