IN APPRECIATION: The Original Atlas from which these maps were indexed and reprinted was donated to the Clermont County Genealogical Society by Thomas Hutchinson of Mt. Orab, Ohio. I wish to express appreciation to Mr. Hutchinson and to the Clermont County Genealogical Society, for the use of the atlas, and also to my husband, J.B. Whitt, who proofread every inch of the maps and added text.

INTRODUCTION

Maps and place names are indispensable to historians and genealogists. Clermont County's history of its sturdy pioneers can be read in its place names, some of which have survived and some of which have been changed or discontinued.

This reprint of the 1891 Atlas is especially valuable because it can be used as a substitute census for the destroyed 1890 Federal Population Census and also because it contains the names of many of the Civil War veterans.

This atlas has several other features of great value and interest:

- An unusually large number of women were landowners in 1891. In most cases the cartographers used the full names of the women while using only the initials for the men.
- Rural schools and churches are well defined. There was a very large number of Methodist Churches in 1891.
- The patrons listed on pages 69,70,71 are people who ordered a copy of the Atlas before it was published or in some other way assured the success of the publishing venture. The list of patrons gives the name, address, occupation, birthplace, nativity and year settled in Clermont County. If the nativity is Clermont County, the year settled in the county is also his birth year, a very valuable fact in the absence of early birth records.

In the index, land still in the name of a deceased person is indicated as:

* Heirs of # Estate of \+ Deceased

This information gives the researcher the approximate death date and place as clues to further research in wills and estates, real estate deeds and possible newspaper articles.

Place names were derived from several sources. First, the Indians gave us names such as Miami and Indian Riffle. Then, our early distinguished men and women were honored by having their names used in such instances as: Neville, named for General Presley Neville; Washington Township, named for George Washington; and even Amelia, named for Amelia Bowdoin , an early resident. Other places received their names from nostalgic emigrants who named their areas after the regions they had come from, such as Goshen being named for Goshen, New York, and New Richmond being named for Richmond, Virginia. Sometimes amusing nicknames developed for an area and came to occupy a humorous spot in place names, such as "Kegtown" for Mount Pisgah where they manufactured barrels and kegs and "Wigginsville" where hats were made.

Still other place names were derived simply from their places in nature or geography, such as Pleasant Hill, Maple Creek, Stonelick, and Fair Oaks. Geographic characteristics of the land were far more important to people on foot or horseback than they are now with present bridges spanning rivers and valleys that scarcely cause us to realize we are crossing such areas. Fords, or places to cross streams, were of the utmost importance. No wonder these geographic features were used in place names such as Milford.

1891 ATLAS ACCLAIMED

THE handsomest Atlas ever made for Clermont county, or probably for any county, is now being delivered to subscribers by the publishers and makers, Messrs. Lake & Gordon. It is complete in every detail, the possessions of every farmer and house owner in the county, being accurately described by survey and outline, numbered and placed, so that a map of the premises and environments can be made in an instant. As a reference in the library of an attorney it is without an equal in value. The typography, lithography and engraving are simply superb, every line showing the most painstaking care, combined with a superior knowledge of the work in hand. The finest Geography we have ever seen cannot be compared to this magnificent work in point of lithography, and its fund of information is of the highest importance to every citizen. Messrs. Lake & Gordon, who are the most affable gentleman, besides being artists of the highest ability, are receiving the plaudits of their patrons, so fairly won, and so well deserved.

CLERMONT SUN, July 1, 1891

Spellings in the 1891 Atlas are often either incorrect or given phonetically. In some places, a name is spelled several different ways, such as Fagin and Fagan. The calligraphic style of print used in the atlas is especially difficult to read as the letters are often similar or too tiny to decipher, or letters were omitted. The abbreviated names "Jos" for Joseph and "Jas" for James look alike in the small print. It is also difficult to ascertain if an "A" means "acres" or if it is the person's initials. The capital letters E and F, H and W, C and G gave us special trouble.

We feel sure that, in spite of all our diligent efforts, we have made errors in interpretation, for which we sincerely apologize.

It has been a long and difficult task to index all these maps. Every inch of it was done with the aid of a magnifying glass, and then proof-read by my husband, J.B. Whitt. The historical sketches of the county, the townships, and the other villages and hamlets are added to give students, historians, and genealogists a better understanding of Clermont County, Ohio. We hope that generations to come will enjoy and appreciate our efforts.

CLERMONT COUNTY, OHIO HISTORICAL SKETCH

Beautiful Clermont County, Ohio, lies nestled in the river hills north of the Ohio River, stretching from the tiny town of Utopia on the east to Hamilton County on the west. Rising with the river hills, the county then becomes an area of more level land throughout the county, with other beautiful hills surrounding the patterns of the Little Miami River on the west, its East Fork Branch to the east, and its many tributary creeks and runs.

On December 6, 1800, Governor Arthur St. Clair created the County of Clermont by proclamation with the following boundaries:

"Beginning at the mouth of Nine Mile, or Muddy Creek, where it discharges itself into the Ohio [River], and running from thence with a straight line to the mouth of the east branch of the Little Miami River; thence with the Little Miami River to the mouth of O'Bannon Creek; thence with a due east line until it shall intersect a line due north from the mouth of Elk River, or Eagle Creek; thence with that line south to the mouth of said Elk River, or Eagle Creek; and from thence with the Ohio [River] to the place of beginning." [Chase, Statutes of Ohio, III, Page 2097.]

Thus Clermont County was formed within the Northwest Territory of the United States, even before Ohio became a state. It lies, in its entirety, in the Virginia Military Reserve District. From 1790, when Hamilton County was formed, until the formation of Clermont County in 1800, the Clermont area was a part of Anderson Township, Hamilton County. Papers of Governor St. Clair found much later indicate that on September 27, 1799, an act was passed , which established the Clermont area as the "County of Henry" with the county seat at "Denham's Town," but for some unexplained reason this act is not printed in any of the early laws or annals of Ohio, while the proclamation of December 6, 1800 by Governor St. Clair was recorded and is recognized as being the original formation of Clermont County.

At the First Court of the Justices of General Quarter Sessions held on February 25, 1801 at Williamsburg, that town was established as the temporary county seat, and the new County of Clermont was divided into five townships: O'Bannon (changed shortly to Miami), Ohio, Williamsburg, Washington, and Pleasant (now in Brown County). See page 6 for the defination of the boundaries of these original townships.

The original Clermont County was diminished by the formation of Highland County in 1805 and the formation of Brown County in 1817, each taking some of the original area.

After these lands were taken from the eastern area of Clermont County, the county seat at Williamsburg, sitting very near the eastern boundary, was no longer in the center of the diminished county area. The county seat was moved to New Richmond in 1823. New Richmond was situated on the Ohio River, at that time the main business and commercial area of the county. The county seat remained at New Richmond only about a year until February 24, 1824, when the legislature passed an act making Batavia the permanent county seat.

Thus the present boundaries of Clermont County, Ohio, and the county seat of Batavia, were defined and have remained until today.

The first recorded count of inhabitants of Clermont County was a letter dated at Williamsburg, December 3, 1800, just a few days before the county was established. In the letter, addressed to William Lytle and carried by horseback to Chillicothe, William Perry reports: "Results of Enumeration: Number of Male Inhabitants between the Little Miami and Eagle Creek, between 16 and 26 is 217; and all above 26 is 313, making 530, not counting those above the mouth of the East Fork of the Miami. They must be 150." [Byron Williams, History of Clermont and Brown Counties, Ohio, Vol. 1, (Hobart, Milford, 1913).] This totals 680 inhabitants, male only, over age 16. We know that these inhabitants had migrated to this area from the eastern states and also from foreign countries.

By 1850, with a total population of 30,455, there were 1,579 people in Clermont County who were born in a foreign country. Of these, 602 were born in Germany, 465 in Ireland, 249 in France, 154 in England, and small numbers in other countries.

The 1850 census also shows that 6796 of the people had migrated from other states to Ohio. Highest origins were: from Kentucky, 1351; from Pennsylvania, 1326; from New Jersey, 1059; from Virginia, 876; and lesser numbers from other states. Many of those from Kentucky had come by way of Virginia and the Carolinas.

This means that, already in 1850, some 22,080 people in Clermont County had been born in Ohio, or more than 2/3 of the population. [Ref: Hubert G.H. Wilhelm, Department of Geography, Ohio University, The Origin and Distribution of Settlement Groups; Ohio: 1850, (A Grant Project, No. J82-011, Feb. 24, 1982).

The 1880 population of Clermont County was 36,713, which had dropped to 33,553 by 1890 when this Atlas was being prepared. This represents the commercial development of nearby Cincinnati and the subsequent moves from the farms to the city.

CLERMONT COUNTY, OHIO, 1800-1818

This is a rough sketch developed by the author as an interpretive map of Clermont County, Ohio, for the period 1800-1818. The first five townships were O'Bannon (soon re-named Miami), Williamsburg, Ohio, Washington, and Pleasant. No detailed maps are known to exist for the period, and earlier histories say that no records existed at their writing which describe the boundaries. However, early Common Pleas Minutes from February, 1801, to November, 1804, were recently found hidden away in the front of Marriage Record Book No. 1-A, and there, on page 16, the exact boundaries are defined. This was dated May 10, 1803, and a photocopy of that page may be seen on the left. On pages 305-308 of the History of Clermont and Brown Counties, 1914, Byron Williams gives the names and residences of the people who voted in those first five townships, which helps to further define their outlines. The general locations of these first five townships are indicated above. In 1805, Tate Township was formed, and others continued to be divided and formed until 1851, when Pierce, the last of the present 14, was formed.

MIAMI TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Miami Township was one of the original townships of Clermont County. In its first term, on February 25, 1801, the Justices' Court of General Quarter Sessions divided the new Clermont County into five townships. One of these was named O'Bannon Township, which changed its name to Miami Township a year or so later. (See page 6 for the boundaries of the townships.)

Miami Township is in the far northwestern corner of Clermont County and is the most irregularly shaped of all the townships. This is due to the meanderings of the Little Miami River, which forms its western boundary dividing it from Hamilton County, and the meanderings of the East Fork of the Little Miami River, its southern boundary. The original Miami Township was greatly diminished as other townships were later formed.

The mouth of O'Bannon Creek, which empties into the Little Miami River, is the dividing point between Clermont County and Warren County on the north. Adding Harner's Run to the list of streams already mentioned, Miami Township is well drained and has a picturesque hilly landscape with some bottom lands along the streams. In earlier days, there were many saw mills and grist mills along these streams.

Miami Township is bounded on the west by Hamilton County, on the north by Warren County, on the east by Goshen and Stonelick Townships, and on the south by Union Township.

One of General George Washington's surveys, Number 1765 for 1235 acres, is located within Miami Township. The 1890 population of the township was 4,109.

Today [1999] Miami Township is densely populated.

MOUNT REPOSE

A small hamlet in the eastern part of Miami Township, near the Goshen Township line, Mt. Repose had a post office, an old time hostlery, blacksmith shops, and stores, as well as residences.

NEWBERRY, NEW SALISBURY MULBERRY

Newberry and New Salisbury were practically one small village, served by a post office named Mulberry. Thus we have three place names, all, more or less, referring to the same small area.

Thomas Shumard laid out the Newberry side of the village in 1818 with a few lots bordering the highway as it then ran. Later the road was changed, which left the little hamlet standing off to the north, so Thomas Combs laid out the New Salisbury area to the south so that it would be on the turnpike. The plat for New Salisbury was dated August 22, 1833, with 40 lots of various sizes.

The same year that New Salisbury was platted, the post office of Mulberry was established, and in later years the area was known by that name.

Located near the center of Miami Township, the little double town had a hotel, shops, groceries, blacksmiths, doctors and other tradesmen and professionals.

GUINEA Or GUINEA CITY

A small settlement about two miles east of Branch Hill in Miami Township, originally the site of a large cooperage operation.

PERIN'S MILLS

In Miami Township, later known as PERINVILLE or PERINTOWN. As the name implies, Perin's Mills was originally owned by Samuel Perin, who purchased the water power and 14 acres of land on the East Fork of the Little Miami River in the far southern tip of Miami Township in 1813. At that time the area was densely forested, and Mr. Perin built large mils to handle the lumber and to make flour for river transportation to areas as far away as New Orleans. In all, 52 flat boats were built at the mills to transport the flour downstream. Mr. Perin also operated a distillery and a tannery, which supplied leather for the shoes and harnesses he manufactured. Later, located across the creek from Perin's Mills was COHOON STATION on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad, which supplied Perin's Mills with its mail. The post office at Perin's Mills was established in 1830 with Darius Perin as postmaster. This post office was discontinued in the 1860's and re-established later as McPHERSON, which name was shortly changed back to Perin's Mills. With its advantageous and important location, Perin's Mills boasted many business places, doctors, and inhabitants.

EPWORTH HEIGHTS

Epworth Heights in Miami Township was the location of the Cincinnati Camp Meeting Grounds, an extensive development of the Methodist Church. It was located advantageously on the Little Miami Railroad, thus enabling large numbers of Cincinnati people to attend.

MIAMISVILLE (MIAMIVILLE)

Miamisville, or Miamiville, as it later was called, was ideally situated in the western part of Miami Township, north of Milford. Its location on the Little Miami River and the Little Miami Railroad gave it its early importance.

Founded by Moses F. Robinson on September 29, 1849, the original plat consisted of just 17 lots, but additions to the little town greatly enlarged its size as it spread to both sides of the railroad.

The saw mills and grist mills which were operated at Miamisville in earlier days were an interesting and lucrative part of its history. A good description of these early mills at Miamisville may be found on pages 470 and 471 of Rockey and Bancroft's huge old History of Clermont County, Ohio, published by Everts in 1880.

The historians relate that "as many as 130 barrels of flour per day have been manufactured," and in relation to the "distillation of grain into liquor, the capacity was 400 bushels per day." The historians also relate descriptions of the equipment as it improved from breast wheels to turbine wheels.

CINCINNATI CAMP MEETING GROUNDS

According to a 1933 article in The Cincinnati Times Star, "hundreds of thousands of people have attended the camp meetings at Epworth Heights."

The first camp meeting was held there starting the week of September 14, 1874. Epworth Heights was an institution of the Methodist Episcopal Church, located 21 miles east of Cincinnati and 2 miles southwest of Loveland.

Huge annual camp meetings were one of the outstanding religious events of past years. Two railroads carried thousands of Cincinnatians to and from the grounds while the meetings were in progress. Others came in farm wagons, on horse back, and on foot, bringing their food in hampers. Whole families came to stay for the week, absorbing the spiritual programs and spreading tablecloths on the ground for their meals.

As shown on the map, the development consisted of a nice hotel, a large tabernacle open at the sides, two auditoriums, one of which could seat 1,500 people, and many cottages, houses, and vacant areas for parking wagons, pitching tents, etc.

The programs featured famous preachers and great singers and song leaders. The 1933 Times Star article stated that "perhaps the most outstanding feature of the camp meetings was the choir and congregational singing made more impressive by the outdoor hilly setting."

The Clermont Sun newspaper dated July 29, 1891 (when this original atlas was being published) stated: "Large crowds spend Sunday at Epworth Heights. There were 8,000 people in attendance at the Epworth Heights Camp Meeting last Sunday."

Immediately following the 1891 camp meeting, the grounds were occupied for a similarly large Chautauqua Assembly from August 5 to August 18, 1891.

The 1933 Times Star article indicated that at that time, 1933, "it has quite a large summer colony and a few year-round residents," going on to state the beauty and health benefits of the area. Today, 1999, although the area is residentially developed, some remnants of the bygone camp meeting grounds can still be recognized.

LARGE CROWDS

Spend Sunday at Epworth Heights.

The Day Perfect and the Services Interesting.

The Number Present Estimated at Eight Thousand.—The Meetings Still in Progress.

There were eight thousand people in attendance at the Epworth Heights Camp-meeting last Sunday.

The day was a perfect one in every respect and was most highly enjoyed by the large number present. The air was cool and refreshing and gave all a new inspiration.

The trains from the city brought out several thousand people, while many came from the surrounding country in their private conveyances. It was the first Sunday of the present camp-meeting and the attendance was much larger than usual so early in the season.

Much indignation was caused from the fact that the grocerymen on the grounds were permitted to conduct their business on Sunday, and Rev. C. Golder, in order to rebuke them, took for his text the following passage of scripture:

"And Jesus found in the temple those that sold oxen, and sheep, and doves, and the changers of money sitting; and he made a scourge of small cords and drove them all out of the temple and overthrew the tables, and said unto them that sold doves, 'Take these things and go hence; make not my Father's house a house of merchandise.'"

The text was apparently well chosen, for just back of the tabernacle the grocerymen had tables erected, selling ice cream, cigars and other such things.

AN INDIGNATION MEETING.

The meeting turned out to be quite an indignation meeting against the grocerymen of the Epworth grounds. The Rev. Golder grew warm in his remarks. It seems, however, that all efforts in the direction of wiping out the dealers will be without avail, as they have their contracts to which the association will no doubt have to live up to.

The continuous meetings of the day were begun with a Pentecostal love feast in the tabernacle at 6 o'clock. Dr. Keen was in charge, and like all of Dr. Keen's efforts it was a grand religious demonstration.

Rev. J. S. Bitler conducted a Methodist experience meeting at 8 o'clock, which was attended by over eight hundred people. The Then followed the noon hour, and how well the pleasures of this hour is known by all who have been camp meeting goers. All over the shady woods could be seen dinner parties. The city folks and their country cousins spread their dinners upon the grass-covered ground, and enjoyed a dinner that was as delightful as it was sumptuous. The hotel was crowded to its utmost capacity.

The hour's intermission flew quickly away, and the bells were calling the worshipers back to the tabernacles for the afternoon meetings.

One of the most pleasant hours of the day's religious devotion was that held in the beautiful children's chapel at half-past one o'clock, in charge of Miss Mary Dennis, of Richmond, Ind. The temple was filled with little boys and girls, and their simple and pure childish devotion touched many an older heart. The singing of these children is beyond description—it must be heard to be appreciated.

This was followed by a half hour of song. By 3 o'clock the congregation had become so vast that in order to accommodate the hundreds, Rev. John H. Smith preached on "Complete Sanctification" in the main tabernacle, and Rev. E. P. Brown and Rev. J. S. Bitler conducted overflow services in the Young People's Tabernacle, which was packed and surrounded again at 4 o'clock for the young people's meeting.

Rev. J. S. Bitler preached at night to a vast congregation. The meetings will continue over next Sabbath.

EPWORTH HEIGHTS.

The Chautauqua Assembly Will Soon Open There.

A Splendid Program Prepared For the Coming Session.

Many Clermonters Will Avail Themselves of the Opportunity of Attending the Meetings of the Assembly.

The second session of the Epworth Heights Chautauqua Assembly will be held at Epworth Heights, near Loveland, Ohio, August 5 to August 18, 1891.

Situated in a beautiful spot, twenty-two miles east of Cincinnati, on the Baltimore and Ohio South western and Little Miami Railroads, it overlooks the Little Miami River at its most attractive point. Nature has endowed the grounds with a wealth of beauty and a natural perfection of sanitary condition seldom equaled. Taking advantage of this, the management of the association has made such improvements as secure the comfort of those who spend the summer at this rapidly developing and popular summer resort. Riding, driving, fishing and rowing are here freely indulged in.

The following is the programme of the season:

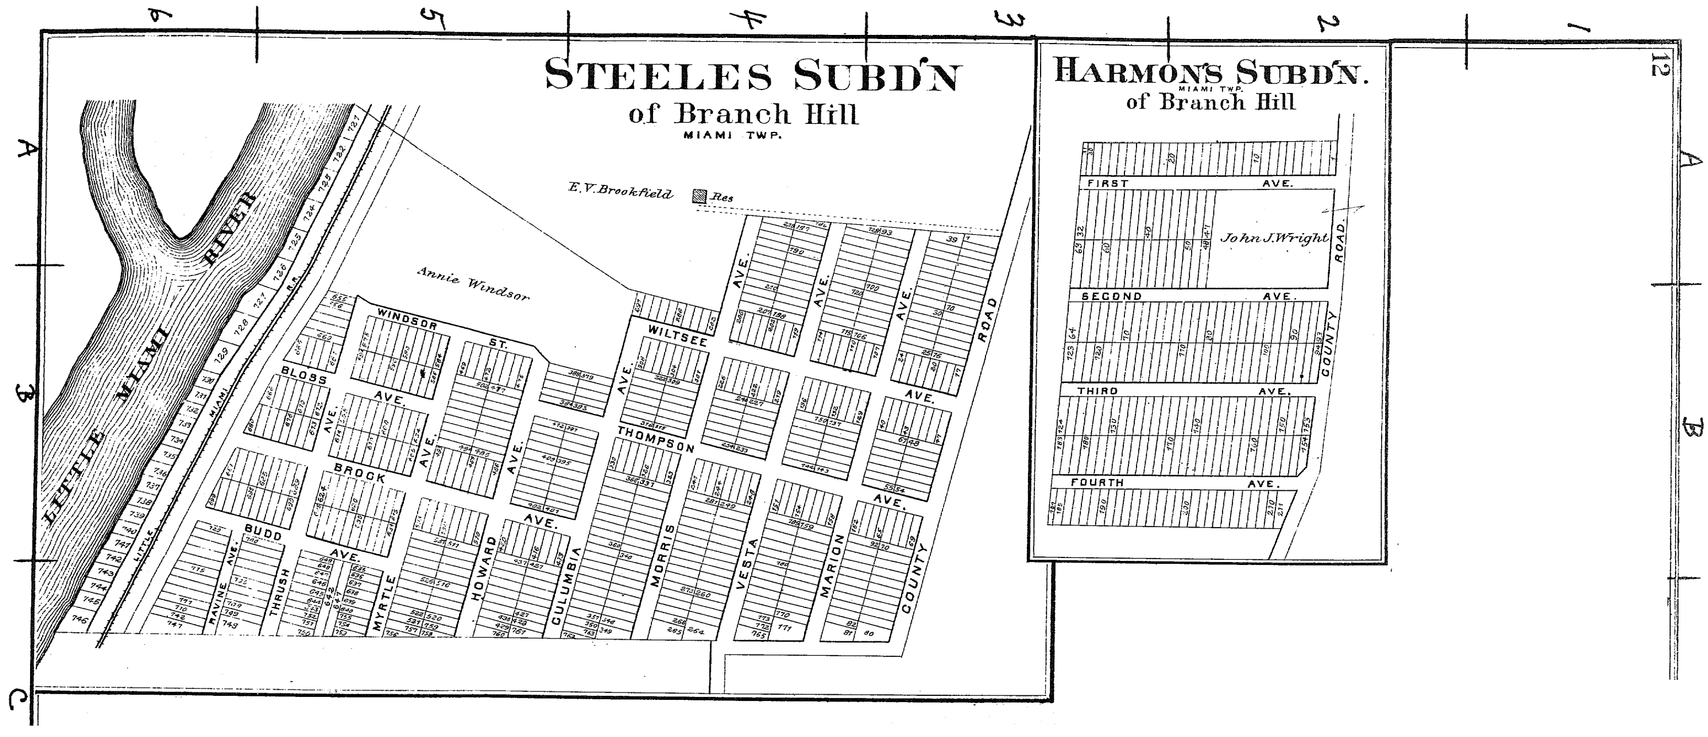

Wednesday, August 5—7:30 p. m., grand opening of the second season of the Epworth Heights Chautauqua Assembly, music by Simpson's Band and Orchestra, short addresses; 8:30 p. m., illustrated lecture, "Views Afoot in Ireland," with superb views, by James A. Green; illumination and fire-works.

Thursday, August 6—2:30 p. m., music by the orchestra; lecture before the School of Sacred Oratory, subject, "The Preacher," J. W. Buchtel, D.D., President Ohio Wesleyan University; 7:30 p. m., music; lecture, "The Sham Family," James Clement Ambrose.

Friday, August 7—2:30 p. m., music, organization of the Chautauqua Round Table; 7:30 p. m., musical prelude, Simpson's Band; lecture, "My Partner," James Clement Ambrose.

Saturday, August 8—2:30 p. m., music, soprano solo, Miss Hosein; lecture, "Jim's Pool," J. G. Mueller; 7:30 p. m., musical prelude; lecture, "The Phonograph," practically demonstrated, J. S. Bitler.

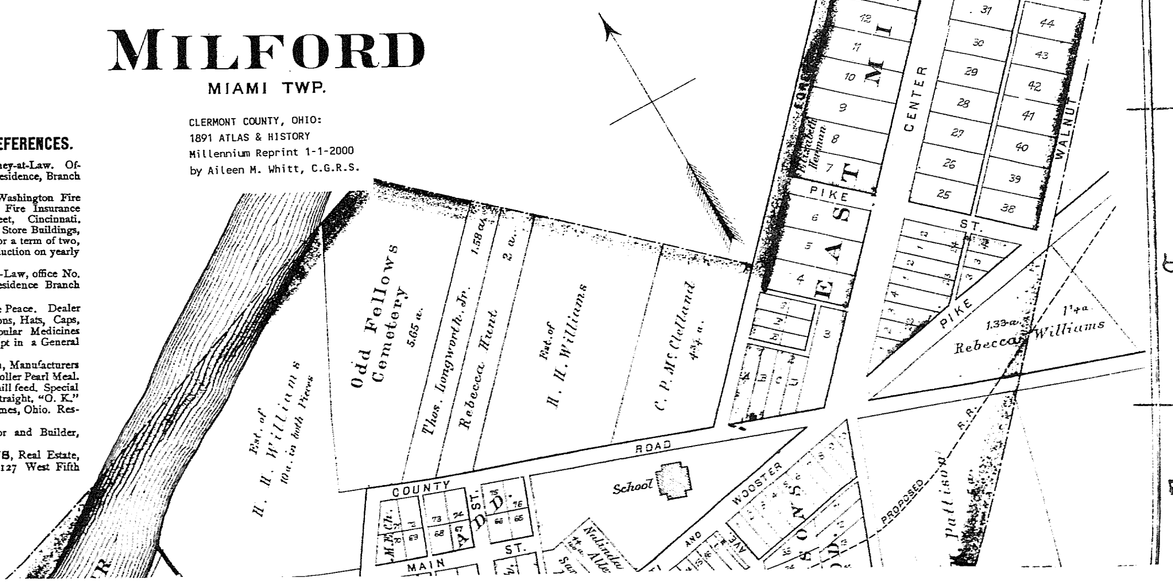

Sunday, August 9—9 a. m., Assembly Sunday School; 10 a. m., sermon, John H. Martin, D. D., President Moore's Hill College; 4 p. m., Chautauqua vesper service; 7:30 p. m., evening songs; evangelistic services, conducted by Rev.

MILFORD

The village of Milford in Miami Township had an advantageous location for early settlement as it was situated on the Little Miami River, as a waterway to the Ohio River, and also boasted an early turnpike from Cincinnati and an early railroad.

John Hageman laid out the town of Milford on January 17, 1806, which was, at that time, called Hageman's Mills, and contained 46 lots.

It is said that John Nancarrow, a Dutch burgomaster, had intended to establish a village at the location when he had it surveyed for him on May 28, 1788 on survey number 1748 for 230 acres. But Nancarrow ran into financial difficulties due to speculation and had to sell his property. Milford was founded on the part that he sold to Philip Gatch, who, in turn sold it to Judge Ransom, who in turn sold it to John Hageman, the founder of the village. This is a good example of how many times, and how often, these early lands changed hands during the settlement years.

Milford, as its name implies (mill-ford) was an important location for mills in the early days because of its ideal site on the Little Miami River and the mill race which existed then.

A detailed history of early Milford may be found on pages 473 through 483 of Rockey and Bancroft's History of Clermont County, Ohio, published by Everts in 1880, in which the historians refer to Milford as "the largest village in Miami Township and ranking third in point of population in the county" at that time. This valuable old history gives much information about Milford's government, churches, post offices, professional people, businesses, lodges and schools. Other histories of Milford have also been written over the years as special events and anniversaries came to pass. The 1890 population of Milford was 995.

LOVELAND

The village of Loveland was founded in Miami Township on the Little Miami River at the mouth of O'Bannon Creek. The village had the later added advantage of being located on the junction of the Cincinnati, Marrietta and Little Miami Railroad.

Col. William Ramsey laid out the town of PAXTON on November 17, 1849, and laid out the town of Loveland on March 19, 1850. These two towns grew and became one town, called Loveland, which spread into adjoining counties of Hamilton and Warren. The population of Loveland in 1890 was 732.

Further details of the government, businesses, schools and citizens of Loveland may be found on pages 471 to 473 in the interesting and informative old History of Clermont County, Ohio, by Rockey and Bancroft, published by Everts in 1880. In this book, the historians refer to the residents of Loveland as being "business and professional men noted for their enterprise, intelligence, and love of the beautiful in nature."

THE 1890'S

FOREIGN BORN

In 1891 New York City's population was 40% foreign born. Three million foreigners came to America in the previous decade alone.

The following year, on January 1, 1892, Ellis Island was opened as a processing center for immigrants. The Federal Bureau of Immigration could then accommodate 7000 new arrivals a day. Ellis Island served its purpose for 62 years, closing on November 12, 1954.

The pledge to the flag was instituted in 1892 as an answer to unchecked immigration.

GOSHEN TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Goshen Township is a border township with its entire northern boundary touching the Warren County line. It was created on March 16, 1819, just one day after its neighbor on the east, Wayne Township, was created. The county commissioners established the township as a result of a petition from the citizens of the northeastern area of Miami Township. Its boundaries, when created, were as follows:

"Beginning at the county line, northwest of Joshua Cox's; thence along the northeastern side of the road leading from Lebanon to Williamsburg to within one mile of Jesse Smith's on the road aforesaid; thence crossing the said road to the line between Miami and Stonelick townships; thence with the line of Stonelick to the county line; thence with the county line to the beginning.."

Goshen Township, therefore, is bounded on the west by Miami Township, on the north by Warren County, on the east by Wayne Township, and on the south by Stonelick Township.

In the early days Goshen Township was heavily wooded. O'Bannon Creek is the main drainage stream, which, together with its main tributaries running in a southeast to northwest direction, empties into the Little Miami River. There were many saw mills and grist mills located along these streams in the early days. Before the forests were cut down, the area was very wet, and was called, in the slang of those days, "the slashes," which meant that it was open, swampy bottom land. The 1890 population of the township was 1,549 people.

HILL'S STATION

Located on the Cincinnati and Marietta Railroad, Hill's Station in Goshen Township was the site of a general store and a post office established in 1871.

CHARLESTON

This small hamlet was located two miles southeast of Goshen in Goshen Township, and was the site of a church, a school, stores, mechanical trade shops, and residences.

SHILOH

Shiloh was located several miles east of Goshen in Goshen Township. A small hamlet, it had a tile factory, blacksmith shops, a school, a church, a steam saw mill, and stores.

In the book Clermont County, Ohio, 1980, published by the Clermont County Genealogical Society, there is a delightful article on page 84 entitled Reminiscences of Shiloh Camp Meeting, in which the author tells of her childhood experiences attending an old fashioned religious camp meeting.

PROTECTION AND THE FARMER.

It is capable of demonstration, according to the figures of the United States census, that where 77 per cent. of the people are engaged in agriculture the average value of farm lands is only a trifle over $5 an acre, while where only 18 per cent. are engaged in agricul ture, farm lands average over $38 per acre. What is true in the country at large, is equally true in the counties and states. The principal manufactories in Pennsylvania are to be found in thirteen counties, and the average value of farm lands within those counties is $86.73 per acre, while in her remaining counties it is only $42.02. The farm lands in the twelve chief manufacturing counties of Ohio average $67.85 per acre, while in the balance of the state they are only worth $42.46. The farm lands of Ohio, with only 40 per cent. of our people engaged in agriculture, are worth $46 per acre, while in Kentucky, separated from us only by the river, but with 62 per cent. of the people engaged in agriculture, they are worth only $14 per acre.

GOSHEN VILLAGE

The village of Goshen is situated in Goshen Township, and is said to have been named for Goshen, New York.

Goshen was laid out on October 25, 1816 by John Winans and Lot Cooper, with an original plan for 86 lots. John Winans and Lot Cooper were both residents of Cincinnati, and established Goshen as a business venture.

In less than two years, an addition was made to the village by Jesse Wood, almost doubling its size. Additions continued fairly regularly and the area soon grew into an important location.

A more detailed history of Goshen may be found on pages 494-499 in Rockey and Bancroft's History of Clermont County, Ohio, published by Everts in 1880. The historians, with their usual expressive phraseology, refer to Goshen as being a village "of well-kept streets, cozy residences, and attractive surroundings, while in business importance and the enterprise and intelligence of the citizens, no village in southern Ohio surpasses it.

BOSTON
(Owensville Post Office)

The village of Boston was located in Stonelick Township and was later known as OWENSVILLE, as there was a post office named Owensville located there as early as 1833 before the village of Boston was established.

James McKinnie laid out Boston on March 21, 1836. William Owens was the first postmaster, and after the custom of the day, the post office and the area surrounding it became known as Owensville.

The original plan of Boston incorporated all the good features and advantages of the area by locating on a stream, Harsh's Run, and being also situated on the Milford and Chillicothe Turnpike at the crossroads of Batavia-Goshen Road. These two roads constituted its main streets. Shaped more or less in a triangle in its original plat, the village contained 70 lots on the north side of the turnpike.

With additions over the years, the village, known as Owensville, grew and later became important as the location of the county fair grounds. Boston became the site for the county fair in 1864 for the sixteenth annual fair exhibition, at which time 24 acres were purchased for $45 per acre. The fairs were previously held at various places around the county.

Boston was incorporated as a village on January 10, 1867, and, at that time consisted of 77 acres.

A more detailed history of Boston and Owensville may be found on pages 530 through 533 in Rockey and Bancroft's History of Clermont County, Ohio, published by Everts in 1880, in which the historians refer to Boston as being "pleasantly located."

The same history contains details of Clermont County's fairs and fairgrounds on pages 94 through 102. The portion dealing with the fairgrounds at Boston starts on page 98 of that book. In 1910 an additional 25.25 acres were purchased to accommodate the race track. This year (1999) Clermont County celebrated the 150th year of the fair with special programs and features.

BROWNSVILLE
(Lerado Post Office)

The little hamlet of Brownsville was situated in the midst of a rich farming community in Jackson Township. It was laid out by Bernard Conn on April 5, 1834, and contained 18 irregular lots, which formed a triangle. The Brownsville post office was established in 1876 with Bernard McCafferty as the first postmaster.

Brownsville contained a store, a hotel, and a blacksmith shop in addition to other small businesses. In 1891 the village map is labeled Brownsville with Lerado Post Office added. On the 1910 map the name is seen as LERADO.

OKLAHOMA

On May 2, 1890 the Territory of Oklahoma was created. It was formerly Indian Territory. The United States population, including Oklahoma, was 63 million, a 25% increase within a decade.

In 1892, on September 22, 900,00 acres of land in Oklahoma opened to general settlement. It was ceded to the United States by the Sauk, Fox, and Potawatomi Indians.

1891 ATLAS VALUABLE TO RESEARCHERS

The original 1891 Atlas portion of this book is a very valuable resource tool to historians and genealogists.

It shows detailed locations of old cemeteries, churches, schools, mills, roads, railroads, businesses and homes.

This reprint contains about 40 pages of maps from the original atlas, plus an equal number of added pages of the history of the county, and a comprehensive, every name, every place, index of the entire publication.

WAYNE TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Wayne Township is located in the far northeastern corner of Clermont County where it touches three other counties. The township was formed as a result of a petition presented to the county commissioners from the citizens of the northeast section of Stonelick Township. The county commissioners established Wayne Township on March 15, 1819, one day before they established Goshen Township.

Following are the boundaries: "Beginning at the crossing of the Xenia and Anderson State road; thence crossing the road leading from the mouth to the head of Stonelick [Creek] at a bridge next above the farm of William Cowan; thence to the line between Miami and Stonelick townships where the same crosses the Indian Camp Run."

It was ordered that the voters of the new Wayne Township hold their first election for township officers at the home of Joseph Smith on the first Monday in April.

The land area is generally level, and is divided from the northeast to the southwest by Stonelick Creek and its various branches.

With the later formation of other townships, Wayne Township is bounded on the south by Jackson and Stonelick Townships, on the west by Goshen Township, on the north by Warren and Clinton Counties, and on the east by Brown County.

The 1890 population of Wayne Township was 1,907 people.

1ST. BASKETBALL GAME

The first basketball game was played at Springfield College in Massachusetts, in 1891 using peach baskets suspended from the balcony of a gym. Dull campus life inspired a college physical education teacher to ask Dr. James Naismith to come up with a solution. The baskets were not open at the bottom and someone had to stand on a ladder and remove the balls when a "basket" was made. The game became popular and is now played worldwide.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Jackson Township was the second from last township to be created in present day Clermont County, the last one being Pierce.

A petition was circulated by Ebenezer Hadley and other residents of Wayne, Williamsburg, and Stonelick Townships, asking for the formation of a new township. The county commissioners ordered the new township established on June 3, 1834 and named it Jackson Township, with descriptive boundaries as follows:

"Beginning at the point where the line dividing the counties of Brown and Clermont crosses the Anderson State road; thence south and with said line to Four Mile Run, near the farm of James Waits; thence a westwardly course to Isaac Hartman's saw mill, on the east fork of the Little Miami River; thence a straight westwardly course to John Bridge's old place, on the Deerfield road; thence north and with said road, or Batavia township line, to Stonelick township line; thence northeastwardly and with Stonelick township line to the new county road running from the cross-roads to Obadia Ireton's; thence to the Anderson state road, at the farm of James Barr; thence a northeastwardly course including said Barr, Schobard Willis, and Arthur Clark, to the line dividing Stonelick and Wayne townships, near Frederick Everhart's; thence northwest and with said line one mile; then an easterly course to the line dividing the counties of Brown and Clermont, three miles north of the Anderson state road; thence south and with said line to the place of beginning; to contain the legal quantity of square miles, and so as to leave John Marsh and John Needham in Stonelick Townshhip."

The East Fork of the Little Miami River cuts a meandering path across the southeastern corner of Jackson Township, and this, together with its Pleasant Run Branch, form the main drainage of the area. In earlier times there were several saw mills and grist mills along the East Fork in Jackson Township.

The 1890 population of Jackson Township was 1,418 people.

BLOWVILLE

This small hamlet was located in Jackson Township, on the crossroads of the Jackson Turnpike and the Williamsburg and Hartman Road. A store was located there which sold groceries, and general dry goods. A blacksmith shop was also located there.

THE 1890'S

"OLD DOBBIN" & THE SLEIGH

Prior to common use of the automobile, which necessitated improved roads, most country roads became impassable by wagon or buggy each winter, as the wheels became mired down in mud too deep to proceed. It was a delight when the weather turned very cold and froze the ground solidly enough for wheel transportation, and an even greater delight when enough snow fell that sleighs and sleds might be put to use, as they moved more smoothly and with less effort over the ground. Instead of attempting to remove snow from the roadways, as we do today, everyone made an effort to pack the snow down as hard as possible so that it would remain there for sleigh and sled use. Special snow rollers and compactors were used in some areas for this purpose.

NEWTONVILLE

The small village of Newtonville was laid out on March 30, 1838 in Wayne Township by Stephen Whitaker and Cornelius Washburn. The original plat contained 32 lots on four streets. The area grew as stores, blacksmiths, shoe shops, a chair manufacturing factory, a grist mill, and professional people located in the area.

The first post office at Newtonville was established in 1845 and Jonas Hill was named first postmaster.

Additional historical information about the early inhabitants, lodges, businesses, schools and government of Newtonville may be found on page 508 of the "History of Clermont County, Ohio" by Rockey and Bancroft, published in 1880, in which the historians refer to Newtonville as "a thriving village of 150 inhabitants," at that time.

EDENTON

Edenton is situated in Wayne Township on the free turnpike known as the Milford and Woodville turnpike. Its location on the north bank of Stonelick Creek is about three miles southwest of Woodville. It was laid out August 12, 1837 by Silas V. Jordan and contained 16 lots, all located on Main Street.

About 1834, before the town was laid out, there was a store located on the site of the town, operated by A.F. Morrison. The post office at Edenton was not established until 1841.

A more detailed history of Edenton may be found on page 507 of Rockey and Bancroft's excellent "History of Clermont County, Ohio," published by Everts in 1880, in which the historians refer to Edenton as "one of the most enterprising villages in the county," at that time.

MONTEREY

The village of Monterey was originally laid out in Jackson Township on January 27, 1849 by Henry South. Consisting of ten large lots and twelve small ones, the original plan was a triangle formed by two county roads and the Milford and Chillicothe Pike. The addition of West Monterey in 1852 gave the village a population of 150 people in 1880.

The post office at Monterey was established with Leonard Beck as first postmaster in 1852. A hotel known as Dickey's Tavern was operated east of town, and there were cooperage and blacksmith businesses, in addition to stores.

BRANCH HILL

The village of Branch Hill was a station on the Little Miami Railroad where Col. John H. Branch laid out 102 lots on January 3, 1873. It was located in Miami Township, midway between Miamiville on the south and Loveland on the north and was situated on the Little Miami River, which was crossed at the Branch Hill location by a suspension bridge 315 feet long.

The post office was established in 1848, discontinued and re-opened with the name of POLKTOWN post office, later reverting to the Branch Hill post office.

Several subdivisions, Webber's, Steele's, and Harmon's, were added, greatly expanding the Branch Hill area.

STONELICK TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Stonelick Township is one of only two townships (the other being Batavia Township) that does not occupy a border position in Clermont County. The township is located on the interior of the county just north of the center of the county.

On March 4, 1812, in response to a petition of a number of inhabitants along Stonelick Creek asking to be set apart into a separate township, the county commissioners established the following boundaries for the new township to be named Stonelick Township:

"Beginning at the mouth of Dry Run in Miami [Township] on the east fork [of the Little Miami River]; thence northerly so as just to include Lewis Coddle, to the county line; thence east with said line to Highland County line; thence south with said line to the State road, known by the name of Anderson's road; thence with the said road to where the Xenia road crosses; thence a straight course to the mouth of Whetstone's Run, on the east fork; thence down the same to the place of beginning."

But a month later, on April 13, 1812, the line between Williamsburg Township and Stonelick Township was changed by making the line of Stonelick Township "begin on the east fork, at the mouth of Killbreath's Run, near Dimmitt's Ford; thence running northerly so as to strike John Long, Christian Long, and Joseph Brunk (and including them), thence a straight line to where the Xenia road crosses the Anderson state road."

With the formation of additional townships later, Stonelick is now bordered by Miami Township on the west, by Goshen and Wayne Townships on the north, by Jackson Township on the east, and by Batavia and Union Townships on the south.

The 1890 population of Stonelick Township was 1,713 people.

SIMPKINSVILLE

A small hamlet located in Stonelick Township on the Milford and Woodville Turnpike, named for David Simpkins, the area was noted for its blacksmith shops, cooper shops, and a distillery for brandy.

BELFAST

This was a small post office location situated seven miles east of Milford and two miles west of Newtonville on the Milford, Edenton and Woodville Turnpike. The post office was established in 1850 with James I. Johnson being the first postmaster.

STONELICK

This small village had a hotel, groveries, dry-goods stores, a blacksmith shop, residences and an excellent watering trough erected for the public.

ALLISONIA

Dr. Richard Allison laid out this small elaborate village on both sides of the road from Stonelick to East Liberty on May 15, 1815. Dr. Allison made provisions for a court house, a prison, churches, a school, a hotel, a cemetery and residences with areas of circular, oblong, crescent and other ornamental shapes. Dr. Allison died soon after he laid out the plan and the lots reverted to a farm.

GLANCY'S MILLS

William Glancy built mills on the south bank of Stonelick Creek, and in conjunction with the mills, he operated a grocery, a blacksmith shop, and a carpenter shop. Residences soon built up in the busy area of activity.

UNION TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Union Township is one of the western border townships of Clermont County. On December 4, 1811, a group of inhabitants of Ohio Township presented a petition to the county commissioners, asking for a new township to be formed as follows:

"Beginning at the east fork of the Little Miami River, at the corner of Tate Township, thence with the line of Tate Township until it meets the State Road leading from West Union to the mouth of Clough Creek; thence with that road until it meets the county line, thence with the county line to the east fork; thence up the east fork to the beginning.."

The county commissioners, therefore, established the township, to be called Union Township, but changed the boundaries as follows:

"The said new township of Union to extend and border upon the south side of the state road from Tate Township line to Daniel Kirgan's; thence to border upon the north side of said road to the county line."

With the formation of later townships, Union Township is now bordered on the west by Hamilton County, on the north by Miami Township, on the northeast by Stonelick Township, on the east by Batavia Township, and on the south by Pierce Township. The East Fork of the Little Miami River forms the boundary between Union Township and its neighbors, Miami Township and Stonelick Township.

The streams that drain Union Township are Shaylor's Run, Salt Run, and Hall's Run, all emptying into the East Fork of the Little Miami River. The land is generally level, with the exception of the hills carved out by these streams.

George Washington's survey, Number 1775 for 977 acres, is located in Union Township.

Today (1999) Union Township is densely populated. The 1890 population ws only 1,918 people.

WILLOWVILLE

A small hamlet with a post office and a store located on the Batavia Turnpike in Union Township as early as 1835. The post office was established in 1866.

EAST LIBERTY

This was a small hamlet located near the northeast corner of Union Township on the East Fork of the Little Miami River, where, in earlier days, mills were located. After the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad established Baldwin Station there, a small village named BALDWIN, consisting of 21 lots on 6 acres of land was laid out in March 1877 by Daniel Baldwin. Here Mathias Kugler operated a large mille, which could run 10 months out of the year. He also had a store, a large distillery, and other business interests at the place.

BATAVIA TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Batavia Township occupies the most central location of all the Clermont County townships and its boundaries are entirely within the interior of the county. It contains about 26,000 acres, and is divided almost exactly in half from the southeast corner to the northwest corner by the East Fork of the Little Miami River. The Village of Batavia, the county seat of Clermont County, is located near the center of the township, and, therefore, near the center of the county.

Batavia Township was created on September 5, 1815 by the county commissioners with the boundaries as follows:

"Beginning at the mouth of Slab Camp Run, where it empties into the east fork [of the Little Miami River]; thence up the run one mile northerly to intersect the road leading from Williamsburg to Cincinnati, near the house of Daniel Kidd; from thence northerly to John Davidson's farm; thence the same course to the first branch of the waters of Lick Run; thence down the same to the mouth thereof; thence crossing the east fork; thence down the bank of said fork to David Dimmitt's lower ford of said fork; thence along the lower edge of the river hill of the fork to Townsley's Mill road; thence along said road leading towards Daniel Kirgan's, leaving the road to the northeast corner of John Brazier's land; thence to a place known by the name of Nash's crossroad; thence on the road leading to Denhamstown to Tate Township line; thence down the line of Tate Township to the east fork; thence up the creek, and crossing the same opposite the mouth of Slab Camp Run to the place of beginning."

From this description, we can see that the land north of the East Fork was taken from Williamsburg Township and the land south of the East Fork was taken from Ohio Township to create the new township of Batavia.

Streams in Batavia Township are Back Bone Run and Slab Camp Run, flowing south into the East Fork, and Lucy's Run and Shaylor's Run flowing north.

The steady water supply of the East Fork Branch caused many saw mills and grist mills to be built and operated along the river in the early days.

With the formation of more recent townships, Batavia Township is now bounded by seven other townships: on the north by Stonelick Township, on the east by Jackson and Williamsburg Townships, on the south by Tate, Monroe, and Pierce Townships, and on the west by Union Township.

Batavia Township has the distinction of containing an area where gold was discovered in 1868, near the Elk Lick Mills, on the East Fork of the Little Miami River. Gold quartz was also found on the land of William Howard and R.W. Clarke nearer the Village of Batavia. The Batavia Gold Mining Company was formed with a huge investment for the times, and while some gold and other metals were found, it was not enough to become a paying venture and the project was abandoned in a few months. The main operations were performed at the rear of the home of Mrs. G.W. Griggs.

Being the centermost area of the county, Batavia Township was blessed with several very early turnpikes and railroads. Small hamlets, railroad stations and post offices were established along these thoroughfares. The 1890 population was 3,502 people.

SUMMIT was a station in Batavia Township, on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad.

HULICK was another station on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad in Batavia Township.

MAYWOOD was a small hamlet on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad. It's detailed plat is shown on another page in this atlas.

CENTREVILLE was a station in Batavia Township on the Cincinnati and Portsmouth Railroad. The post office at Centreville was called BRAZIER.

MOUNT HOLLY was located on the Ohio Turnpike in Batavia Township. It had a post office and general store.

JUNE 24, 1891.

BATAVIA has more railroads than most country towns. Our first road was the Cincinnati, Batavia and Williamsburg, a narrow gauge affair, ground for which was broken at Rockyford, about 1875; after that came the Cincinnati and Eastern, a broad gauge; then the Ohio and Northwestern. Now we have the Cincinnati, Portsmouth & Virginia. All these roads are fed by pretty much the same territory, and run on lines in plain sight of each other, without, it must be confessed, exciting any considerable spirit of rivalry or that competition, which is said to be the life of trade. Just across the country is the C. G. & P. road, with a station but fifteen minutes from town, and the Miami road, but twelve miles distant. Oh yes; we have lots of railroads—more roads in fact than travel.

BATAVIA VILLAGE

Batavia Village is the county seat of Clermont County. The seat of government was originally located at Williamsburg, and was moved for a short time, in 1823, to New Richmond, but on February 24, 1824, the State Legislature ordered the county seat of Clermont County to be located at Batavia, where it has remained.

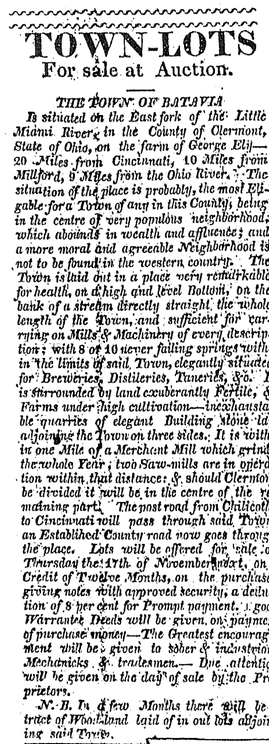

Situated in Batavia Township, on the east bank of the East Fork of the Little Miami River, the village lies mostly on an elevated plain, then rises to the hills surrounding it with picturesque landscape.

Batavia was founded by George Ely on October 24, 1814. Mr. Ely came from New Jersey to Clermont County. The plat map for the village of Batavia was recorded on that date by David C. Bryan and George Ely, by his attorney-in-fact, John Collins. It showed the streets, lots, alleys, and other areas, and consisted of 62½ acres. Main Street was designated as the principal street.

Batavia Village is located on Entry No. 1774 of 1000 acres, surveyed for William Johnson, assignee, on May 17, 1788, and was patented by President John Adams, March 18, 1790 to Thomas Paxton, as assignee of William Johnson, the assignee of Captain Francis Minnis, who served in the Virginia line during the Revolutionary War. In 1805, Paxton sold the land to General William Lytle, who sold it to George Ely, the founder of the town. Thus we see how many times, and how often, lands in early Clermont County changed hands during its formative years.

For further history of early Batavia, see pages 254 through 270 of Rockey and Bancroft's interesting History of Clermont County, Ohio, published in 1880 by Everts. This old history gives many details of the post offices, professions, office holders, and other facts of interest to historians.

The 1890 population of Batavia village was 988 people.

THE TOWN OF BATAVIA

Is situated on the East fork of the Little Miami River, in the County of Clermont, State of Ohio, on the farm of George Ely— 20 Miles from Cincinnati, 10 Miles from Millford, 8 Miles from the Ohio River. The situation of the place is probably, the most Eligable for a Town of any in this County, being in the centre of very populous neighborhood, which abounds in wealth and affluence; and a more moral and agreeable Neighborhood is not to be found in the western country. The Town is laid out in a place very remarkable for health, on a high and level Bottom, on the bank of a stream directly straight, the whole length of the Town, and sufficient for carrying on Mills & Machinry of every description: with 8 or 10 never failing springs within the limits of said Town, elegantly situated for Breweries, Distileries, Taneries, &c. It is surrounded by land exuberantly Fertile, & Farms under high cultivation—inexhaustable quarries of elegant Building Stone lay adjoining the Town on three sides. It is within one Mile of a Merchant Mill which grinds the whole Year; two Saw-mills are in operation within that distance; & should Clermont be divided it will be in the centre of the remaining part. The post road from Chilicothe to Cincinnati will pass through said Town, an Established County road now goes through the place. Lots will be offered for sale on Thursday the 17th of November next, on a Credit of Twelve Months, on the purchaser giving notes with approved security, a deduction of 8 per cent for Prompt payment. A good Warranty Deeds will be given on payment of purchase money—The Greatest encouragement will be given to sober & industrious Mechanicks & tradesmen.— Due attention will be given on the day of sale by the Proprietors.

COURT HOUSE NEWS.

What is Going on in the Temple of Justice.

Take Their Office.

Probate Judge Breeding and Clerk Banister, having received the oath of office, took their seats Monday morning. Both set up the cigars in royal style and entered upon the duties of their respective offices with the good wishes of all for a successful term, and those who know these gentlemen have no fears that they will disappoint their friends in the conduct of their offices. On the other hand both are capable, affable and accommodating and we predict for each a successful and popular career. Judge Breeding has selected for his deputy A. J. Allen, of Felenton, a young man well qualified for the position, as he is a beautiful and rapid penman. Clerk Banister's deputy is C. B. Nichols, a young attorney and a gentleman in every sense of the word. He will make a most popular and efficient official. Judge Prather upon retiring from the office does so with the good wishes of all. His records are all made up and his work completed. We doubt if the county has ever had a more popular, efficient and accommodating Clerk of the Courts than A. B. Shaw and he retires from the office he has so ably filled for the past six years with the benedictions of all with whom he has come in contact. There remains now but one Republican official in the county building, Auditor Temple, whose term does not expire until next September.

WILLIAMSBURG TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Williamsburg Township is one of the original townships of Clermont County. In its first term, on February 25, 1801, the Justices' Court of General Sessions divided the new Clermont County into five townships. One of these was Williamsburg Township. The boundaries of all of these first townships are described elsewhere in this atlas.

Originally one of the largest townships in the county, Williamsburg Township was greatly diminished by the formation of several townships formed later from parts of the area, mainly Tate Township, Batavia Township, and Jackson Township, leaving it about 18,700 acres of land. The 1890 population of the township was 2,353.

The East Fork of the Little Miami River completely crosses the township in a northeasterly to southwesterly direction. This, together with its branch tributaries, Crane Run, Kain Run, and Clover Creek, give Williamsburg Township good drainage as well as picturesque landscape. The area was covered with heavy forests in pioneer days. The many saw mills and grist mills that were operated along the East Fork in Williamsburg Township add to the interesting history of its early settlers.

The township of Williamsburg and the Village of Williamsburg were named for William Lytle, who founded Williamsburg, and who was known as the "father of Clermont County."

Old timers often referred to Williamsburg simply as "Burg," a nickname that is still recognized locally.

AFTON

Afton was a post office location in the western part of Williamsburg Township and a station on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad. It was named by Sarah Lytle, daughter of William Lytle, one of the first settlers in the area. The first post office at Afton was called CALIFORNIA post office..

CONCORD

Concord was a small hamlet in Williamsburg Township first settled by Robert Vanosdol in 1815. After some growth, it consisted of a church, blacksmith shop, post office and stores. The post office established at Concord in 1854 was named ANGOLA.

HENNINGS MILLS

William Lines operated a cabinet shop at this location about 1836. Other residents, mostly Whigs in politics, at the time of the Harrison campaign, built a log cabin with a raccoon on the roof (the Harrison logo), from which the area became facetiously known as COONTOWN. J.N. Henning, a manufacturer of chairs, was the actual founder of the small hamlet, and the name was changed to Hennings Mills when the post office was established there in 1858, with Henning as postmaster.

CLOVER

Clover was the official name of the post office established in Williamsburg Township in 1849 near the Clover church.

1890's STREET NAMES

Think about some of the street names we still use today.

Do you suppose your ancestors raced down Race Street? On foot? On horseback? In a buggy or wagon?

We wonder if your ancestors saw their first clowns and tight-rope walkers on Circus Street.

It is almost certain that our ancestors took advantage of Market Street, either buying or selling at market.

There are many "Main" Streets that are no longer main streets in our villages.

Most "Water" Streets were at or near the Ohio River in the river towns.

Many streets received logical names identifying their location: East Street, West Street, Third Street, Broad Street, Walnut Street, Pine Street, Union Street, etc.

And, of course, many were named for popular citizens or officials of their day – perhaps otherwise long forgotten.

WILLIAMSBURG VILLAGE

The village of Williamsburg lies on the southwest side of the East Fork of the Little Miami River on an elevated tract of land.

Williamsburg is the oldest town in Clermont County. Originally named LYTLESTOWN, the town was laid out by William Lytle in 1795, and eventually became known by his first name Williamsburg. Lytle was a surveyor who located many military warrants in Clermont County, which is in the Virginia Military District. He planned Williamsburg as the county seat, which position it held until 1823.

The original plat contained 500 in-lots and 140 out-lots. A large public square was designated for such buildings as would be necessary for the county seat, with arrangements made for the land to return to William Lytle if the county seat was moved.

In 1824, when the county seat was moved to Batavia (after being at New Richmond about a year), the public continued to use the square for several years. Then William Lytle reclaimed the square and sold it in 1846 as private property. The people of Williamsburg sued to regain the property for a public area. They won the suit and used it for a public park and school.

The first cabin in Williamsburg was built on Lot 43 in the summer of 1796 by James Kain from Newtown in Hamilton County. His daughter, Mary "Polly" Kain and her companion, Mary "Polly" Bunton, both came with him and were later given deeds to lots in Williamsburg as being the first white women in the eastern part of Clermont County.

The stone court house stood until 1858 when it was torn down and the school built in its place.

The population of Williamsburg in 1890 was 828.

TATE TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Tate Township contains about 29,000 acres of land, and is, therefore the largest township in the county in area. Its 1890 population, when this atlas was being compiled, was 2,713, fifth in the county.

On June 12, 1805, a petition of various inhabitants of Williamsburg and Ohio Townships was presented and read at the regular session of the commissioners. The petition asked for the creation of a new township, to be composed of a part of each of those townships. The commissioners, Amos Ellis, Amos Smith, and George Conrad, tabled the petition for further consideration until its next meeting. On August 5, 1805, at their next meeting, the board of commissioners ordered the new township to be created and to be named Tate Township and to be laid off by the boundaries prescribed in the petition. The petition was ordered to be filed and recorded, but the original petition cannot be located, nor was it recorded.

Tate Township is one of the border townships, brown County being its eastern boundary. It is bounded on the south by Franklin and Washington Townships, on the west by Monroe and Batavia Townships, and on the north by Williamsburg Township. Of these neighboring townships, Franklin, Monroe, and Batavia Townships were all formed later than Tate, while Williamsburg and Washington Townships were original townships.

The land is considered table-land, with hills along the streams. The area was originally heavily wooded with dense forests, and the soil is fertile. The principal streams are Clover and Poplar Creeks, and Town Run, Sugartree Run, and Ulrey's Run, all having a general northerly course. All empty into the East Fork of the Little Miami River. In the early days there were many good mill sites along these streams.

WIGGINSVILLE

Wigginsville was a small hamlet located in Tate Township between Bethel and Felicity on the Felicity Turnpike. The post office was established in 1879. The name of the small town was a nickname of Benjamin South, who was a hatter in the area. His friends called him Ben "Wiggins," from which the area gained its nickname.

PIN HOOK

Pin Hook was a locality in Tate Township, about a half-mile northwest of Wigginsville. There was a store at Pin Hook and a carriage manufacturer.

SALTAIR

Saltair was a small hamlet and post office in the southwestern part of Tate Township named for the Salt family, who owned the land in the area. The post office was established in 1878.

POE TOWN

Poe Town was a small hamlet, partly in Tate Township, but mostly in neighboring Brown County, on the county line, named for the Poe family, early settlers in the area. The post office was called MAPLE post office.

THE "JERSEY SETTLEMENT" OR "NEW JERSEY SETTLEMENT"

The Jersey Settlement, while not shown on any known atlas or map, was made on an area of land on the East Fork of the Little Miami River starting at the mouth of Clover Creek and running downriver about four miles.

This land was purchased by the Rev. John Collins in what was originally Ohio Township, later becoming the northwest corner of Tate Township, and part of which later became Batavia Township.

Reverend Collins came from New Jersey with a number of families who descended the Ohio River from Pittsburg on flatboats to Columbia, then came by way of Newtown up the East Fork. Within the next ten years about a dozen additional families came from New Jersey to join their friends and families in and round the Jersey Settlement. Names familiar to the early area, in addition to Collins, were Blackman, Justice, Leeds, Doughty, Frambes, Lake, McCollum, Higbee, and others.

The Jersey Settlement included the area known as Horseshoe Bottoms, a fertile bottomland contained within the horse-shoe shaped meanderings of the East Fork of the Little Miami River. The area now (1999) is covered by the waters of Harsha Lake in East Fork State Park.

No doubt some of the present picnic areas, hiking and horse trails of East Fork State Park are the same hills and hollows traipsed by these early pioneers of the New Jersey Settlement.

BETHEL

The village of Bethel is located in Tate Township on John Breckenridge's survey, Number 2373, which was entered by William Lytle on March 28, 1794.

Shortly thereafter, Obediah Denham came from Kentucky and bought 1500 acres of land from this survey. Obed Denham platted the village in 1798. He named the village PLAINFIELD, but early on, the village became known by the name DENHAMSTOWN, taken from his name. The plat of the village was recorded on April 26, 1802 using the name Bethel as its legal name, but for years the town was still referred to as Denhamstown, against Obed Denham's wishes. Denham had come from Virginia to Kentucky and then to Ohio because he did not believe in slavery.

The principal street in Bethel is Plane Street, which is the Ohio Pike, running through the center of Bethel east and west. The original plan called for 178 in-lots, four to a block, and 48 out-lots of 5 acres each. There were five springs of water that were reserved from any sales, and Bethel was known in the early days for its many useful springs, as this was a very important considereation in establishing new villages and towns. When this atlas was being compiled in 1890 the population of Bethel Village was 625 people.

Bethel, or Denhamstown, as it was known then, nearly became the county seat at one time. In 1799, the Northwest Territorial Legislature passed an act establishing a county in this area, but named it HENRY COUNTY and named "Denham's Town" as the place to hold court until such time as the county commissioners could select a county seat. For some unknown reason, this did not come to pass, and about a year later Clermont County was officially established with the county seat at Williamsburg.

A more detailed history of Bethel, including the story of a witchcraft trial held in Bethel, may be found on pages 324 to 334 in Rockey and Bancroft's interesting "History of Clermont County, Ohio," published by Everts in 1880, in which the historians refer to Bethel as the "next to oldest village in the county."

1891 ATLAS VALUABLE TO RESEARCHERS

The original 1891 Atlas portion of this book is a very valuable resource tool to historians and genealogists.

It shows detailed locations of old cemeteries, churches, schools, mills, roads, railroads, businesses and homes.

This reprint contains about 40 pages of maps from the original atlas, plus an equal number of added pages of the history of the county, and a comprehensive, every name, every place, index of the entire publication.

The Inhabitants Now Sleep in Terror and Awake in Sweat—Immense Crowds on the Street Corners Cussing and Discussing the Situation.

Great excitement prevails in the town of Bethel noted for its law loving citizens. This commotion is not caused by a flood an earthquake, a prize fight or anything of the kind, but has been brought on by one small dog. The dog was mad, and arriving in town late Saturday night, succeeded in raising cain generally among the canine population. Early Sunday morning Billy Scott found his doghip occupying his woodshed unmolested, he did not know at the time that the dog was mad, but nevertheless he commanded him to vacate the premises at once. The dog obeyed. About 8 o' clock, a crowd of men and boys were standing in front of the Perrine House, discussing the weather and other questions of national importance, when this same dog made his debut on the opposite corner. They observed that he acted strangely, that is, not like the other town dogs. All at once he made a break for the crowd of bystanders, and it is needless to say there was a scattering. All rushed into the hotel office and closed the door behind them. The dog wandered on down the street towards the stable. Coming in the opposite direction was Claud Sherwood, of the Review, who met the vicious animal. He made a dash at young Sherwood and finally succeeded in biting him on his forearm. Sherwood hastened into the hotel, while the dog traveled on towards South Bethel. By this time the excitement became intense and a large crowd followed in pursuit of the canine. A Mr. Padgett, of Brown County, was in the lead carrying in his hand one of Branch Perrine's back number revolvers. The dog was overtaken near the home of A. T. Floyd, and Padgett taking deadly aim got his gun off, but missed his mark. A lively contest then ensued between Padgett and the dog. Finally he takes aim for the second time, pulls the trigger and puts an end to the dog's days. He comes out of the combat, however, severely bitten in several places. Homer Glasgow, a twelve year old boy, was also bitten by the dog. Yesterday morning Padgett and Glasgow left for Newport, Ky., where they went to have the mad stone applied to their injuries. Young Glasgow's parents being in moderate circumstances, the good people of Bethel made up a purse to pay the expenses of the boy's trip to the mad stone. Sherwood's injuries are not as serious as those of Glasgow and Padgett. Since Sunday last there has been a wonderful falling off in the population of the canine race of Bethel. We doubt very much whether an able bodied dog can now be found in the entire community; for there was no way of telling how many and whose dogs had been bitten by the vicious animal.

PIERCE TOWNSHIP

Pierce Township occupies the far southwestern corner of Clermont County and was the very last township formed in Clermont County.

J.C. Smith and a list of other inhabitants of the western portion of Ohio Township petitioned the county commissioners to consider the division of Ohio Township into two townships. On December 8, 1852, the commissioners made the division according to the request of the petitioners. The new township was called Pierce Township in honor of Franklin Pierce, President-elect of the United States.

Pierce Township is bounded on the west by Hamilton County, on the north by Union Township and Batavia Township, on the east by Monroe Township and Ohio Township, and on the south by the Ohio River.

Ten Mile Creek is the principal stream, running southwest from the hills about the center of the township. Nine Mile Creek drains the western part of the township and Pond Run Creek drains the eastern part. Gold is said to have been discovered on one of the head branches of Ten Mile Creek in the early days. Ten Mile Creek is said to have been large enough to sustain small mills at an earlier date, but the location of such mills is not indicated.

Survey number 403, for 1000 acres, located in Pierce Township, is labeled "George Washington." This was not our first president, George Washington, but his nephew, George A. Washington.

In 1890 when this atlas was being compiled, the population of Pierce Township was 1,731 people.

PLEASANT VALLEY

Pleasant Valley was a small hamlet established about 1835 by George Floro by selling off 15 or 20 lots from his farm on Nine Mile Creek several miles above its mouth in Pierce Township (then Ohio Township). The area was also called NINEVEH, and had a doctor, a church, stores, blacksmith, wagon making and cooperage shops.

PLEASANT HILL
LOCUST CORNER

Pleasant Hill was a small hamlet located on the hills above Pleasant Valley in Pierce Township. It had a church, a public building, a school building, doctors, and a post office called LOCUST CORNER. In later years the entire area has been known as Locust Corner.

MOUNT CARMEL

Mount Carmel was an area built up next to the Hamilton County line, running east on both sides of the Cincinnati – Batavia Pike. Never laid out as an official village, it was built up from lots cut out from the farm lands, and was known locally as East Mount Carmel and West Mount Carmel.

It had stores, churches, shops, lodges, and a school. The 1880 "History of Clermont County, Ohio" refers to it as a "long straggling village," but today (1999) the area is highly developed and densely populated.

U.S. EXPANSION

In 1890 when this Atlas was originally being compiled, the population of the United States was 62,947,714.

North and South Dakota had been admitted to the Union as our 39th and 40th states in 1889.

Montana entered as the 41st state and Washington as the 42nd.

In 1890 Idaho became the 43rd state and Wyoming the 44th.

WEBBER'S SUBDIVISION

Glen Este was the name of a post office, a station on the Cincinnati Georgetown and Portsmouth Railroad and a store in Union Township. Webber's Subdivision was a well laid out development just north of the railroad.

Today (1999) the entire area is well developed and populated.

OLIVE BRANCH

Olive Branch in Batavia Township was never officially laid out as a village, but grew as a hamlet with three stores, a post office, an Odd-Fellows Hall, churches, and the usual shops and businesses.

The Olive Branch railroad station on the Cincinnati and Portsmouth Railroad was located about one-half mile from the little hamlet.

MAYWOOD

Maywood was a small hamlet laid out in Batavia Township by James Davidson on March 3, 1877 on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad. The original plat contained 16 lots on 9 acres of land.

CLERMONT CEMETERIES

Made to Blossom as the Rose

And to Emit the Fragrant Perfume of Flowers

Strewn Upon the Graves of the Immortal Dead With Tender Hands and Loving Hearts.

Memorial Exercises, Under the Auspices of the G. A. R. Posts, Held at the Various "Cities of the Dead" Throughout the County.

No more beautiful, touching or impressive sight can be conceived than to behold the old veterans paying tribute to their dead comrades, sons placing flowers upon the grave of a father, or the father dropping a tear upon the earth that covers the remains of a son who died while defending the flag of his country. Decoration Day is most truly a time "for memory and for tears." Upon visiting the quiet cities of the dead one is filled with a spirit of love of country and patriotism. Away off yonder in one corner of the cemetery you will see a wife standing over the last resting place of a companion whose body has been resting beneath the sod for a quarter of a century, but whose every act, look and deed is called fondly to view by memory dear. On that mound yonder on the rise you behold the sons and daughters bowing reverently with tear bedimmed eyes over the grave of a loving father and the flowers strewn thereon by their tender hands bear testimony to their love and reverence for him whom they have seen not for many years.

Is it any wonder, then, that with each recurrence of Decoration Day the beautiful lessons of patriotism become more firmly impressed upon the hearts and minds of the American citizen? One must have a heart as hard as Adamantine rock if it be not touched by the sight of the little children scattering choice flowers o'er the graves of the departed dead; and the children themselves are impressed with the solemnity of the occasion and are taught beautiful and impressive lessons which they can never forget.

G.A.R. Posts Decorate Graves

Again it places us all upon a common level and forcibly reminds us that ours is a common country with a common purpose and that those who went forth at her call to do and to dare sacrificed their lives for a common cause, the preservation of the Union.

But with each succeeding year the ranks of the old soldiers are becoming depleted and as time rolls on they are rapidly dropping off. We honor their gray hairs, their battle scars and their faltering steps, which bear the highest evidence of their many deeds of valor and heroism.

The State of Ohio contains about 100,500 veterans of the civil war, and of this number about 600 reside in Clermont.

In this county the day was more generally observed than ever before, and the grave of every soldier boy buried within its borders was remembered by some comrade, relative or friend, who placed upon it a bouquet of beautiful flowers.

AT BATAVIA

the William Ulrey Post, of Boston, assisted by our citizens, observed the day with appropriate exercises. All business was suspended from noon until 4 p. m. About 1 o'clock the Boston Post, headed by the Monterey Cornet Band, arrived at the public square. The court house was soon filled with a large audience of people who at once entered into the spirit of the exercises. Mr. Frank White was chosen chairman of the meeting and the following program was carried out:

|---|---|
| Prayer | Rev. Straus |
| Song—The Star Spangled Banner | Choir |
| Music | Monterey Band |
| Address | Judge Thomas B. Swing |
| Song—America | Choir |
| Address | Judge G. W. Hulick |
| Address | John S. Parrott |

After concluding the services at the court house the following line of march (extending the length of four squares) was formed:

1. Monterey Band.
2. Children with flowers.
3. Batavia Military Band.
4. Veterans.
5. Citizens.

Mr. Frank Stymets was commander of the day.

Upon arriving at the Citizens' Cemetery the G. A. R. boys conducted their usual services for such occasions and then proceeded to decorate the graves, this being chiefly done by the children. All then repaired to the Odd Fellows' Cemetery and placed flowers upon the graves of the soldiers buried there. The column then returned to the court house square where it broke ranks.

The following soldiers are buried in the Batavia cemeteries—thirty-seven in all:

Several members of the Boston Post reel to near Monterey and right faithfully did they observe the day. Early in the morning they decorated the graves of those buried in the cemetery near Monterey. Coming on to Boston they carried out the regular memorial services there, and then came to Batavia in the afternoon. Their visit here was most highly appreciated by our citizens, who sincerely hope that they will return and observe the day with us on each succeeding year. The band boys, who discoursed most excellent music, deserve especial mention and they added much to the interest and success of the meeting. Come again, boys.

AT FAYETTEVILLE.

Memorial Day was observed here in an appropriate manner. At 1 o'clock p. m. the procession formed at G. A. R. hall as follows:

Fayetteville Band.
Thirteenth Regiment, O. N. G.
Henry McCarty Post No. 307, G. A. R.
Sons of Veterans.
Seventy-two children with flowers.

After decorating the graves, the procession marched to the M. E. Church, where Milton Fox, Mayor of Fayetteville, presided.

Rev. Givens, of Marathon, made a speech, but the principal address of the day was delivered by Capt. L. D. Manning, of Batavia. His speech was both rhetorical and eloquent and elicited long and continuous applause from the vast audience.

AT BANTAM.

Decoration Day was appropriately observed by our citizens. Dr. J. P. Richardson made an excellent address at Old Bethel Church at 10 a. m., after which the graves of the soldiers were covered with flowers.

AT MILFORD

the meeting was held in the new town hall, which was filled with a large and appreciative audience. The exercises were conducted under the auspices of the S. R. S. West Post, which numbers 120 members, George W. Armstrong as commander. The Post, headed by the Milford Band, marched from its headquarters to the hall. Col. S. A. West was officer of the day and G. L. Greeno marshal. The services at the hall were short, simple and impressive. After music by the band, the venerable Dr. VanCleve opened with prayer and was followed by a most touching and beautiful song by the Milford Choral Society. Then came the orator of the day, D. D. Woodmansee, Esq., of Cincinnati, who in a short and eloquent address appealed most effectively to the patriotic instincts and tender memories of the old soldiers. After the services were concluded the line of march was formed and all proceeded to the cemeteries, first to the Odd Fellows' north of the town, next to Green Lawn on the east, and last to the Catholic grounds on the south. At the beautiful Green Lawn Cemetery the impressive regulation ceremonies of the G. A. R. order were performed. Flowers in lovely profusion and sweetness were scattered by loving hands upon the graves of all the soldiers and sons of soldiers, while many of the citizens who accompanied the veterans paid tribute to the memories of their own dear dead ones. The weather was propitious. The sun shone softly between the threatening clouds and the heat was tempered by balmy breezes. All nature contributed to the sweetly sad memories of the occasion.

The day was also observed at many other places in the county notably Edenton, Williamsburg, Amelia, Moscow, Laurel, New Richmond Chilo, Bethel, Goshen, and New Boston.

AMELIA

The village of Amelia was never officially planned or laid out in the early days, but grew up along both sides of the Ohio Turnpike (now, 1999, State Route 125). The Ohio Pike was, and is, at that point, the boundary between Pierce Township and Batavia Township.

The area was first known as MILLTOWN or MILTON because there were mills there operated by the families of Jernegan and Butler.

When the village received a post office, it was named Amelia in honor of Amelia Bowdoin, a respected lady of the area, wife of Wesley Bowdoin.

Amelia was a station on the Cincinnati Georgetown and Portsmouth Railroad, which also delivered its mail supply. As Amelia spread farther and farther up and down its one long street, it contained churches, an Odd-Fellows Hall, hotels, stores and shops.

In Rockey and Bancroft's 1880 History of Clermont County, Ohio, the historians say that Amelia "has a pleasant situation," and add that "the people are orderly, industrious, and intelligent, many of them being of New England origin, the first settlers here being principally from Maine and Massachusetts."

PALESTINE
NEW PALESTINE

The village of Palestine or New Palestine, as it was usually called, was laid out by Zachariah Chapman and Christian Ebersole on the Ohio River in Pierce Township on September 11, 1818. This was Ohio Township at that time, as Pierce was not formed until 1852.

The original plat contained 52 lots on two streets running parallel to the river and five cross streets. With elaborate additions of numerous lots designated for church and school purposes, as well as a reservation for rights to operate a ferry to Kentucky, the entire village of Palestine was located on the George A. Washington (nephew of President George Washington) military survey.

Palestine was a station on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad, and also had a landing for river steamers. The post office was located in one of the stores. Because the area lies essentially in the flood plain, it was never developed as planned, but has always been an interesting historical location of river lore days.

READ OUT OF CHURCH.

A New Richmond Young Lady who Gave Expression to the Joy of her Soul

BY MAKING MERRY MOVEMENTS WITH HER FEET IS BROUGHT TO BOOK BY HER PREACHER,

Who States from the Pulpit that Such Conduct as these Cannot be Tolerated by the Truly Good.

The following card appears in the last issue of the New Richmond Independent, which we reproduce in order that our young people may take timely warning of the wickedness of passing through the world with a free step and light heart to the sound of base viols and luring lutes—the folly of plucking the roses that bloom in the hedge rows, the danger of loitering on the way to weave garlands of flowers for the queen of the May, or to lightly tread the sinful path that marks the passage of young feet around the May-pole. The hours of youth are to be spent in lamentations over the wickedness of the world, and the journey from the cradle to the grave should be made with dull step and tear-sodden eyes. Our muscles and nerves, our lithe limbs and sparkling eyes, our vigorous health and bounding blood, and our inclination to give them lively exercise and freedom were given, doubtless as so many devils of tempation to be promptly subdued and severely sat down upon. The following letter will show how far beyond the pale of redemption the writer has wandered:

A STATEMENT.

NEW RICHMOND, O., February 1, 1892.

ED. INDEPENDENT NEWS:

Will you kindly publish the following explanatory note:

I have been a resident of New Richmond all my life. While the Rev. J. E. H. Sentman was here I united with the M. E. church and my name has remained on the church books ever since that time until recently. I have at times indulged in the amusement of dancing. I was semi-officially notified last week that I must give up dancing or my relation to the church. I chose the latter alternative and so gave my answer, with the assurance there should be no publicity given to the fact of my severence from the church. I was, with my friends, much pained and shocked when the pastor publicly announced last Sunday, from the pulpit that I was no longer a member of the church, and that the church would tolerate no such conduct as I had been guilty of, and made no explanation of what my offensive conduct had been. I was charged with and acknowledged dancing and no more. MARY [illegible]

OHIO TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Ohio Township was one of the original townships of Clermont County. In its first term, on February 25, 1801, the Justices Court of General Quarter Sessions divided the new Clermont County into five townships. The boundaries of these first five townships can be seen elsewhere in this book.

One of these was Ohio Township, which appears to have, at that time, included all of Pierce and Union Townships, part of Monroe and Tate Townships, and the portion of Batavia Township which lies south of the East Fork. Branch. The boundaries of these first five townships can be seen elsewhere in this book.

Once the largest, or one of the largest townships in the county in area, Ohio Township is now the smallest of the 14 townships, having been greatly diminished by the formation of the later townships from its original area. However, in 1890 when this atlas was being compiled, Ohio Township had the third highest population, 3301 people.

Ohio Township is bounded on the south by the Ohio River, and is largely comprised of rounded hills rising from the river bottom lands and from Twelve Mile Creek, its principal watershed. Ten Mile Creek also has some headwater branches originating in Ohio Township, but enters the Ohio River in Pierce Township. Ten Mile Creek and Twelve Mile Creek supposedly received their names from being approximately that distance from the mouth of the Little Miami River. Pond Run Creek runs southwest, more or less dividing Pierce Township from Ohio Township.

MOUNT PISGAH

The small hamlet of Mount Pisgah in the center of Ohio Township was never officially laid out and was formerly known locally as "Kegtown," a nickname given it due to the cooperage business (making barrels and kegs) operated at that place.

Mount Pisgah was a country trading place with a post office, doctors, a school, and a church. The first post office was called LISBON and was established about 1840 with Samuel Hayforth as postmaster. In the 1860's the local Methodist Church there was recorded in their minutes as Mount Pleasant church.

WITHAMSVILLE

Withamsville was a small rural area in Union Township which was never laid out as a village proper. A post office and hotel were located there, and with its convenient location on the Ohio Pike (now 1999, State Route 125), many other small businesses grew up, mainly on either side of the Ohio Pike.

Now, in 1999, State Route 125 is developed almost solidly from Cincinnati to Hamlet and beyond with businesses and residences.

Withamsville was named for the Witham family, the first settlers there. The Rev. Maurice Witham came from Maine in 1800 and obtained 1000 acres of land in 1803. He died in 1807 at Chillicothe, where he had traveled on business. Some of the descendants of his eight children have remained in the area to this day.

LINDALE

Lindale was a small hamlet located at the northern part of Ohio Township. The first post office at Lindale was called LYNDON. Lindale contained a collar and harness factory, a physician, a church, shops, stores, and residences.

CROSS CREEK

Twelve Mile Creek in Ohio Township was labeled Cross Creek on an 1857 wall map of Clermont County, Ohio.

THOSE WONDERFUL EARLY ATLASES

While indexing all the maps in this atlas, I occasionally became exasperated with the original cartographers for their various ambiguities. It then occurred to me to wonder how in the world they did such a wonderful job using such tiny print and puzzling names. I now hope that people using my reprint and index a hundred years from now may be as equally indulgent of whatever errors, omissions, or ambiguities I have caused.

HULINGTON

Hulington was a small hamlet in Monroe Township laid out by Albert W. Huling on March 5, 1877, where the Cincinnati, Georgetown, and Portsmouth Railroad crossed Ulrey's Run. The original plan contained the railroad depot together with 59 lots with houses and a store. Never completely developed, the area is still a lovely rural setting.

CLIFTON

Clifton is the name given to the area on the eastern edge of New Richmond. The origin of the name is not known to present day officials, but it is assumed it built up at the time the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad came to New Richmond, as Clifton was its eastern terminus.

The area built up on both sides of the Ohio River Pike (later U.S.52), and contained a brick works, a school, many residences, and the First National Bank of New Richmond.

Little Indian Creek once ran between the houses on the Ohio River Pike and the Ohio River, but the course of the creek changed and now enters the river farther upstream.

The New Richmond Electric Power Plant and Waterworks was built in 1899, the first in the county. The operation stood approximately where the present (1999) waterworks was built in 1983.

THE 1890's – AIRPLANES

Airplanes were practically unheard of in the 1890's. Inventors were experimenting with gliders at that time. But, in 1896, Orville and Wilbur Wright, who operated a bicycle shop in Dayton, began experimenting with a "flying machine", eventually achieving very short air flights at Kittyhawk Island, North Carolina in 1903.

The airplane first obtained wide usage in World War I.

THE 1890'S

HARRY S. TRUMAN

In 1891 when this Atlas was originally published, Harry S. Truman was celebrating his 7th birthday. As 33rd president of the United States, he had to take the responsibility of making the lonely decision to use the atomic bomb to end the terrible World War II, thus saving the thousands of lives that a continued conflict would have cost.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1891.

THE COPPER CONTINGENT.

At the close of the season last year the total number of copperheads killed in Bantam numbered but eight. This year the market shows a decided improvement, being much livelier. During the winter and early spring months the supply has been limited, with but few offerings, and the dull red animal has been both sleepy in appearance and sluggish in sale, and but little inquiry has been made for them. Last week, however, the harvest season approaching, farmers began to take an interest in the stock, and the bright red and yellow spotted beauties were secured and displayed in open market. They were captured on the Blackwood place, and are the first of the season. So firm an opening on these rare goods indicate the largest invoices ever received from any locality in this region. A hyperdermic injection by a skilled copperhead operates more effectually than all the cocaine ever invented, and two of them would stampede a camp-meeting worse than Sut Luvengood's lizzards. The copper snake is not valued so much for its metal, as it is feared for its meddlesomeness. A hunt should be organized in the Bantam district, for this "redskin" of the reptile tribe.

NEW RICHMOND VILLAGE

The Village of New Richmond was founded on the Ohio River in Ohio Township by Jacob Light in 1814. He laid out the original down-river part of New Richmond from September 19 to September 22, 1814. It is thought that the original plat was designed by Jacob Light's nephew, who named it after Richmond, Virginia where he had formerly lived.

The original plat contained 219 lots, each 1/4 acre in area, with seven streets. As usual with most villages on a stream, the streets run parallel to the river, with vertical streets running at right angles to the hills.

Two years later, in 1816, Thomas Ashburn laid out the village of SUSANNA, which later joined with New Richmond to make one long, narrow village. The area known as Clifton developed at the southeastern boundary, making the town even longer.

Thomas Ashburn named the village for his wife, Susanna. The original plan for the village of Susanna was very well thought out and allowed for beautiful and orderly arrangement of the village. It is said that, had the original plan been carried out, Susanna would have been the most beautiful town in the State. It made allowance for many novel features ahead of its time, with lots held for specific purposes. Among these were a promenade on the banks of the Ohio for the purposes of ornament and recreation, which is still maintained today (1999) for those purposes. Union Square was set aside for the same purposes. The plan allowed for courts, market places, school areas, burial grounds, spacious hotels, places of worship, and a public library.

Partly developed by the plan, the village of Susanna lost its identity in 1828 when it was incorporated into the village of New Richmond just one month before Thomas Ashburn died. However, New Richmond has always profited in beauty by some of the remaining original plan-work of Susanna, such as the open riverfront promenade and the diagonal avenue, as seen on the map. Memorial monuments to veterans lend dignity and serenity to the riverfront.

In 1890 when this atlas was being compiled, New Richmond was the largest village in the county. The population was 2,379 people, more than twice the number at Milford or Batavia, the next two largest villages. This was a result of New Richmond's advantageous location on the Ohio River, with large wharfs and steamboat interests before the days of the automobile.

New Richmond and its riverfront were especially active locations during the steamboat era from the mid 1800's until the end of the century. A detailed history of early New Richmond and its riverfront era may be found on pages 406 through 422 of Rockey and Bancroft's' "History of Clermont County, Ohio," published by Everts in 1880, in which the historians referred to New Richmond as "the largest and most flourishing village in the county."

Floods, particularly in 1884, 1913, and 1937, have taken a toll on the riverside village, which still today (1999) enjoys its beautiful riverside setting and its many parades and festivals. A museum is located at 125 George Street.

TOWN-LOTS.

NEW RICHMOND

IS a new Town, situated in Clermont County, State of Ohio, on the bank of the Ohio River, twenty miles above Cincinnati. It is laid out on a wide bottom with high banks, never overflowed with back-water—the adjacent country is fertile, well timbered, and settled with able farmers. There is a GRIST and SAW-MILL one mile from the town, and three public roads leading to it, one from Dreham-town—one from the Round Bottom, on the Little Miami, and one from Cincinnati to Augusta passes through. It is a healthy and handsome situation, sufficient to recommend itself to any persons wishing to purchase.

The Lots will be offered for public sale, at the town, on the 6th day of October next. The terms will be made known on the day of sale by

JACOB LIGHT,
Proprietor.

Sept. 10th, 1814. 8-3

– September 17, 1814 - New Richmond Lots –

SUSANNA.

BY this name the subscriber has laid off a Town on the Ohio, adjoining New Richmond, 20 miles above Cincinnati, in a desirable situation and a well timbered country of great fertility. In devising the plan of this Town, special regard was had to the following objects, viz; health, convenience, diversity and ornament. Excepting two, none of the streets are less than 80 feet wide; and there are four diagonal avenues, each exceeding 110 feet. All alleys, except a few short ones, are each 20 feet wide. In the centre is an open public square, 560 feet each way upon the river bank, and extending along the whole front of the town, runs a wide public promenade; besides these, there are other open places, such as a crescent, court &c. Also spacious reserves for a Market-house, a seminary of learning & walks for the pupils, public Library, places worship and a Hotel—all the public places are forever to be kept open for ornament and recreation. Grave-yards are provided in the Out-lots, as no interment will be permitted within the Town.

To secure purchases against after-imposition, the proprietor has recorded, along with the General Plat, a Declaration explanatory of it; by which he binds himself, his heirs and assigns, to adhere without innovation, to the original plat.

On the first Monday in March next,

A proportion of the lots will be sold on the spot to the highest bidders, without reserve. In the meantime the plan may be seen at Mr. Weaver's Tavern, in front street, Cincinnati.

THO. ASHBURN.

January 20, 1816.

☞ Any suitable person who will open a Brick-yard, shall receive a deed in fee for any out-lot he may prefer for the purpose, and be at liberty to supply the yard with fuel from fallen timber on the whole tract. And as a farther encouragement, the Proprietor will engage, to take the whole, or one half, (as may be agreed) of the first kiln, at a fair price.

MONROE TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Monroe Township is one of the five southern Clermont County townships which have the Ohio River for its boundary, and has the distinction of being the birthplace, at Point Pleasant, of our famous Civil War General and President of the United States, Ulysses S. Grant.

The county commissioners, acting on a petition from a list of inhabitants of Ohio Township and Washington Township, established Monroe Township on June 9, 1825, with the following description:

"Beginning at the corner of Ohio Township, near Jacob Ulrey's; thence south ten degrees east till it intersects or strikes the Tate Township line, one hundred and ten poles from Peter McClain; thence south forty-four degrees west to the mouth of Little Indian Creek; thence with the Ohio River to the mouth of Boat Run; thence north twenty-eight degrees east until it strikes the State road from Cincinnati to Bethel; thence with said road to the beginning."

With the later creation of Pierce Township, Monroe Township is now bounded on the west by Ohio and Pierce Townships, on the north by Batavia Township, on the east by Tate and Washington Townships, and on the south by the Ohio River.

The principal stream is Indian Creek, which flows into the Ohio River at Point Pleasant. Boat Run drains the central part of the township and flows into the Ohio River in the southwestern corner of the township near Clermontville. Monroe Township is also the headwater source of several other creeks, namely Ulrey's Run, which flows north into the East Fork of the Little Miami, and Ten Mile Creek and Twelve Mile Creek, which flow into the Ohio River through other townships.

From the hills, which rise close to the river, much fine stone was quarried for the building of the roads, houses, and foundations in earlier days.

CLERMONTVILLE

Clermontville was a small hamlet near the mouth of Boat Run and the Ohio River in Monroe Township. A post office was located there about 1820. Clermont Academy, often referred to as Parker's Academy, was established there by Rev. Daniel Parker. It was the only institution of higher learning in the county in earlier days. Tobacco warehouses and stores were located at Clermontville, and river trade was transacted.

POINT OPOLIS

Point Opolis was a little town platted and laid out June 1, 1818 on Indian Creek across the creek from Point Pleasant in Monroe Township. The original plan contained 332 lots with provision for the county seat to be located there. The plat was never developed. In later years, a factory which manufactured clay pipes occupied the area where Indian Creek empties into the Ohio River.

NICE

Nice, seen on the 1910 map, was the name of a post office in Monroe Township, located on the Bethel – New Richmond Road between New Richmond and Nicholsville.

THE 1890'S

MOTION PICTURES (MOVIES)

When the Wizard of Menlo Park, Thomas A. Edison, invented moving pictures, he had high hopes that it would change the world of education. The "kinetoscope," he said, would do for the eye what the phonograph did for the ear.

Edison predicted an educational future for the invention, saying, "The child will be so interested, he'll run to school. We shan't be able to keep him away."

A newspaper in 1889, however, referred to the invention, saying, "While there seems to be no realistic future for all of this, the partly deaf, largely self-educationed Edison displays his usual enthusiasm."

Edison, of course, was partly wrong. Children do not "run to school" just to watch educational movies, and, as far as not being "able to keep them away," we note that children still play hooky.

But it appears that the newspaper was also wrong as far as there being no realistic future for moving pictures.

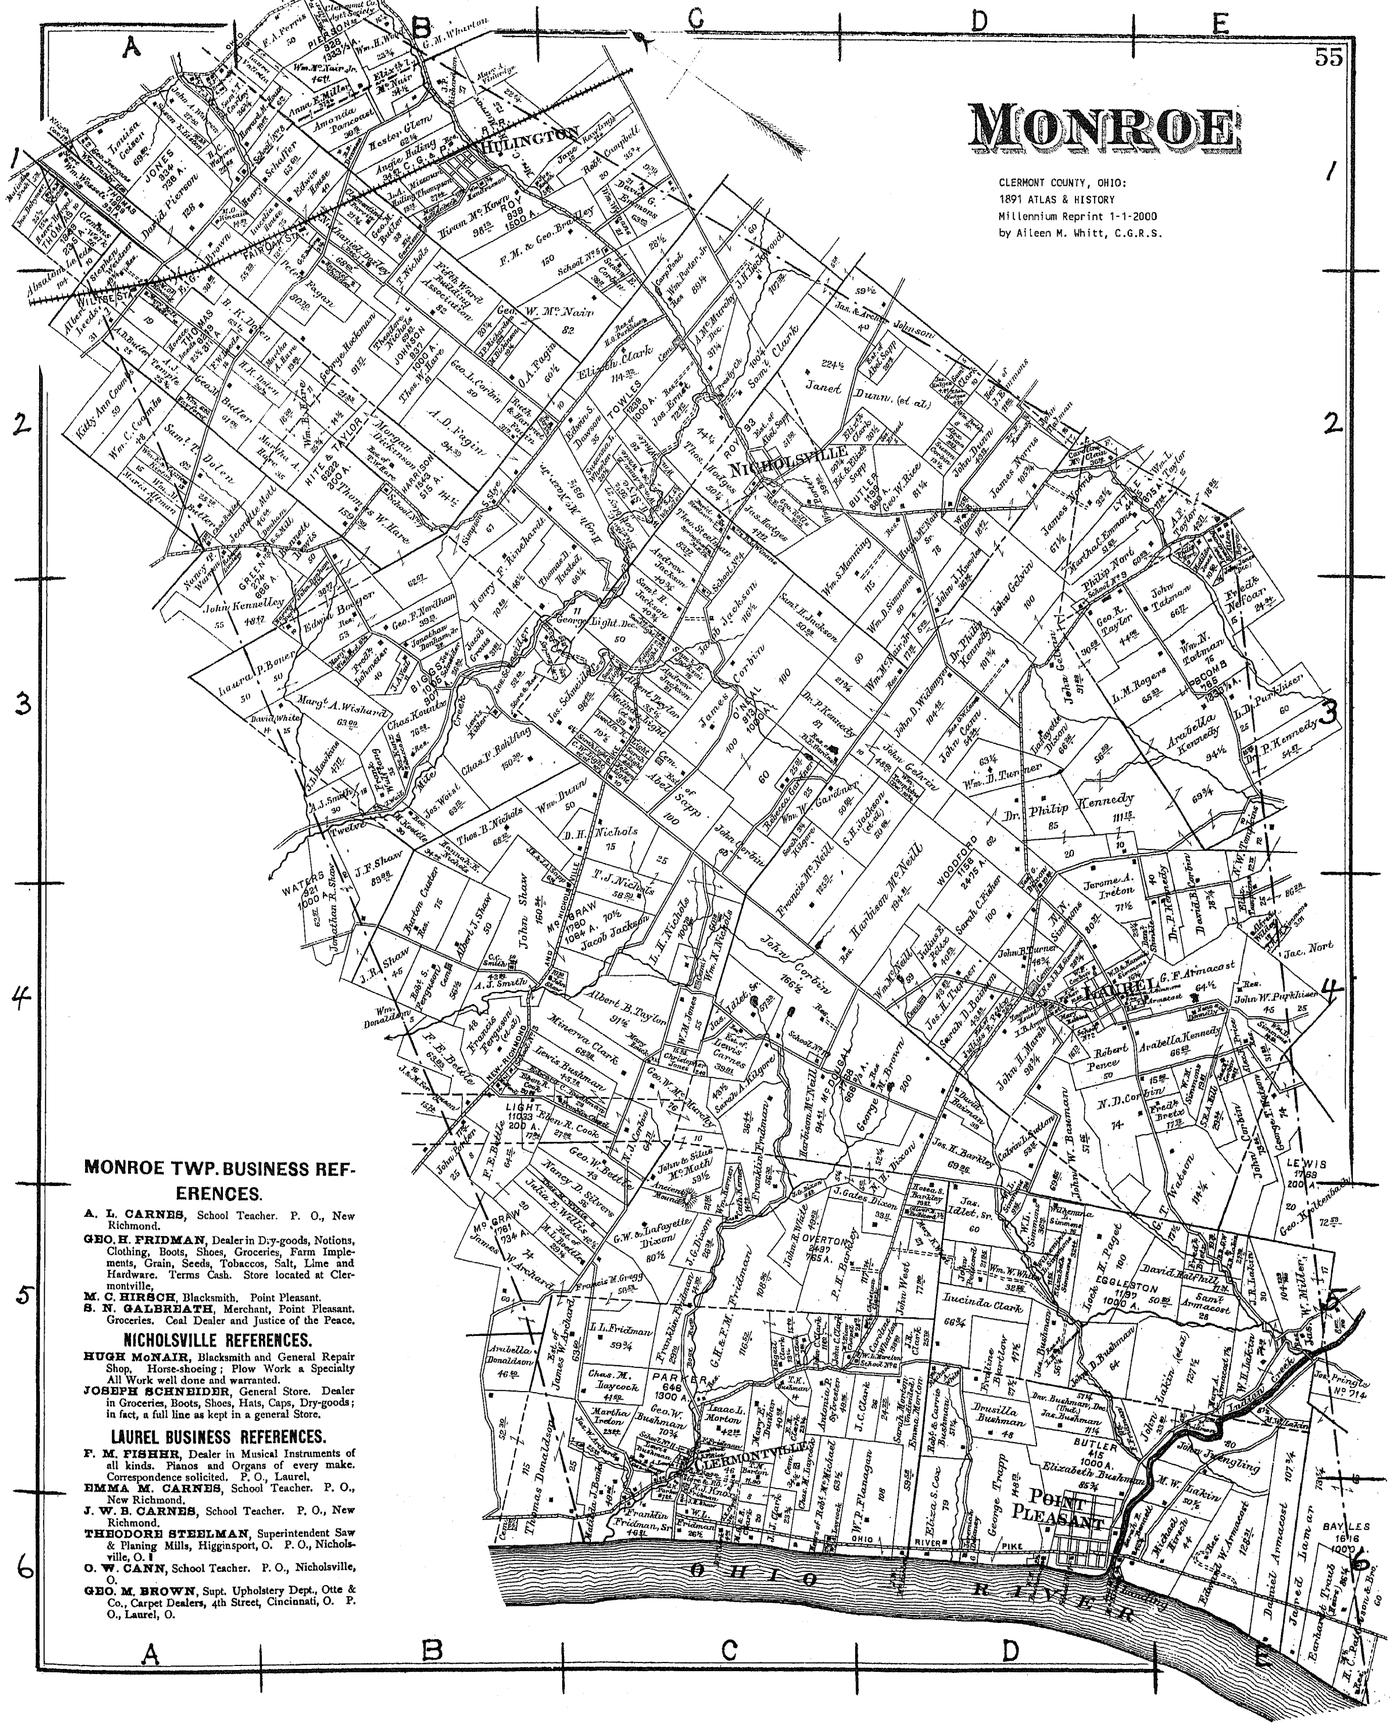

A case in point:

A Dallas, Texas, dressmaker, Abraham Zapruder, just happened to be making a home movie of the events of November 22, 1963, when President John F. Kennedy was shot. The federal government seized the film by law when they collected all records relating to the events of the tragic day. In August, 1999, the court found that the United States government must pay the heirs of Mr. Zapruder $16 million plus interest for the 26-second strip of film..

"No realistic future for movies?!"

NEVILLE

The village of Neville is situated on the Ohio River in Washington Township. One of the oldest towns in the county, Neville received its name from General Presley Neville. General Neville founded the small town and owned the entire survey on which it was established. General Presley Neville was the son of Col. John Neville, for whom the first survey in the Northwest Territory was made.

The original plat contained about 45 acres and was laid out in 1808 by Neville, through his agent, Jonathan Taylor. The town was made up of 120 lots which were one-fourth acre in size, with one acre being set aside for a public square. Additional provision was also made for a public landing on the riverfront.

General Neville made an addition to the village in 1812, at which time he also became a resident of the community. The village enjoyed a significant place on the river in the days of heavier river importance.

A more detailed history of the government, churches, and residents of Neville, including more information about General Presley Neville, may be found on page 370 to 372 of the "History of Clermont County, Ohio," by Rockey and Bancroft, published in 1880.

TOBASCO

Tobasco was a small hamlet in Union Township that grew up as a crossroads separating four farms. It became a station on the Cincinnati and Eastern Railroad with a post office, blacksmith shops, wagon maker's shops, stores, a tavern and residences. Much later, on February 28, 1878, Reuben White laid out 25 lots on the west side of Nine Mile Turnpike on about 14 acres of land.

POINT PLEASANT

Point Pleasant, located in Monroe Township on the Ohio River at the mouth of Indian Creek, has gained international renown as the humble birthplace of United States President, Ulysses S. Grant. Grant's father operated a tannery at Point Pleasant and moved from the area to Brown County about a year after our famous General and President was born.

Point Pleasant was laid out in 1813 by Joseph Jackson for the proprietor, Henry Ludlow. The original plat contained 100 in-lots and 13 out-lots situated on 62 acres of land with a public landing.

The first postmaster at Point Pleasant was John Molyneaux.

LAUREL

Laurel is a tiny country hamlet just south and east of the center of Monroe Township. It was first laid out in 1837 by William Pollard, first known as VAN BURENVILLE. The first plat contained several lots, and with an addition the following year, in 1838, the total number of lots was 67. The name of the village was changed from Van Burenville to Laurel about 1844.

The first post office was established in 1842 and the name of the post office was CLERMONT, with James Simmons as the first postmaster. Two years later, in 1844, this post office name was also changed to Laurel. Three names, all for the same small hamlet.

1891 ATLAS VALUABLE TO RESEARCHERS

The original 1891 Atlas portion of this book is a very valuable resource tool to historians and genealogists.

It shows detailed locations of old cemeteries, churches, schools, mills, roads, railroads, businesses and homes.

This reprint contains about 40 pages of maps from the original atlas, plus an equal number of added pages of the history of the county, and a comprehensive, every name, every place, index of the entire publication.

THE 1890'S - AUTOMOBILES

Henry Ford built his first automobile in 1893, but because there were no suitable roads for automobile transportation, cars were virtually unknown in the 1890's.

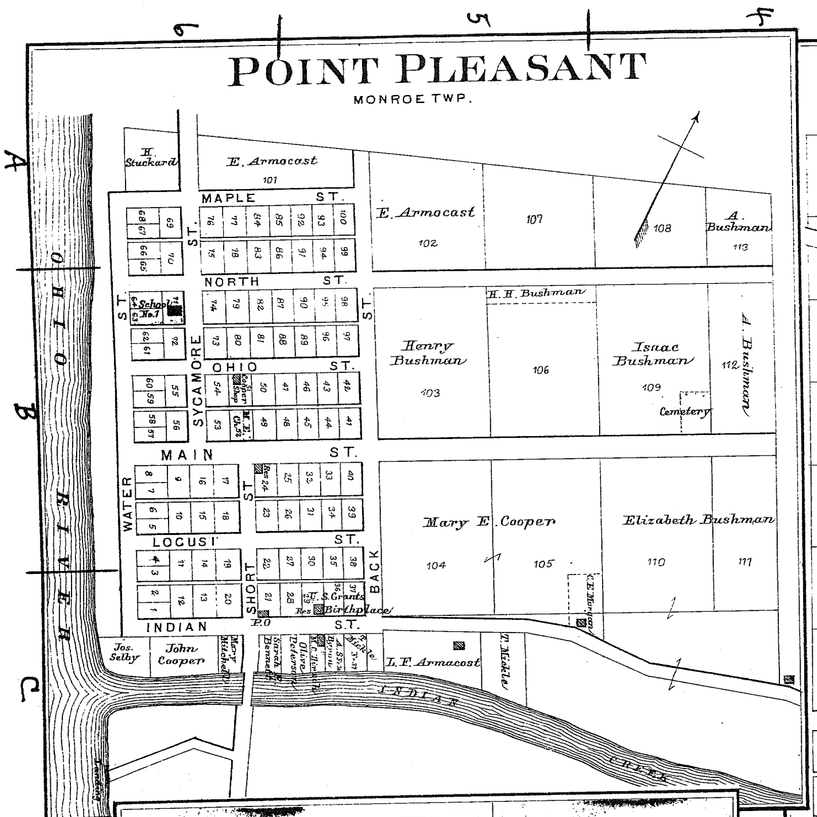

After Henry Ford initiated the assembly line method of production, the public demanded better roads and the world was never the same again.

The bad news was that the automobile drove the horse from the road and destroyed the $50,000,000 carriage and buggy building industry.

The good news is that huge new industries grew up and flourished. Several million miles of improved highway now grace our country. The metals industry, the manufacture of tires, glass, and now the computerized technology involved in each car – all contribute to our great economy. Road building and maintenance alone are big business today.

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Washington Township was one of the original townships of Clermont County. In its first term, on February 25, 1801, the Justices' Court of General Quarter Sessions divided the new Clermont County into five townships. One of these was Washington Township. Definition of the boundaries of these first townships and their election places may be found elsewhere in this book.

The original Washington Township was greatly diminished by the later formation of Franklin and Monroe Townships from parts of Washington.

The land area of Washington Township is generally hilly from the river hills, and from its principal streams, Bear Creek, Maple Creek, and the larger Big Indian Creek, with its North Fork Branch and Stony Fork Branch.

Washington Township is bounded on the west by Monroe Township, on the north by Tate Township, on the east by Franklin Township, and on the south by the Ohio River. It has two sizeable river towns, Moscow and Neville, within its boundaries. These river towns were important locations in the days of the steamboat.

Washington Township has the distinction of being the location of the first survey made in the Northwest Territory. This survey was made by John O'Bannon, the pioneer deputy surveyor, on November 13, 1787, and includes the town of Neville. He made the survey for Colonel John Neville, who was an officer of the Revolutionary War in the Virginia line. The survey, number 388, was for 1400 acres, established on military warrant number 937. The chain-carriers were John Williams, Sylvester Montroney, and James Blair. The survey is said to have been so accurately executed that its lines and boundaries were never disputed as were many other early surveys within the county.

Today (1999) the huge Zimmer Electric Plant of Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company is located on the Ohio River in Washington Township near Moscow.

WIND AND HAIL.

Visit the Southern Portion of the County, Doing Much Damage by Unroofing Barns, Breaking Windows, and Blowing Down the Growing Wheat.

Last Thursday afternoon the Southern part of the county was visited by one of the most severe wind and hail storms ever known in that section. The wind blew a severe gale and hail stones fell as large as hen eggs. While considerable damage was done to buildings and crops, no loss of life or live stock has been reported.

The dwelling of Noah Tompkins, who resides near Laurel, had forty window pains broken out of it. In many places the large hail stones penetrated iron roofs like bullets. The wind blew down a barn belonging to W. D. Simmons, but as luck would have it, the barn contained no stock at the time. Wheat was also damaged considerably by the wind and hail. The hail storm was about one-half mile wide and two miles in length. In many other places the rain and wind was very severe, but no hail.

Our county has been very fortunate in recent years in escaping destructive cyclones and tornadoes.

A BEAUTIFUL EDIFICE.

The New M. E. Church at Moscow To be Dedicated on Sunday, May 24th, With Appropriate Ceremonies.

One of the Most Costly, Convenient and Commodious Church Buildings in Southern Ohio.—Rev. Earl Cranston, D. D., of the Methodist Book Concern, Cincinnati, to Deliver the Dedicatory Sermon.—A Jubilee Day for the People of Moscow.

Next Sunday the new M. E. Church at Moscow will be dedicated to the service of the Lord. The structure, which is modern in all its appointments, was commenced about a year ago, and is now completed ready for occupancy.

In July, 1890 the corner stone was laid with appropriate ceremonies by Rev. John Wilson, the present pastor. Since then the work on the edifice has progressed in a most satisfactory manner.

The edifice completed cost about $16,000, and is one of the finest church buildings outside of Cincinnati in Southern Ohio. We are under obligations to the Felicity Times for the facts concerning size, dimensions, architecture, &c.

The building committee was composed of the following members of the church: Rev. James McBride, W. H. Fee and H. F. Fisher, of which the pastor, Rev. John Wilson, has been the efficient secretary. The structure is 50 x 80 feet interior dimensions, and stands on a high limestone foundation. Its walls are composed of buff brick, their pilasters tastefully broken by ornamental pilasters reaching from floor to station in the square of the building, which is 18 feet and 8 inches in height. Entrance is had at the east and west sides of the building, that on the west side being surrounded and surmounted by a tower 80 feet in height. The building will be heated by an hot-water hot air furnace which is placed in the basement.

The interior of course, presents its greatest architectural beauty, which the structure as a whole and completeness is surveyed, when the size and dimensions are considered. By a curtain, from the brush of one of Cincinnati's best known artists, and richly depicting biblical scenes and incidents, the auditorium and lecture room are separated. The curtain is mechanical and by the pressure of a button may be quickly and easily drawn up, and into its space provided for its accommodation. By this arrangement the two divisions are thrown into one and an unobstructed sweep of the entire interior may be had from any point of view.

The pews are pronounced perfection by the conference. They are the most elegant hard wood pews finished in the natural color, that are generally and artistically arranged and contain by the extreme number of sittings. The before said Sunday-school room is supplied with chairs of a comfortable character and suitable design.

The carpeting is what is fashionably known as an "ingrain" one. The rattan and platters and the numerous ornamental brackets are carved and finished in an elaborate manner. The space is broken and broken by a ceiling of saints wood, finished in its own delicate tint. The room "altogether" is a most pleasing one, and aside from the attractiveness of the arrangement, the acoustic properties have been increased rather than diminished.

The walls are hung with rustic decorations, [illegible]

flash of crimson. Depending from the ceiling is the principal chandelier, which is a costly example of its kind. Forty-two lamps in chandelier it carries it keeps provided with the latest improved burners.

The floor falls gradually from the front of the auditorium to the sanctuary, which is slightly elevated and covered by three windows filled with charming examples of leaded cathedral glass. The sanctuary is richly furnished and the reading desk and chancel rail are elegant and really productions of their character. Four witches each 3 feet by 10 feet appear on either side of the pulpit. They are filled with cathedral glass in small diamond shapes. They represent a wide range both in color and taste, and are lighted in place by a most artistic arrangement with regard to color and effect.

In the front elevation stands a triple window, its frame-work elaborately constructed. The opening is three divided. In the center section, artistically wrought and in lasting remembrance, appears the name of James Harlistow, who died 1811 was the MINISTER, FIRST PREACHER in Moscow. He died in 1811, yet will he continue to live in the memory and affections of those who have and are yet to come after him. An-[illegible] is dedicated in lasting memory of Jacob Fee, another already pioneer of Methodism. It was he who officiated as the first class-leader in the old church, now about to be abandoned for the purposes of worship. Mr. Fee died in [illegible] years of [illegible].

By intelligent management and the constant watchfulness of its building committee, the congregation has secured to itself this elegant and splendid example of strictly modern church architecture for a total cost, to round numbers, of seven thousand dollars. The general rule in such cases, there will be a deficiency to be met on the day of dedication. But with the spirit and liberality that has always characterized their actions in the enterprise, the people, both in and out of church, will see to it that the debt is wiped clean on that auspicious occasion.

The dedicatory exercises, which take place next Sunday, will be a memorable occasion in the history of the church, and will of course be attended by many strangers. Rev. Earl Cranston, D. D., has been selected for that important duty. He will preach at 10:30 A. M., and at 7 P. M. the Rev. Messrs. Hollingsworth, of Batavia, and Lockwood, of Felicity, will respectively be present, and it is will preach in the evening. Following is program:

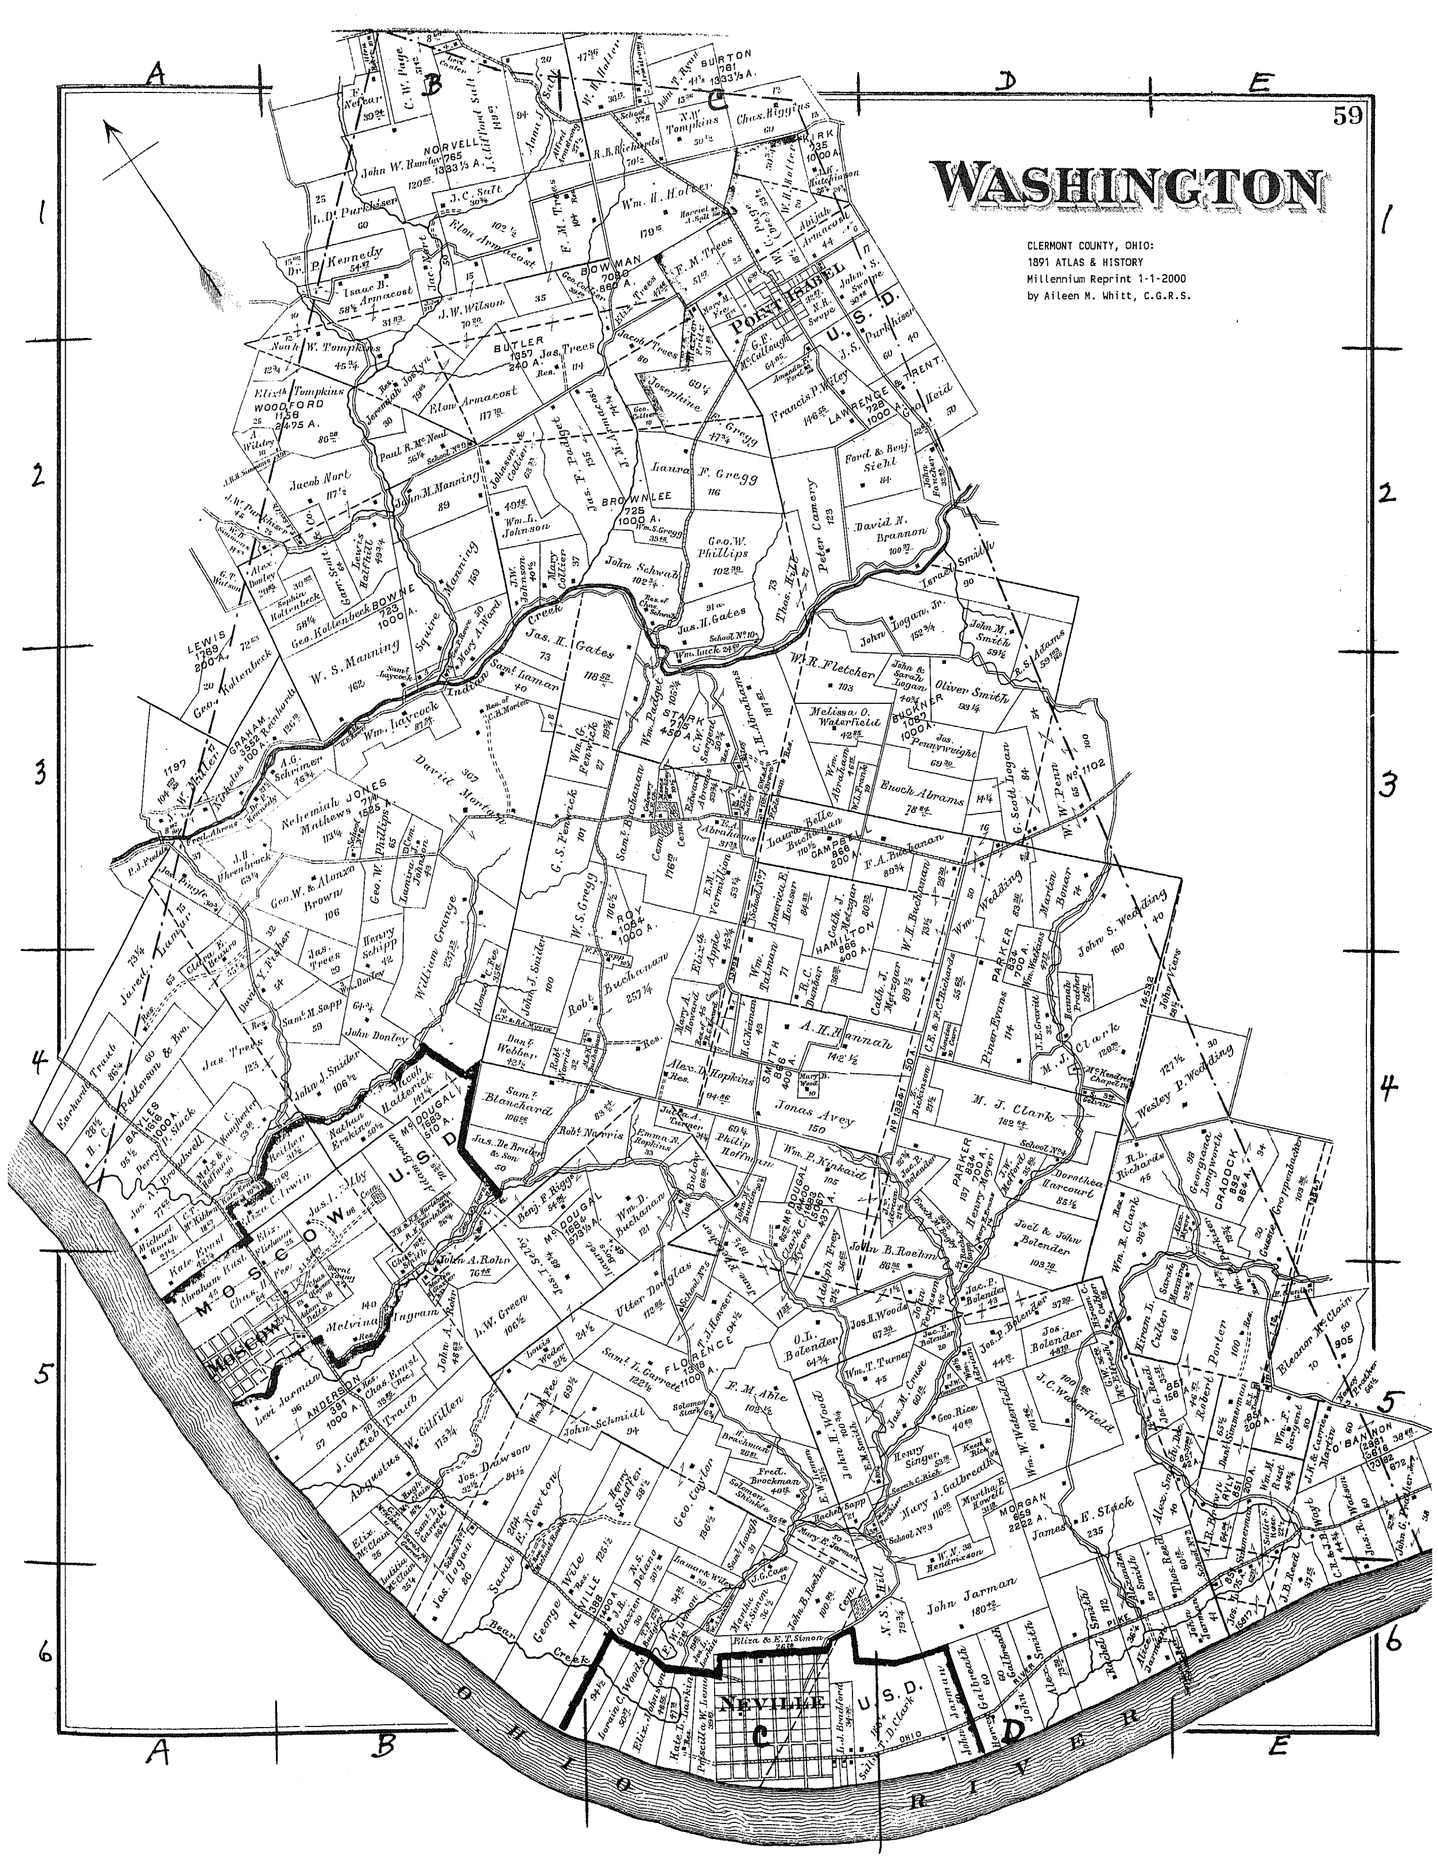

MORNING SERVICE, 10:30 o'clock.

Doxology, Praise God, from whom all blessings flow. Invocation. Prayer. Scripture Lesson. Gloria Patri. Hymn. Sermon, Rev. Earl Cranston, D. D. Offertory. Doxology.

AFTERNOON SERVICE, 2 o'clock. — General exercises. Dedication, Rev. Earl Cranston, D. D.

MOSCOW VILLAGE

The vifllage of Moscow is situated in Washington Township on the Ohio River at the point where Ray's Run empties into the river.

The town was laid out and the plat recorded on July 30, 1816 by Owen Davis, through his attorney-in-fact, John Payne. With distinct plans for the future, the planners laid out 160 smaller lots with 16 out-lots of one acre size. Provisions were made for a tract of land to be kept aside, equal to 8 lots, for the use of a county seat, should it ever be located there. The space reserved allowed for a court house and jail and other public buildings that the county commissioners might erect. Provisions were also made for churches, cemeteries and a school.

The original advertisement for the sale of lots in the proposed new village may be seen on this page.

The "first and second banks" of the river were to constitute "commons" for the people, with the proprietor keeping for himself the right to operate ferries across the Ohio River in the village.

A more detailed history of the government, manufacturing, churches, lodges, and schools of Moscow may be found in Rockey and Bancroft's fine old History of Clermont County, Ohio, on pages 372 – 379.

Today (1999) the Zimmer Power Plant of the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company is located near Moscow.

CHILO

The Village of Chilo was laid out in Franklin Township on May 1, 1816 by Robert Bagby. Located on the Ohio River the village was originally platted with 208 lots, with a public landing, a parade ground, and a public market. The streets of Chilo were nearly all named for Revolutionary War heroes. Prior to being named Chilo, the village was originally known by the name MECHANICSBURG. The first post office was established in 1825 and Ignatius Poole was the first postmaster.

Chilo was a place of some significance during the hey-day of the river boats. Chilo contained a dock for building steamboats. The "Spartan" was built at Chilo about 1833 by Captain James Walls. On her trial trip from Cincinnati, the boat ran as fast as a man could walk, which made the captain so happy that he thought the boat was too speedy to run between Chilo and Cincinnati, so it was put on the Mississippi River.

Chilo was a stop for many steamboats and there was also a ferry from Chilo to the Kentucky town of Bradford.

Additional historical information about Chilo May be found on pages 344 and 345 of Rockey and Bancroft's "History of Clermont County, Ohio" published by Everts in 1880. In that book, the historians tell of fourteen steamboats being within sight at one time at Chilo in its hey-day.

The original advertisement for the sale of lots in the new town of Mechanicsburg (Chilo) is shown here.

MOSCOW,
A New Town.

THE undersigned having laid off a Town on the northern bank of the Ohio river, by the name of MOSCOW, purposes to sell

Lots at Public Auction,

On the premises, on Monday the 22d of July next, at a credit of twelve months.

Moscow is situated on the northern bank of the Ohio, river, in the county of Clermont, and state of Ohio, about sixteen miles below Augusta in Kentucky, and about four miles above the mouth of Big Indian in Ohio, in a high, healthy, fertile and most beautiful bottom—on a bank entirely above high, water mark, and comm nding an extensive view of the river. The local situation of Moscow, and its advantages will command the attention of the merchant, the mechanick, the publican, the speculator, and in fine of every class of citizens.

It is in contemplation to lay off a new county by striking off the upper part of Clermont and the lower part of Adams—the contemplated new line will run so near Williamsburgh (the present seat of justice of Clermont county) as to render a removal of the seat of justice indispensably necessary, in which case Moscow will stand eminently conspicuous for its receptance, being central between the contemplated upper line and the present lower line of the county, in front of the most populous and wealthy part of the county, and containing a spacious public square.—Liberal encouragement will be given to mechanicks who will settle in the town. The terms of sale will be made known on the day of sale—Sale to begin at 10 o'clock—the title indisputable.—A complete plan of the town will be exhibited on the day of sale.

POINT ISABEL

Point Isabel was laid out in Washington Township by Michael E. Baum in 1845 with 28 lots. Prior to that time, the Point Isabel area was known as PEKIN.

The hamlet is situated about six miles from Moscow and nearer Felicity, on intersecting roads. The Point Isabel post office was established in 1848.

In its earlier days, Point Isabel had an Odd-Fellows Hall, stores, doctors, a saw mill and grist mill, wagon makers and other businesses.

MARATHON

The small town of Marathon was located in Jackson Township just west of the Brown County line on the Milford and Chillicothe Turnpike about three miles east of Monterey. The area was called CYNTHIANA before it was named Marathon.

Marathon was laid out in December, 1838 by John Ferguson and John Eckelberger, with 42 lots on five streets. With additions, the village grew and obtained a post office in 1852. Prior to that time, several people had operated as postmasters from their farm homes.

Additional details about the early inhabitants and business people of Marathon may be found on pages 551 and 552 of the "History of Clermont County, Ohio" written by Rockey and Bancroft and published by Everts in 1880.

NICHOLSVILLE

Nicholsville is situated in the northern part of Monroe Township. Originally the little business area just grew up unplanned, but in 1842 E.S. Dole laid out about six acres joining the small unplatted neighborhood and named the village FEETOWN, after an early storekeeper there, Daniel Fee. In early days Nicholsville has also been referred to as the SCOTCH SETTLEMENT.

Several years later, in the year 1847, Erin Cole bought the Dole properties and replatted the village lots. He re-named the village Nicholsville in honor of Nathan B. Nichols, who, at that time, operated the store and post office.

Additional historical information about the early land transactions and business people at Nicholsville may be found on page 389 of Rockey and Bancroft's "History of Clermont County, Ohio," pulbished in 1880 by Everts. The historians describe Nicholsville, at that time, as having "Presbyterian, Methodist, and Baptist church edifices, a good school-house, and an Odd-Fellows Hall."

BANTAM

The small hamlet of Bantam in Tate Township was never officially or regularly laid out, but originally grew up as a cluster of houses and businesses around a general store. The hamlet had a lawyer, a tavern, a carriage maker, a school, and a church. The first postmaster was Benjamin Ely, who established the post office at his store in 1837.

In 1849 the first Clermont County Fair took place at what is now (1999) State Routes 125 and 222 near Bantam. Later moved to Owensville, the fair celebrated 150 years of continuous operation this year (1999).

WOODVILLE

The village of Woodville is located in the far northeastern corner of Wayne Township at the lines where Clermont County joins Warren County and Clinton County. It was situated on the Milford and Woodville turnpike on Stonelick Creek.

Woodville was laid out on March 14, 1828 by Jesse Wood, attorney for General James Taylor. The original plat contained 52 lots with provision for a public square.

The post office at Woodville was established in 1836.

FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP HISTORY

Franklin Township has the most regular shape of all the Clermont County townships, being nearly rectangular. It lies in the far southeastern corner of Clermont County, and is about 8 miles long and 5 miles wide.

The township was established on May 5, 1818 by a petition to the county commissioners. It was formed from the eastern section of Washington Township and a small area of Lewis Township (now in Brown County), and is described as follows:

"Beginning at the upper corner (upriver) of Clermont County, two miles above the mouth of Bullskin Creek, on the Ohio River, thence with the county line between Clermont and Brown Counties to the original line of Lewis Township; thence westwardly with the line of Tate Township to where the State road crosses Indian Creek, about eight poles south of William Winter's; thence with the line of Washington Township two miles; thence in a direction that will strike the Ohio River twenty poles below the home where Dr. R.W. Hale now resides; thence with the meanders of the Ohio River to the Brown County line."

Franklin Township, therefore, is bordered on the east by Brown County, on the south by the Ohio River, on the west by Washington Township, and on the north by Tate Township.

Streams within the township are Bullskin Creek and its branch, Painter's Fork, Big Indian Creek, and Bear Creek. All flow south into the Ohio River, giving most of the township a picturesque, but rough and hilly landscape, except in the river bottoms.

Franklin Township contains Survey No. 1650 for 839 acres surveyed for "His Excellency George Washington," as the entry is recorded.

MOUNT OLIVE

Mount Olive was the name of a store and a post office established in 1848 in the northern part of Franklin Township.

SMITH'S LANDING

Smith's Landing was the name of the post office for the little town of Rural. Established about 1844 by Captain Alexander Smith, the landing on the Ohio River had a store and a warehouse, which were washed away in the flood of 1847. Rebuilt on the second bank of the river, the place continued with a warehouse and a ferry to Kentucky. The mail for the town of Rural was received by packet boat.

FOURIERITE ASSOCIATION

The Fourierite Association was a community on the Ohio River, in Franklin Township, stretching from below Rural to the Brown County line above Utopia. A large frame house contained a room for each family of the community association, and all worked for the common good.

This unusual and interesting mutual association is described more fully on page 343 of Rockey and Bancroft's History of Clermont County, Ohio, published in 1880 by Everts.

STRINGTOWN

A community several miles south of Felicity.

THE 1890'S

WHERE THE BUFFALO ROAMED

Great herds of buffalo once roamed our western states. There were 12 million buffaloes in the United States in the 1860's!

In 1890, when this atlas was being compiled, only about 1,000 remained.

The big buffalo slaughter occurred from 1872 to 1874, when, according to reports, about 3 million buffalo a year were slaughtered.

The lovely huge animal had contributed so much to the development of the country. It was by following the buffalo paths that Indians and white men were able to find passes through the mountains and fords at the streams.

The large rugged buffalo skins were used for warmth in rugs, as shelters, and even as clothing. The meat of the buffalo was eaten and the fats were used for many pioneer purposes.

Now, in 1999, buffalo herds are again increasing in the western states.

MAIL ORDER BUSINESS

Mail order business was booming in the 1890's. Developed in the 1870's and 1880's, the mail order houses flourished when the railroads offered quick, safe, and inexpensive delivery.

Mail ordering was helped greatly when rural free mail delivery started in 1896. Most of the mail order business was done in rural and small town areas such as Clermont in the 1890's.

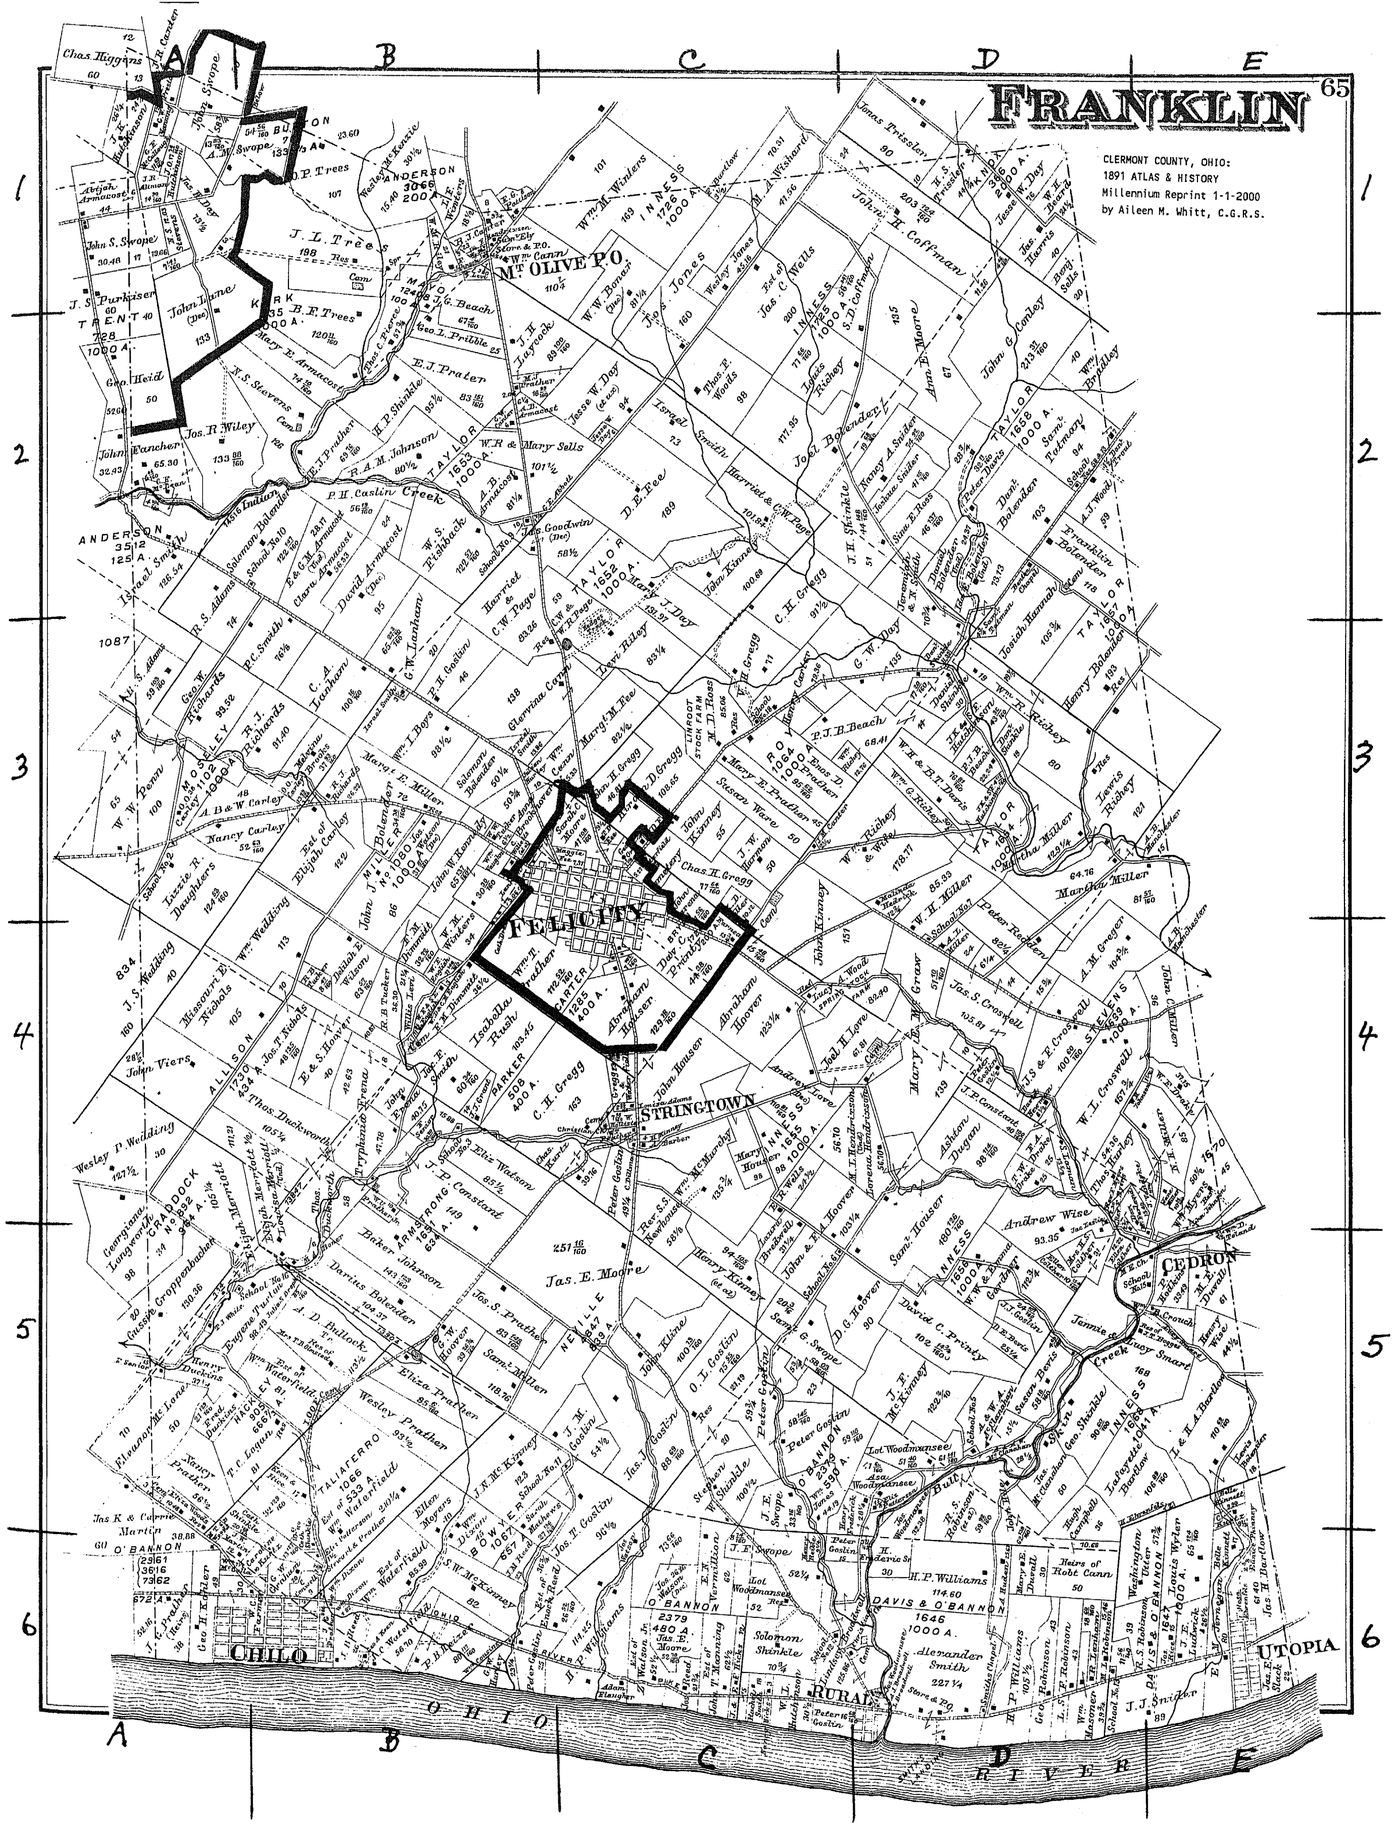

As the business grew around the turn of the century, everything from peanuts to automobiles and pre-cut houses was offered by mail.

Montgomery Ward and Sears & Roebuck were the main two mail order businesses.

FELICITY

Felicity Village was founded on April 19, 1817 by William Fee and Peter Hastings, with 72 lots platted on 22 ½ acres of land. Situated in Franklin Township on the high tablelands of southeastern Clermont County, the village streets were laid out with the points of the compass, running directly north and south, east and west.

Felicity has also been known as FEESTOWN, relating back to William Fee, the founder, and to other members of the original Fee family so prominent in the area.

In earlier days the land area where Felicity stands was heavily forested and said to have been very wet. As the dense forests were cleared and the land tilled, it became well drained.

A detailed history of early Felicity may be found on pages 345 – 354 of Rockey and Bancroft's "History of Clermont County, Ohio" published by Everts in 1880, in which the historians referred to Felicity as "the second village in the county in population and business importance," at that time. This old history gives further information about Felicity's government, churches, post offices, professional people, businesses, lodges and schools.

UTOPIA

The small town of Utopia in Franklin Township is situated on the Ohio River in the far southeastern corner of Clermont County at the Brown County line. It was laid out August 3, 1847 by Henry Jernegan and consisted of 84 lots of l/4 acre each.

Utopia was founded as a result of the discontinuation of the Fourierite Association. The small towns of Utopia and Rural have very interesting histories with relationship to that association. The Fourierite Association was founded on the land between these two communities, and all the members were expected to work together, each in his own trade or talent, and to share the common wealth thereof. The association was formed in 1844 and by 1846 was beginning to fail. The property was sold and a division was made among the members.

Henry Jernegan received several hundred acres and founded the little town of Utopia on utopian principles with the hopes of attracting good mechanics and citizens.

More details of the exceptionally interesting history of Utopia, Rural, and the Fourierite Association may be found on pages 343 and 344 of the "History of Clermont County, Ohio" by Rockey and Bancroft published by Everts in 1880.

CEDRON

Cedron was a small hamlet laid out in Franklin Township by Zachariah M. Lansdown on January 16, 1851. The original plat consisted of 11 lots located on Bullskin Creek, several miles above its mouth at the Ohio River, near the Brown County line.

The area contained a saw mill, churches, and mechanic shops. A post office was located there the same year the little town was platted. Zachariah M. Lansdown was also the first postmaster.

RURAL

The small hamlet of Rural was laid out on November 14, 1845 in Franklin Township on the Ohio River at the mouth of Bullskin Creek by Lindley Broadwell and Abraham Durrell. The survey was made by William S. McLean, with the original plat containing 60 lots of various size.

One of the first ferries in the area was operated as early as 1794 at the site where Rural was later founded. The ferry was operated by a man named Logston, and early settlers often resided there temporarily while arranging permanent land deals.

Like other river towns, Rural, during the heyday of steamboats, contained shops, mills and businesses. Most of the residents of early Rural had river interests and livelihoods.

ELUSIVE PLACE NAMES

Following are just some of the elusive place names seen in historical writings, but not easily found on today's maps. Some of the places are still known locally by these names; others were stations or "stops" on the railroads or interurban car lines that no longer exist and are forgotten. Some were post offices later consolidated with larger village post offices.

CARMEL was just west of Laurel in .Monroe Township. A Methodist Church and Cemetery were located there and Camp Meetings were held. A school also stood there. [1880 History of Clermont County, Ohio, (Everts)]

BIG BEAR WALLOW was at Laurel in Monroe Township. [Page 387 Everts 1880 History of C.C.O.]

MERWIN POST OFFICE was east of Withamsville on the Interurban Traction line in Union Township.

MODEST was located southeast of Goshen.

SUMMERSIDE was the railroad station just east of Mt. Carmel.

GLEN ROSE was a station on the Cincinnati-Georgetown-Portsmouth Railroad at Mt. Carmel.

FUNSTON was a stop on the traction line, northwest of Williamsburg. A post office was established there in 1901.

FEETOWN was an early name for Nicholsville.

O'BANNON was located east of Goshen Village.

HAMLET is located on the Ohio Pike [State Route 125] east of Amelia.

ELENOR was a post office location, east of Mulberry and west of Belfast in Miami Township.

COZZADDALE was an address in Goshen Township, listed in the 1902 Atlas, not shown on available maps.

FAIR OAKS was located in the Mount Holly area in Monroe Township.

SWINGS was a station on the Cincinnati-Georgetown-Portsmouth Railroad west of Bethel in Tate Township.

WALKER'S MILLS was a station on the Cincinnati-Georgetown-Portsmouth Railroad, in Tate Township, east of Bethel, very near the Brown County line.

NINE MILE or NINEMILE was a post office in Pierce Township on Nine Mile Creek, not far from the Hamilton County line.

SPANN was a post office in a general store in Pierce Township on Ten Mile Creek, later known as Raver's Store.

MANILA was located south east of Goshen in Goshen Township.

MOORE'S FORK was in Wayne Township, very near the Brown County line.

UNION PLAIN, was an address listed in a 1902 Clermont County Atlas, probably in Stonelick Township, not on available maps.

BAYWOOD was a post office listed in a 1902 Clermont County Atlas, probably in Williamsburg Township; not on available maps.

CRAVER was located in Stonelick Township, northwest of Owensville and northeast of Stonelick.

HIGHLAND PARK was a station on the Cincinnati-Georgetown-Portsmouth Railroad in Batavia Township, west of Batavia Village and south of Olive Branch.

WE DO NOT NEED A COURT HOUSE!!!!!

Early Undated Petition.

The Honourable the Gentlemen ... Court of Quarter Sessions for the County of Clermont greeting. Whereas it has been of late reported to your memorialists, that the Building of a Court House is in petition, a plan of which has been before your Honours, and some leading characters are exerting their powers and abilities in that behalf — In opposition to which we flatter ourselves to present for your consideration six reasonable objections — first the inhabitants are generally to poor — Secondly they are to few — thirdly the money is more needed for roads, bridges &c which are at present for carriages almost impossible — fourthly because it is not a Court House was intended for — four years — fifthly it is not common for new counties to build Court houses so soon — And Lastly is generally intirely the main object of the motion and not the common good of the County, does not the promoters of the motion know, that the County seat is not permanent. And should it be removed to a more Central and convenient place as is intended the public buildings would be sold at private expence —
Gentlemen we hope you will ... these objections, and ... consider the prayers of your ... Petitioners.

VIRGINIA MILITARY RESERVE LANDS

March 1, 1784

Clermont County, Ohio, was formed on December 6, 1800, within the Northwest Territory of the United States, even before Ohio became a state. It lies, in its entirety, in the Virginia Military Reserve District.

The Virginia Military Lands comprised a tract lying between the Scioto and Little Miami Rivers, bounded on the south by the Ohio River, and now (1999) bounded on the north by Auglaize, Hardin, and Marion Counties. Seen on the map on the facing page, this tract of land contained about four million, two hundred and four acres.

The Virginia Military Land contained in whole the present (1999) counties of Clermont, Brown, Adams, Clinton, Highland, Fayette, Madison and Union, and parts of the present counties of Scioto, Pike, Ross, Pickaway, Franklin, Delaware, Marion, Hardin, Auglaize, Logan, Champaign, Clark, Greene, Warren, and Hamilton.

In the third year of the Revolutionary War, the State of Virginia, which claimed the ownership of all the lands west of the Allegheny Mountains, opened an office for the sale of her western lands. After the Revolution, Virginia agreed to relinquish all of her claims to the "land northwest of the Ohio River" to the new central United States government. However, Virginia was allowed to retain a claim to a portion of this territory, known as the Virginia Military Reserve District, to satisfy the claims of those soldiers who had fought during the Revolutionary War.

The various ordinances of Congress and the conditions of Virginia's deed of cession of the Northwest Territory provided that no land in Clermont County could be purchased, entered, or surveyed except by the Continental Revolutionary soldiers of Virginia who possessed the required land warrants for their services as officers or privates, or their assignees.

The procedures for obtaining the lands were complicated for an ordinary individual. Very few of the Revolutionary veterans wanted to leave their eastern homes and livelihoods and move their families to an uncertain future on the frontier, even though they had qualified and received their warrants. They, therefore, almost to the man, sold their warrants and assigned them to land dealers and speculators, who came west, surveyed and patented the land, then sold them to individuals. Many of the same soldiers were then able to buy outright the good cheap land that the land dealers had already laid off.

The first surveys in Ohio under the provisions of the reservation and other acts followed immediately after the passage of the Northwest Ordinance of 1787, and were made in Clermont County on November 13 and 14, 1787, the fall before the settlement at Marietta, and a year before the first settlers at Cincinnati began their operations. The first land, therefore, surveyed by a government officer in Ohio was in Clermont County in 1787.

Some of the prominent Virginia soldiers who received land allotments in the Virginia Military District were Generals George Washington, George Rogers Clark, and Daniel Morgan. George Washington's nephew, George A. Washington, also received a tract.

When the lands were surveyed under the orders of the appointed principal surveyor, the proper entries returned to the land office, patents signed by the president were issued. The procedure was: (1) warrant; (2) entry; (3) survey; and (4) patent.

Not laid out in the usual township and sections method, the lands were allocated by "metes and bounds," also known as "indiscriminate surveys." Deeds often described boundaries in terms such as "from a water beech tree" to a "small creek." Trees were soon gone and streams often changed their courses during spring run-offs. Due to this method of surveys, therefore, much litigation arose, particularly in the early years, concerning disputed boundaries in this district.

Students, historians, and genealogists, as well as persons trying to clear titles to property, may go to the State Auditor's Office in Columbus, Ohio, to check the field notes and the entry and survey books, as they are an early authentic source of information.

Further reading may also be done in Clifford Neal Smith's publications, Federal Land Series, (Chicago: American Library Association, 1982). This is a calendar of archival materials on the land patents issued by the United States Government, with subject, tract, and name indexes. Volume 4, Part 1, covers "Grants in the Virginia Military District of Ohio."

The original records and papers of the chief surveyor, Richard Clough Anderson, acquired from the descendants of his family, may be examined and studied for research at the Illinois Historical Survey Collection housed in the University of Illinois Library. The records, however, are unindexed in 28 bound volumes and 169 folders of papers, containing, in all, approximately 10,000 items.

The Map Division of the National Archives, Washington, D.C. has a series of 25 maps showing entry (survey) names and numbers.

The correspondence and papers of Nathaniel Massie (1763-1813), an early surveyor and land speculator, are in the possession of the Western Reserve Historical Society, Cleveland, Ohio. The papers of Duncan McArthur (1772-1839), Ohio governor and legislator, military officer, and U.S. Representative, are in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. Both these collections contain correspondence relating to the Virginia Military Lands in Ohio. Manuscript collections of other private individuals associated with these land grants may well be found in other archival locations throughout the country.

In Clermont County, the surveys may be researched at the Office of the County Recorder in the Court House at Batavia, where the old book of original land surveys is kept. The book is in good condition (1999) and has an adequate index. Each survey entry in the book contains a description of the location of the survey, a sketched plat map in color, the names of the deputy surveyor, the chain carriers, and the marker, and the date. Land records of later dates are also available in the County Recorder's Office.

THE 1890'S: COMICS BORN

The first full-color comics page appeared in the New York World newspaper in 1894. In 1896 the Morning Journal began an 8-page comic supplement. One of its features, The Yellow Kid was the first superstar of the funny pages. The Katzenjammer Kids appeared in 1897 using the word balloons and panels format. Comic books came along in 1933.

SURVEYS NOT MAPPED

It appears that the 1890-1891 cartographers did not map surveys of 200 acres or less, possibly and probably because the small space on the township maps could not accommodate the survey numbers and names. Some of these surveys were very small – as low as 3 or 4 acres up to 100 and 200 acres. Many appear to include small irregular plots not previously included by the somewhat faulty system of metes and bounds or "indiscriminate surveys."

For further study, researchers may consult Alma Aicholtz Smith's excellent book, The Virginia Military Surveys of Clermont and Hamilton Counties, Ohio 1787-1849 (Newport, Ky: Alma A. Smith, 1985).

All things to nothingness descend,
Grow old and die and meet their end.
Man dies,iron rusts, wood goes decayed.
Towers fall, walls crumble, roses fade.
Nor long shall any name resound
Beyond the grave, unless tis found
In some clerk's book; it is the pen
That gives immortality to men.
