Born ? in Ireland. He served in the Revolutionary War in the Continental Army. One of those soldiers lies at rest atop of a hill just east of the village of Bradner on the Wood-Sandusky county line. His name is Abraham William McBurney, veteran of the American Revolution War. His marble marker faces west, painted with a soft glow by thousands of sunsets over time. His story, like those of so many who fought in that long ago war, has too few pages. What little local history does tell us is that he left his homeland of Ireland in 1775 and came to America to join the 13 colonies fight to throw off their British Rulers. He serviced through the end of the war and then came westward to the Ohio wilderness with General "Mad Anthony" Wayne. He fought in the Ohio Indian Wars in 1790's which Culminated with the Battle of Fallen Timbers in August, 1794 on the Maumee River, and remained.

In 1835 and well into his seventies he came to a rise in Wood County called Mt. Prospect in the heart of the Great Black Swamp, an isolated frontier outpost that was the early beginnings of Bradner. It was there he lived his final days, one of a handful of veterans of the Revolutionary war to have migrated this far West.

He died in 1837 and was buried at the highest point in Mt. Prospect, now Chestnut Grove Cemetery, and the first white person to be buried there. He never married and he left no relatives or known written record.

McCleave, GEORGE (Clark County) [39.926657 -83.813319]

Born in Maryland or Ireland in 1751. He served in the Chester County, Pennsylvania Militia in 1780, 8th Class, 3rd Company, 6th Battalion commanded by Lt. Colonel Davis. He was called again into service in the forepart of the year 1781, and later that same year, He served a total of three times with the Chester County Militia. He married ____; children Elizabeth, John, Benjamin b. 1782 and Mary. The McCleave family emigrated to Ohio and settled on the Big Miami River near Colerain about 1790. George McCleave was a tall man and of good personal appearance; a shoemaker by trade, which he learned in Philadelphia. Shortly after their arrival in Ohio, the mother died, leaving George with help from his oldest daughter, Elizabeth, to care for the remaining children. In the year 1791, several hundred Indians led by Simon Girty, besieged the garrison at Colerain where the McCleaves lived, and Elizabeth with the other women of the place did her part in defending the fort by moulding bullets for the men who kept up a vigorous fight until relieved by a rescue party from Ft. Washington.

Elizabeth McCleave (1780-1849) married on August 22, 1801 Samuel Smith son of Dr. Peter Smith and Catherine Stout Smith, and had thirteen children. The Smith family moved to Clark County Ohio, and eventually settled near Donnels Creek.

Mary McCleave married in 1818 Nathan Reddish, a widower with five children. They settled east of Springfield, Ohio. Mary died sometime before 1826.

John McCleave (1778-1846) the eldest son, left Colerain on the Miami in the year 1803, moved to Indiana, later to the Illinois territory by 1819. John married in 1801 Mary Benfiel, daughter of Col. John Benfiel, and had eight children. Benjamin McCleave and his first wife, Rachel, had three children. He married his second wife March 12, 1816 in Butler County, Ohio. She was Margaret (Kennedy) Craven, a widow with five children of the Revolutionary soldier John Craven. Benjamin and Margaret had five children of this union. Benjamin McCleave left the Ohio territory in 1819 and moved to Illinois with his family, taking his father, George, then advanced in years. After staying with his sons about two years, working at his trade of shoemaking, the old gentleman became dissatisfied and decided to return to Ohio. His sons, John and Benjamin, procured a horse, saddle, and bridle for him and he rode through to Ohio by himself. He safely reached his destination (Clark County, Ohio) where he spent his last days at the homes of his daughters, Elizabeth (McCleave) Smith near Donnelsville and Mary (McCleave) Reddish near Springfield. He died in 1824 and buried at the old graveyard on Columbia Street: Columbia Street Cemetery, Row 9 – Grave 18, Clark County, OH

Born 1761 in Ireland. He served in the Revolutionary War, Matthew, and three of his brothers (John, Thomas and Archibald), served in the Revolutionary War. From his pension file, we learn that Matthew was living in Chester County, South Carolina when he volunteered in the spring of 1780. He served under the Command of Lieutenant Houston and Colonel Sumter. His service began at Indian Lands near the Catawba River, A small company of volunteers marched from Indian Lands to a place called Hanging Rock near the Catawba River, where early in the morning they attacked and defeated a company of Tories who were commanded by Colonel Bryan. The British soldiers were encamped about half a mile away and they made an attack on the volunteers who held their ground until evening. Then the volunteers left and marched to Bigger's Ferry on the Catawba River. At this place, the volunteers were attacked by the British forces and Matthew was severely wounded in the head and taken prisoner by the British troops. He and the other prisoners were taken to Charlotte in North Carolina, and confined in jail. Then they were sent to Camden in South Carolina and there confined in a prison for about 10 weeks. Then he was sent to Charleston to be put aboard a prison ship. On the way, about 16 miles from Camden, he and the other prisoners overpowered the guard and made their escape. About 2 weeks after his escape he again entered the service as a volunteer under Colonel Sumter. This time, the volunteers took a British Garrison about 3 miles south of the Congaree River at Thompson's Plantation (Calhoun County). Matthew continued in the service for some time with Colonel Sumter in the south part of South Carolina. She died on January 17, 1814 and buried at Walnut Grove Cemetery, Martins Ferry, Belmont County, OH. Wife of Ebenezer Zane, of "Powder fame") she went from Ft Henry to Col Zane's house, where she tied a table cloth around her wrist, filled it with powder. Fleet of foot, she returned amid volleys, unharmed. "A man will be such great loss. I will not be missed" she had said. Mar Ebenezer Zane. "Mrs. Zane was a woman of remarkable character, full of activity, and of indomitable energy. She was equal to every emergency that arose in a life full of startling incident. Her thrift, management, industry, intelligence and untiring labors, were noted characteristics. "She was as brisk as a bee," said one who knew her well, she could turn her hand to anything. She was the surgeon of the neighborhood, becoming quite an adept in the art and was called upon to perform difficult and serious operations. She was also a skillful nurse, and had nerve to undertake the most difficult enterprises when necessity demanded. In 1785, a man named Mills was shot by the Indians while spearing fish at night, some distance above the fort, Rising in the canoe with his torch to throw the light in the right direction, he received a whole volley from a party of Indians on the shore. He was brought to Wheeling, and Mrs. Zane extracted seventeen bullets from his body, cutting them out with a razor as nicely as a surgeon with his delicate instruments. Mills was nursed and cared for by her and a Mrs. Williams, fully recovered, and lived for many years, a monument to the skill and care of these women.

Forty-five years of age Col McCune moved to Ohio, and he was one of those early pioneers who opened the wilderness, and made a home and "local habitation" for generations to come. He was one of Nature's nobility ; ever kind-hearted as a parent, the friend of man, and an uncompromising Democrat. He represented the people of Jefferson Co for some yrs in the legislature of the state, he was a leading member of the Presbyterian church and fulfilled his duties in life as a Christian and patriot. He died full of yrs, and was bur with the honors of war. Peace to the ashes of the veteran citizen, and patriotic soldier of the Revolution. A large circle of relatives and friends mourn his loss; let them cherish his manifold virtues, and may we all, when overtaken by death, be found as innocent and free fr faults, as the honest old warrior who fought for human rights and the blessings of liberty. McCURDEN, HUGH (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Birth site and Date is unknown He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

Both the settlement and the burying ground date from the early 1800s, when pioneers removed from New England to the Western Reserve of Connecticut, specifically what is now Portage County, Ohio. Named Mantua Center because it was at the geographical center of the rectangular area surveyed as Mantua Township, it was the area with first white settlement in the county, when Abram S. Honey built a log cabin in the fall of 1798. The community of Mantua Center built a village green with common buildings, much of which still stands and would be recognizable to 19th century residents. In 1792 he laid out Mercersburg (now Newtown, Ohio) where he erected a garrison on the east side of the Little Miami River three miles from above Gerald's Station. In the story of the Ohio Valley Frontier during the late 1700's many pioneer settlements were established with the assistance and security provided by veterans of the Revolutionary War, who knew of the protection offered by stockades, forts and stations built to provide safety from the attacks of the indigenous tribes. This protection was most certainly needed prior to the Treaty of Greenville in August, 1795. Here is another of these individuals whose military experience enabled the security for the survival of our ancestors living in the Miami Purchase Country.

MORRELL, CALVIN, MD., (Warren County) [39.438484 -84.280728]

He was born 1765. He served as a Revolutionary Soldier from N. J. In the story of the Ohio Valley Frontier during the late 1700's many pioneer settlements were established with the assistance and security provided by veterans of the Revolutionary War, who knew of the protection offered by stockades, forts and stations built to provide safety from the attacks of the indigenous tribes. This protection was most certainly needed prior to the Treaty of Greenville in August, 1795. Here is another of these individuals whose military experience enabled the security for the survival of our ancestors living in the Miami Purchase Country. Appointed by Masonic Lodge after moved to Union village, (Shakers) near Lebanon, Warren Co. Born on October 2, 1759 in Maryland. He served as a private in Capt. Lloyd Beall's Company, Col John Stewart's Regiment, Maryland. He enlisted as a soldier in the service of the United States on Continental Establishment in the State of Maryland in the year 1779 or 80, Cornelius joined the army at Annapolis in the regiment commanded (he thought) by Col. John Stewart. He marched from Maryland to Virginia under the command of General Gates, through the Carolinas, was in General Gates' defeat at Gum Swamp; he was also at the Battle of Camden under General Green; then at the Battle of Guilford, March 15, 1781. He married Sarah Dudley (1767- ); children: Jane b. 1801, Cornelius b. 1804, Harriet b. 1807 and Elizabeth b. 1810. He told of peace being declared between the U.S. & Great Britain June 1783, and that he had a choice between returning home to Montgomery Co., Maryland either by land or by sea. He chose the former, and, as a consequence of his commander being absent, did not receive a proper discharge. He is credited with an enlistment of three years and four months. It is believed that he accompanied or followed the Dudley migration to the vicinity of Springfield, Ohio about 1804; and there is a possibility that he moved to Indiana in a second migration of the John Dudley family.

He died on August 6, 1833 in Indiana, Lafayette Free Press on Monday, August 24, 1833 "Died-on the 6th instant, at his residence in this county, Cornelius MORRIS, aged about 78 years. The deceased, formerly a resident of Clark County, Ohio, had but a few months since emigrated to this county. He was one of the Patriots of the Revolution, attached to the Southern army. It will be gratifying to Mr. MORRISs' distant friends, to know that, although his last illness was severe and protracted, he enjoyed that serenity of mind which in that trying hour is the peculiar privilege of the Christian and buried at Saint Bernard Cemetery, Springfield, Clark County, Ohio. As also has a VA marker, a SAR and DAR marker at Burton Cemetery, Klondike, Tippecanoe County, IN.

Watson (1753-1818); children: In 1795 he was residing in Hamilton County, Ohio, and Died sometime before 1808 and Buried at at his Farm in a Private Cemetery, 1732 US 22/3, Morrow, Hamilton Twp., Warren County, OH. Recently, he was discovered to have been buried at a Private Cemetery, 1732 Rte US 22/3, Morrow, Hamilton Twp., Warren County, OH 45152.

Many Virginians having land warrents had prior to 1800, come down the Ohio River to possess their lands, but the hostile attitude of the Indians induced them to settle temporarily at Columbia, Whites Station, and other points near Cincinnati. The treaty of Greenville, giving assurance of permanent peace, opened the way for settlers and emigrants came rapidly to the Miami country. Probably the very first settlement in the county south of the Little Miami River was within the bounds of Hamilton Township. Seemingly well authenticated tradition says that William Mounts' and five other families settled on lands now owned by his grandson William P. Mounts, in October 1795, and built their cabins in a circle around a spring a few rods west of where the residence now stands. It was then called Mounts' Station. The names of the families thus early locating in the unbroken forests of Hamilton Twp. Were, as remembered: William Mounts, wife and six children; Thomas Forsha, wife and children; Thomas Leonard, wife and six children; Thomas Watson and family.

These lands were purchased of Robert Todd, bu William Mounts and Martin Varner. The DAR Historical Monument along Stubbs Mills Road (SR-35). Many veterans buried in family cemeteries, neighborhood plots or small church burial grounds which are now extinct and or built over during the disappearance of rural areas and the increase of urban communities in The Hamilton County area during the late 19th century or 20th century are now lost to our knowledge. Their families having re-located, their descendants now not knowing their homes, deeds, and/or burial locations

He is remembered primarily for his journal, which provides first-hand accounts of many historic events of his day. He was with his father at the Battle of Brandywine and with the artillery at Valley Forge. In 1778 he joined the 3rd PA Regiment then the Continental Navy in Pennsylvania but, while waiting for the USS Saratoga to be completed, decided to join a privateer, "Fair American". He was captured by the British and imprisoned on St. Kitts. When the French captured that island, he was freed. He later joined the Royal Navy, where his education, particularly his handwriting, gained him the position of captain's clerk. He rendered naval service on HMS Sirius, one of 11 ships that made up the first fleet which sailed from Portsmouth, England on May 13, 1787 to Australia. At one point he ran a brothel in India. He served under Admiral Nelson and made a tidy sum in prize money during the Napoleonic Wars. He married in England. He and his wife had seven children, but his wife and all his children later died of yellow fever. He continued sailing in the merchant service until 1824, when retired from the sea and returned to Pennsylvania where he worked as a courthouse scrivener. He applied for a pension, which was granted, based on his service in the American Revolutionary War, although later historians have concluded that he slightly exaggerated his dates of service to qualify. Having composed an account of his Revolutionary War service for his pension application, he decided to write a detailed account of his adventurous life. This sat forgotten for over a century. Rediscovered by John C. Dann, who researched and correlated the dates and events with other historical documents. The annotated account was published in 1988, under the title "The Nagle Journal". He died in 1841 in Canton, OH. There is no documentation available at NSSAR HQ to order. NASH, JOHN THOMAS (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Birth site and Date is unknown. He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

OSBORN, GEORGE (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Born in 1758 in Augusta County, Virginia (now WVA) to parents George and Hannah Osburn. He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

Soldiers, Buried in Hamilton County, Ohio"; Little Miami Publ. Co. Milford, Ohio, 2010. By DAR, Cincinnati Chapter.

Many veterans buried in family cemeteries, neighborhood plots or small church burial grounds which are now extinct and or built over during the disappearance of rural areas and the increase of urban communities in Hamilton County during the late 19th century or 20th century are now lost to our knowledge. Their families having re-located, their descendants now not knowing their homes, deeds, and/or burial locations lead to their obscurity. SAR Ancestor # P-264360. Gravesite unknown. PARKER, SAMUEL, (Ashtabula County) [41.8525001 -80.61080170]

Born on January 10, 1750 Wallingford, New Haven, Connecticut. He served in the Revolutionary War, he was a Private in Capt James Arnold's Co, Col Wart's Connecticut Regiment in the Siege of St John's April 1775, his Connecticut troops were in the siege of Saint John, not far from Montreal, September to November 1775, when the British surrendered and St. John was taken, and soon Montreal. These men enlisted for six months, and when their enlistment was up, winter was coming on and many had died from sickness, and many had returned. They had a tough time. The plan was to capture Canada - Quebec remained, and Benedict Arnold was approaching through Maine to join up with General Montgomery, who commanded the troops Samuel Parker was with and who had already taken Montreal. They had a lot of trouble - surrounded Quebec and finally attacked and General Montgomery was killed. Samuel Parker was a wheelwright by trade, making spinning wheels. It was the habit of soldiers of the American Revolution to enlist in the spring and go home in the fall as there was not much fighting during the winter months - thus, Captain Asa Jones enlisted for six months during nearly every year of the Revolution, and Jared Parker married his daughter, Betsy Jones. Captain Jones lived, in later years, at Greene, New York. It is noted that Samuel Parker at one time lived there also and later emigrated to various points west in New York and finally into Ohio. It is probable that Jared Parker, his son, was with him for there is a record in the recorder's office that Jared Parker bought two acres of land in Scipio and sold it about two years later. Evidently they did not live long at Scipio. He married Hanah Bunnell (1756-1835); children: William, Jarad, . He Died on August 3, 1835 and Buried at Monroe Township Kelloggsville Cemetery, Ashtabula County, OH. Ref : Bert Wiley, Conneaut, OH. He was Pensioned # S18541.

PARKS, JAMES, LT. (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Birth site and Date is unknown He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

months during which time he was engaged in defending the country against the aggression of the Cherokees at the end of the three months he received a written discharge signed by Lieutenant Davis who at that time had command of the company in place of Captain Cowan during this tour deponent assisted to destroy the corn of the Indians and to burn seven Indian towns. In April 1780 deponent was drafted to go to Charleston under Captain Cowan who then belonged to Col Pikens' [sic, Andrew Pickens'] Regiment, when this draft had proceeded about eighty miles on the way to Charleston they were met by an express informing them the city had surrendered. Col Pikens then marched his men to Camden, he was out on this tour about one month. In September of the same year deponent went to Soap Creek in Georgia and volunteered to serve in Captain Dunn's [sic, Joseph Dunn's] company of Colonel Clark's [sic, Elijah Clarke's] Regiment. He was with Col Clarke when he took possession of the town of Augusta but was soon driven away by the British, he continued in the service on this tour until after the battle of King's Mountain which was on the seventh of October. After this battle the company under Captain Dunn dispersed being all volunteers for no definite time deponent with three others went to Mecklenburg County in North Carolina and remained with his friends until January 1781. When Lord Cornwallis commenced his march to Virginia deponent volunteered to serve for six weeks in a light horse company under the command of Captain Grimes of Col Irwin's [?] Regiment he was engaged in guarding the forts on the Catawba River about one week, he was then marched to Guilford Court house. Near Guilford his company joined the forces under General Green [sic, Nathanael Greene]. During this tour he was engaged in several skirmishes with the British but was in no general engagement. At the end of the six weeks for which he had volunteered he received a written discharge from Captain Grimes in March 1781. In the summer of 1781 he enlisted in the State troops of South Carolina for 10 months in Captain Francis Moore's company of light horse, Col Middleton's Regiment and General Sumpter' [sic, Thomas Sumter's,] Brigade. In March 1782 when deponent's time expired was discharged by Captain Moore at Orangeburg on Edisto [River] to prove this ten months service he has procured the deposition of William Caldwell who served during the same ten months with deponent. Deponent knows of no witnesses living by whom he can prove the rest of his services but he has been long known to Rev. Alexander Porter, John Foster, David Macdill and others who reside in his neighborhood and by whom he can as he believes prove that he sustains a good character for truth and veracity and that he has always been reputed and believed in his neighborhood to have been a soldier of the revolution. The written discharges which deponent received from his officers have been lost. He has a written record of his age by which it appears that he was born in Ireland in January 1763. After the war deponent lived in South Carolina until the year Eighteen hundred and seven when he came to Preble County in the State of Ohio where he has since resided and still resides. He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any state. Christian was a lad of 5 years of age when his parents left the place of their nativity and came to America. The family settled somewhere in Frederic County, Maryland, where he grew into manhood. He would be 16 years old when the Colonies rebelled against the Mother Country in 1776. That he, as well as his older brother, Peter, were soldiers of the Revolution. besides serving against the British in the war for independence, he was a Private in Captain Ross's company, in Col. Crawfords' expedition against the Indians in Ohio, when the battle of Sandusky was fought on the 4th and 5th of June in 1782. He would then have been 22 years of age, and the family of his father was living on the farm on Pigeon Creek, Washington, Pennsylvania. [The Crawford expedition, also known as the Sandusky expedition and Crawford's Defeat, was a 1782 campaign on the western front of the American Revolutionary War, and one of the final operations of the conflict. Led by Colonel William Crawford, the campaign's goal was to destroy enemy American Indian towns along the Sandusky River in the Ohio Country, with the hope of ending Indian attacks on American settlers being promulgated by British Rangers. The expedition was one in a long series of raids against enemy settlements which both sides had conducted throughout the war.

Crawford led about 500 volunteer militiamen, mostly from Pennsylvania, deep into American Indian territory, with the intention of surprising the Indians. The Indians (about 500) and their British allies from Detroit (about 100 Rangers) had already learned of the expedition, however, and gathered a force to oppose the Americans. After a day of indecisive fighting near the Sandusky towns, the Americans found themselves surrounded and attempted to retreat. The retreat turned into a rout, but most of the Americans managed to find their way back to Pennsylvania. About 70 Americans were killed; Indian and British losses were minimal.]

He married the daughter of Philip Heinrich & Sarah Keller Krebs, Christina Crabs (1773-1842) in 1787; children: Barbara b. 1788, Sarah, Catherine, Mary Ann, Andrew & Joseph b. 1800. POE, ADAM, (Stark County)

[40.78830 -81.60250]

Born 1747 Frederick County, Maryland to father George Jacob Poe (1717-1766). In 1772, Adam followed his older brother, Andrew, westward to a new settlement on Harmon's Creek, west of Pittsburgh, in Washington County, Pennsylvania. At this time Adam was 26 years old. On October 12, 1777, Adam married Elizabeth Matthews-Cochran. Adam Poe and his brother, Andrew, were well-known in frontier history as the famous Indian fighters throughout the area of Western Pennsylvania, Northeast Ohio and West Virginia, which is known as the tri-state area. Adam had the skill of a frontiersman and woodsman. Adam is referred to the Indian fighter, but was actually an Indian Spy/Scout along with others to watch the Indians to see what their plans were for attacking the white settlements. Adam served in the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. He served as a Pvt with PA in the Revolutionary War and killed Big Foot Indian in 1781 at the mouth of Tomlinson's Run, Hancock Co., WVA. In the Fall of 1781, the Wyandot Indians had sent seven of its warriors across into the white settlers' settlement taking an old man prisoner and taking what they could with them. The Poe brothers and some other men pursued after the Indians where they caught up with them at the Ohio River. The other men had overtaken the five Indians while Andrew Poe took on the other two Indians in hand-to-hand combat. Andrew called to his brother to help him and Adam came to his aid. In the end, Adam Poe loaded his rifle more quickly than the Indian and shot Big Foot killing him. The spot where this conflict

Was almost last soldier of Rev to die in Ross Co. He Died on October 7, 1843, Scioto Twp, Ross Co., OH and buried at place unknown, but he was probably buried in Scioto Township where he lived for many years until his death. A cemetery book published by the Ross County Genealogical Society indicates that most early rural family burial grounds in Scioto Township have disappeared without a trace. In the late 1980's gravestones were erected to honor John Poe and twenty six other Revolutionary War soldiers. The gravestones were placed in lot 226, section 9D, Grandview Cemetery, 300 Brookside Drive, Chillicothe, Ross County, Ohio, 45601 but the soldiers are actually buried elsewhere. A cemetery book indicates that John Poe's gravestone inscription in Grandview Cemetery indicates: John Poe, Pvt., Virginia Continental Line, Revolutionary War, 14 September 1750 - 7 October 1841. The death year of 1841 as reported in this cemetery book is not correct. The Scioto Gazette published John Poe's obituary on 12 October 1843, and it indicated that he died on 7 October 1843.. PORTER, ELIJAH, CAPT. (Medina County)

[41.05394 -81.79791]

Born on December 4, 1757 Connecticut. He served in the Revolutionary War and was promoted to Capt. He married 1) Aurelia Smith, 2) Elizabeth Dewey; children: Hepsibah. In 1821, there occurred, a sad death that caused a gloom to rest upon the entire settlement. Mr. Elijah Porter started in the month of November, from the residence of his son, Shubael Porter, who lived a short distance south of Seville, to go to Medina on business connected with his pension, which he was then receiving from the United States Government, as a discharged Revolutionary soldier. He went on foot to Wilson's Corners, where he obtained a horse from his son-in-law, David Wilson, and with it started through the woods for Medina. Late at night the horse returned without a rider, and some blood was upon the stirrup. Mr. Wilson and the neighbors at once set out in search of him with lanterns and finally found him in what was called the "four miles woods," near the center of Montville, sitting at the foot of a beech tree, so chilled that he could scarcely speak. He had taken off one of his boots, and it was nearly filled with blood. A deep wound was upon his leg, which had the appearance of having been caused by a snag or root. They placed him upon a horse to take him to Medina; but, when they had proceeded but a short distance, he waved his hand as if for them to stop, and immediately expired. With heavy hearts, they then returned home. He was buried near David Wilson's residence (in what is now River Styx Cemetery), and was the first white man buried in Guilford Township.

He Died in 1835, Bellefontaine, OH and buried at the Powell Park Cemetery, Bellefontaine, Logan County, OH. Cemetery notes and/or description: Powell Park Cemetery is located at the corner of Elm Street and Brown Avenue in Bellefontaine, Logan, Ohio. When the town of Bellefontaine was laid out in 1820, a plot in the northwest corner was reserved to be used as a burial ground. This was in use until 1852 when the new Bellefontaine cemetery was laid out. As stated by Gen. Robert P. Kennedy in his Historical Review of Logan County, published in 1903, "Within its limits are still resting some of the older and earlier citizens who came into the wilderness and did much to make this one of the garden spots of the new State of Ohio; over them grow the grasses of nearly a hundred years." It is known that some of the bodies were moved to other cemeteries. But some the the early citizens are still resting in the cemetery, now known as Powell Park Cemetery or simply as Powell Park. While the graves are still there only two markers remain. In 2008, the cemetery is a roughly block-sized recreation area with a basketball court, playground equipment, trees and grass. The grave markers were reportedly removed in the early 1900s in order to stimulate real estate sales around the park.

PRIOR, SIMEON, (Summit County) [41.16190 -81.50830]

Born Norwich, New London, Connecticut on May 16, 1754. He enlisted at the age of 21 and served as a Pvt in Capt Jedediah Waterman's Company, Col John Durkee's Conn Regt. Pensioned in Portage Co. He married 1) Katherine Wight (1763-1838), 2) Polly Culver; children: Sally, Lydia & William. Simeon Prior, his wife and ten children, were the first white people to settle here. They were from Westfield River, near Northampton, Massachusetts, and landed at Cleveland, from an open boat in July, 1802, the year OH became a state. Cleveland was a hamlet of log cabins. The family traveled on to Hudson, which had been settled two years before and remained there while Simeon went on to find his home site, six miles away, where he built a cabin on Lot 25. The family moved in in August. Simeon purchased 400 acres, and as there were no roads nor conveniences, they were compelled to be self-reliant and resourceful. Meal made from corn was pounded fine on a stump, mixed with water, salted and baked into bread on a split shingle before an open fire. Their clothing was made from flax grown on the farm and spun into cloth. The men hunted game to supply meat. Winter wear was buckskin moccasins, pants and jackets until later years when it was possible to protect sheep from the wolves and woolen clothing could be made. Simeon was also a blacksmith.

As more people moved into the area, a two-story hewed-log house was built to use as an accommodation for travelers and a black-smith shop was built and furnished with the tools and stock Simeon had brought with him. The Revolutionary and Indian Wars had propagated a spirit of hostility between the whites and Indians that seemed to know no bounds. The Cuyahoga River, Portage Path and Tuscarawas branch of the Muskegon were originally the boundary between the Six Nations and the Western Indians. The Onondagas, Oneidas, Mohawks, and others resided East of the Cuyahoga until the difficulty in 1806. There was an Indian Trail that ran from Fort McIntosh, at the mouth of the Big Beaver, west through Portage Co., crossing the river in Franklin at the Standing Rock, then west to Northampton in Summit Co. where there was an Indian settlement, then on to Sandusky and Detroit. This trail became the hunting ground for Capt. Samuel Brady and his Indian hunters.

In the War of 1812, these Indians joined the British, they lived within the bounds of Northampton. Between them and the whites a spirit of hostility existed that needed little to show itself. This continued down to the war of 1812, when the township was for the first time free from Indian alarms.

Born in 1742. He Served as a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He Died on June 3, 1810 and Buried at Seceders Corners Cemetery, Seceeders Corners, Liberty Twp., Trumbull County, OH 44505. One of the first things to engage the attention of the early Liberty settlers was the selection of a lot as the site for a meeting-house and graveyard. Their attention was first directed to a lot in the woods near the southeast corner of Liberty, offered by James Applegate, and now owned by his son Calvin. This was an elevated and beautiful site, and so confidently was it expected that it would be accepted that the remains of some persons were buried there, and the graves are yet to be seen. But at a meeting of the congregation at the house of Alexander McCleery, it was resolved to accept a lot offered by him, which is now occupied by the church and graveyard. The deed for this lot was not made until March 15, 1828, twenty-five years after the purchase was made, and was given by Alexander McCleery to Matthew Mitchell, James Boys, and William Geddes, trustees of the Presbyterian congregation of Liberty, belonging to the Associate Synod of North America. Born in ? He Served as a soldier in the Revolutionary War with Warren Cottle's Co., Vermont Militia. He married Priscilla Jones Mason; children: . He died in 1840 and buried in the Cholera Cemetery, Sandusky, Erie County, OH.

In 1945, Margaret Cherry, of Monroeville, Ohio, perhaps a descendant, maybe a veterans' volunteer, submitted the application for a military headstone (see photo) for this mysterious John Ransom. His very old military service took place in the years after the start of the American Revolution, in Woodstock, Vermont. From 1780-

[Revolutionary War Patriots Buried in Ohio] Up to October 25, 2024

1781, he answered an alarm when called, much like a National Guard would do today. Soon after, in 1780-1781, a pension number was assigned, which could be given for serious disability, not just age. An old book published in 1909, written by in-laws, covered a family of Ransoms that moved sufficiently early to Woodstock, Vermont. Richard Ransom's family and Joseph Sterling's family moved together, both from old Lyme (in New London County, Conn.). They had already arranged to buy land in what later became South Woodstock, Windsor County, Vermont. The deed paperwork was apparently done before or by 1781 (from p. 334 of The Sterling Genealogy). Perhaps this John Ransom and other Ransoms arrived a bit earlier to do the alarms in 1780, were the reason for moving to that place and not some other?

One hundred and twenty years later, the Sterlings remembered specifically that Richard had brought along his mother, presumedly their blood relative, and that his father had been Matthew Ransom. They listed Richard's eleven children with their birth dates and spouses, including Richard's son, John Ransom, born July 26, 1770. That son John would have been only 10 at the time of the alarm, too young to man an alarm in 1780. The John Ransom needing a headstone had to have been older, a brother or cousin to Richard Ransom, for example, or possibly an uncle or father who came up to Vermont separately, so was not mentioned with Richard's mother. 56th-77th Annual Reports DAR. Born ? He Served as a Pvt in the Revolutionary War with Connecticut, discharged in 1780. He married Kaziah Portiss; children: . He died in ? and buried in the Cholera Cemetery, Sandusky, Erie Co., OH. There were two Ransoms, barely findable in Erie County history, with the right mix of mystery. Another sailing man, called Joseph Ransom, the father of the above Russell Ransom was, like John Ransom, active in the Revolutionary War era. (He instead fought near Saratoga, NY, at the Battle of the Burgoyne.) One story told is as follows, "This honored patriot, when venerable in years, came to Erie County, Ohio, to visit his son Russell, and on his return to his home he embarked on a lake vessel at Huron; from that time, no trace of him was every found..."

"...his fate is but a matter of conjecture today, as it was to his anxious family at that time." (page 1774, History of the Western Reserve, Volume 3, 1910, by Harriet Taylor Upton, assisted by Harry Gardner Cutler.)

The last old source (p. 1775) also talked about these Ransoms' Connecticut origins, borrowing material from a Wyllis Ransom. The first to bring his family to America was Robert Ransom, beginning in Plymouth, Massachusetts, "prior to 1654". He thus went to the area populated by Pilgrims, down by Rhode Island and Connecticut, south of the less religiously radical Puritans who were instead closer to Boston. He and his family perhaps arrived a tad later than both sets. (To use some of the jargon of the era, the Pilgrims were "separatists", while the Puritans were merely "nonconformists". The area had lots of shipping activity, so there were reasons for less religious people to be there, too, many called "adventurers", there to follow varied business ventures.)

The source said his children included "Mathew". Matthew fathered a Joseph, apparently born in Conn., according to other sources, so they had moved there before his birth. (Beware; there may be a generation missing?) That Joseph fathered the Revolutionary War Joseph, the one who was lost on ship, after leaving the port at Huron (now Erie County). Born on March 26, 1761 in Fauquier County, Virginia. He was drafted into the service of the United States by Capt. Tapley in Hampshire co., Va. in the spring of 1781, as a private; and within the space of twenty days was delivered to Capt. Teverbaugh and was mustered into service at Fort Pleasant on the South Branch of the Potomac. Shortly thereafter he was sent to Col. Cresap who resided in the County of Hampshire, state of Va. near Old Town near the mouth of the south branch of the Potomac, "at which place he remained and from that time acted as orderly sergeant under the said Col. Cresap until the final close of the war, but he does not know whether or not he was really an officer or merely a private acting in the capacity of orderly Sergeant for said Col.

Cresap. He said he was in no bat- tles and marched through no counties except those he had named, but he re- mained in the service, a period of more than two years."

REED, JAMES, JR., (Mahoning County) [41.02428 -80.75363]

Born in 1764 to father James Reed (1736-1806). He served as a Pvt with PA in the Revolutionary War 5th Co. 6th Troop Dragoons, 9th Regt. Militia. He married Elizabeth Peacock (1762-1860); children: Mary, Rachel, Jemima, James, Eleanor, John, Anna, Rosanna, Hiram & Joshua.

History of Trumbull and Mahoning County, 1882, Vol II p. 14 "James Reed settled in the western part of the township in 1805, moving from Ellsworth. After his settlement his father, also named James came out and lived with him. He died here at the age of about seventy, and was the fifth person buried in the center graveyard. In the early days of Canfield there were families by the name of Reed. Phineas located on east Street, James Reed on Turner street and James Reed on west street. These families were in no way, so far as we know, related. I shall avail myself in part of what I shall say concerning Mr. Reed, to information obtained from his daughter Rachel. I called upon her some days ago and had a pleasant interview. She greeted me cordially, saying she "was glad to meet one she knew something about." I have known her nearly 70 years. She makes her home with Prior Tanner, one of her grandsons and a great-grandson of Tryal Tanner, an early and prominent settler. Prior and his wife, Laura, (a daughter of 'Squire Manchester), reside on the old homestead owned by the family for nearly 100 years. Seventy-eight years ago, or in 1819, Rachel married James Turner, and now lacks but a few weeks of being 96 years old. In the days of her prime she was a tall, good sized and well proportioned woman, with every mark of intelligence, good common sense and self-reliance. As I expected, I found the old lady showing evidence that the sands of life were slowly ebbing away, and the years of her long life must soon come to a close. She sat in a rocking chair holding in her hand a stout cane, from which I inferred she was able, with its aid, to walk about the room and to her bed. She complained that within the last year or two her memory had greatly failed. It was with some difficulty she was able to recall names. Her hearing is fairly good, and she conversed with animation and connectedly. As she rehearsed some of her past history, with its hardships, trials and many scenes of sorrow, tears made their way down the furrows that many years have made in a face that once was radiant and happy. Long years ago her husband was taken away and one by one all her children have followed, to be laid by his side. A new world to her has sprung up around her in which she is a stranger. Generations have come and passed away and she still lives among us, like a shock of wheat left alone in the field by the reapers. Her life has been a long span, reaching from the beginning to very nigh the close of this century. Roster of Revolutionary War soldiers buried in Ohio. Wilbur R. Branthoover, compiler. 250. He also had land bounty rights. Died ? Buried in Canfield Village Cemetery Mahoning Co., OH 44406. Also known as Canfield Cemetery, Canfield City Cemetery. His Name is among 35 listed on a plaque "Veterans Interred in Canfield City and Township Cemeteries, Mahoning County, Ohio". Came to Ohio in 1709 and located in Canfield. Mahoning Dispatch, Fri, 19 Feb 1897 - Article No. 5 by Dr. Jackson Truesdale Excerpt regarding Canfield's earliest settlers:

"We have already noted that in the fall of 1798 the surveying party of which Nathan Moore was chief surveyor returned to Connecticut. In the spring of 1799 he returned to further prosecute the work begun. With him came some of the men that formed the party the preceding summer. The spring and fall of 1799 added a large relative addition to the colony of one family, and two young men that constituted the population the preceding winter. Three families, and possibly four, came to Canfield as settlers. They were Phineas Reed, Eleazor Gilson, Joshua Hollister and probably Rapheal Hulbert, all having families, and all from Connecticut, unless, perhaps the latter, who may have come in the spring of 1800 from Pennsylvania, and if so was the first of many more that came from that state soon afterwards. Aside from these families there were a few unmarried men. According to a statement made by a Mrs. Hale, who was a daughter of Nathan Moore, the surveyor, we find the names of unmarried residents of Canfield in 1799 of "Azariah Wetmore, Joseph Pangborn, Wilder Page, Nathaniel Gridly, one by the name of Mervin or Mewin and perhaps one or two others." Some of these last named were of the surveying party of '99, headed by Nathan Moore. We are told that Judson Canfield spent part of the summer in Canfield overseeing his interests in the west. Phineas Reed settled about three-fourths of a mile east of the center, on the south side. Joshua Hollister, who came with the Gilson family, located about two miles from the center on the north side of East street, and Mr. Gilson on the same street, south side, one and a half miles from the center. Up to this time all of the settlers except Rapheal Hulbert selected East street for their homes, thereby affording an opportunity for neighborly fellowship. Among the arrivals for this year may be noticed the names who have left no trace among us as our population is now made up".

He married 1) Honor Riley (— 1800), 2) Eleanor Williams; children: Sophia b. 1809. In August of 1820 two families "well supplied with teams, household furniture, and especially children, might have been seen making their tedious way on rough roads from Newburgh through Independence to Hudson in the present County of Summit, and thence northeast to Aurora in what is now Portage County, where they made a temporary stop." Leaving their families there, the heads of these two families began a thorough examination of the surrounding territory, searching for desirable unoccupied land. After a long search they decided to locate on the west part of the Williams and Ellsworth tract, which comprised the southern part of township 6, range 10, and was then called Milan, but later became the civil Township of Solon. These men were Cant. Jason Robbins and Samuel Bull, both originally from Wethersfield, Hartford County, Connecticut. They were both along in years, Mr. Bull was forty five and Captain Robbins fifty eight. Not too old to be pioneers, they built log cabins, did some clearing and in November of that year of 1820, moved their families into their new homes. These were the first settlers in the township, and while there were only two families, there were sixteen children in each,

ROBINSON, JAMES, (Union County) [40.15133 -83.38223]

Born September 17, 1774 York County, Pennsylvania to parents James (1741-1815) and Sarah Dixon (1743-1818) Robinson. He served in the Revolutionary War. James Robinson was one of the early settlers in what became Union County. Samuel and James Robinson, the sons of James Robinson, were born and raised on their father's farm of several hundred acres, in York County, Penn., a few miles distant from the Susquehanna. James had acquired the cooper trade, and Samuel was equally proficient as a carpenter. They possessed the pioneer element strongly, in their natures, and when young men came West to seek their fortunes. They reached Tennessee, and there met Lucas Sullivant, a surveyor, who wished them to join his surveying party. With a view to selecting a good location for their future homes, they entered his employ--James as a chain carrier and Samuel as a marker--and came to Ohio. The party consisted of five men, the sole business of one of them being to provide the company with game. For six weeks they were busily at work, and during the time they saw no white men. The Robinson boys selected the Samuel Robinson survey of 600 acres, No. 2,977, located in the southeastern part of Darby, and early in the spring of 1800, cleared a small piece of land and planted it in corn. During their stay, they boarded with Joshua Ewing. In the spring of 1805, James and his family, Samuel and another brother, Thomas, again bade adieu to Pennsylvania and started on their pioneer journey to Darby Township. Samuel and James had divided between them the survey they had purchased, James taking the northwestern half. He sold this to two brothers, Thomas and John and, and purchased from Lucas Sulivant 330 acres adjoining it on the northwest, the fractions of Surveys 3,482, 3,682 and 3,881. Upon his arrival, James built a cabin on this new land. He had been a man of unusual activity and energy, and was an earnest member of the Presbyterian Church. He married Jane Morrison; children: (a family of eight children survived him) Anna b. 1804, Sarah, William, Eleanor, James, Jane, Samuel b. 1814 & Nancy. He died on September 20, 1823 and Buried at Mitchell Cemetery, Darby Township, Union Co., OH. GM Robinson family. Ref : Ethel Robinson Helser, Unionville, OH. SAR Ancestor # P-280448. ROBINSON, WILLIAM, MAJ., (Coshocton County) [40.18080 -81.90080]

Born on April 18, 1743, Clarksburg, Virginia to parents James William (1704-1778) and Mary McKinney (1712-1781) Robinson. He Served as Adjutant of 5th and 9th VA Regt under Col O Towles. As a merchant, provider of material assistance to the Patriot troops during the American Revolution. First merchant west of the Allegheny Mountains and the first to introduce the sale of coffee in that section of Virginia. He Married Margaret See; children: James. During Lord Dunmore's War, which began with the murder of Chief Logan's family, and which ended Nov 1774, the colonists of Virginia fought against Indians backed by the British, and Maj. Robinson experienced a unique and historic adventure. 1774: William and his family had been living in a fort for protection from Indian attacks. With the other men, William served in the fort militia unit. He may have earned the commission as major through training provided by his father who served in the Virginia Militia. One day, William and two friends were working with the flax crop outside the fort's walls. Captain John Logan, Chief of the

Mingo Native American nation, and his warriors attacked them as they worked in the flax field near his home by the Monongahela River. The major was forced to run the gauntlet, then tied up three times to be burned at the stake but was removed each time as debate raged on about his merit. He was verbally defended by the Chief himself against a group of hostile chiefs. He was spared when Chief Logan, who had been leading a war of vengeance against the settlers, adopted him. While with the Indians, Maj. Robinson traveled through the beautiful Muskingum River valley of Ohio. On one occasion, he recorded a letter for the Chief to the man he thought, in error, had killed his family. The message was left in the cabin of a pioneer family Logan killed. The message has been compared often to the famous speech Chief Logan delivered at the end of Dunmore's War. After about four months with Logan, Maj. Robinson escaped to return to his family in Clarksburg, Virginia (now West Virginia). It is interesting to note that his wife, Margaret See, had been a hostage of the Shawnee Indians after her first husband, father, and many others were killed in the Muddy Creek Massacre of July 16, 1763. In its aftermath, Margaret's mother and siblings were among the captives made to travel to the village of Chief Cornstalk and kept there until a hostage exchange was arranged. When William and Margaret moved to Ohio, Margaret's mother was with them, and a large group of family and friends accompanied or followed them. This included some of their married children with their spouses, children, and in-laws. Some of these pioneers are buried in the cemetery beside William, while others are interred in Bethany ME Cemetery, Robinson Cemetery, and possibly other locations. Prior to the move to Ohio, William had also served as Mayor of Clarksburg and as the third Sheriff of Harris County, VA (WV).

He Died on October 18, 1815 and Buried at William Robinson Family Cemetery, Conesville, Franklin Twp., Coshocton Co., OH. Was granted a tract of land by President for his services. Returned to Va. ROLL, ABRAHAM (Hamilton County) [39.2806626 -84.4855372]

Born in Morris County, New Jersey on August 11, 1759. He was a Private in Captain Peter Layton's Company, Colonel Sylvanus Seely's Battalion Morris County, New Jersey Militia. He married Prudence Vance in 1783. In 1805 he moved to a farm in Burlington, Springfield Township, Hamilton County, Ohio. Their children were Samuel Vance, Sarah, Wickham, Elizabeth, Rachel, John, Isaac and Martha. He was one of the founders of Christian New Light Church, Mt. Healthy, Hamilton County. He died before December 12, 1827 and buried in Springfield Presbyterian Cemetery (old St. Mary's Presbyterian) at NW corner of Springfield Pike and Cameron Rd. Hamilton County, OH.

Note: In Butler County, Ohio, Mathias Roll and in Hamilton County, Ohio, Abraham Roll each stated they were raised from boyhood in the same neighborhood of Morris County, New Jersey, with John Boltenhouse. Both Mathias and Abraham Roll knew that John served in the Revolutionary War on the Continental Establishment two years after his enlistment because they were in the service at this time. They lost track of him when his regiment was sent southward but both were certain that he did not return to his native state until after the conclusion of peace in 1783.

Originally thought to have been buried in Roll Cemetery, then thought to have been reburied in Wesleyan Cemetery at Colerain Ave. at Hoffner St with other Roll's. His name was placed on a 20" X 30" Granite memorial stone next to the GAR monument at Wesleyan Cemetery, 4100 Colerain Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio 45223-2684. Roll's were buried there in 1903, but apparently not Abraham who was found in 2017 to have been buried at Old St. Mary's Cemetery in Springdale, OH. Although no stone has been found there with his name on it, his burial is listed on their records.

Samuel. Timothy Rose was one of the purchasing agents for and founder of Granville, Ohio and was among the settlers from Granville, Massachusetts in 1805. Timothy built the first cabin in Granville. The cabin was 20 by 28 feet and had a large fire pit at the open end of the cabin. Then in the winter of 1807 he completed the first frame house in the village. He was an associate Judge from 1808 to 1813, in Licking County, Ohio. Judge Rose was high-toned, intellectual and intelligent gentleman, and a man of high character, of sound judgement, and undoubted patriotism. He was also a deacon in the Presbyterian Church. Paul Revere stopped at the Rose farm to change his horse for a fresh one on his ride to alarm the countryside.

He Died on Nov 27, 1813, Granville, OH. Buried at Old Colony Cemetery, South Main St. & West Maple, Granville, OH 43023, plot #840. Cemetery Notes: Established in 1805, the Old Colony Burying Ground on South Main Street in Granville contains over one thousand burials. Most of the tombstones were in decent shape when we visited, but some were weathered or broken. A sign in the cemetery stated that the cemetery was being restored. There are veterans from the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, and the Civil War buried in the cemetery. Although the first recorded burials occurred in 1806, the oldest tombstone we could find dated to 1813. We came across a couple of recognizable names in the cemetery. Timothy Rose was the first Deacon in the church and a main player in establishing Granville. There was a flag on his grave indicating he was a veteran, but we are unsure in which war he served. Rose died on November 27, 1813, at 51 years of age. GM by Granville Chap in 1901. Was agent to this Co for the Licking Land Company ; was an influential citizen. Pens allowed. He married Ann Philips; children: Margaret b. 1774 & John. He died in 1809 in Franklin, Warren County, OH and buried at Dick's Creek Cemetery, Union Road, Franklin, Warren County, Ohio USA, 45005.

"My mother Mary Ross Apgar and her sister Janet Ross Johnson did extensive research on the Ross family. Alexander Ross is our stopping point on that side of the family. What we are lacking for him is his place of birth (country of Origin), his parents, immigration date to the US. We know he traveled to Brownsville (Redstone) in Pa, then moved with his in-laws to Franklin in Warren County . He served in the Rev War, at Battle of Brandywine, Paoli (captured), and Whiskey Rebellion. My mother, Mary Ross Apgar visited the Warren County Courthouse and examined their records in person. It was from there that she discovered Alexander Ross (1755-1809) and his wife, Nancy Ann Ross, were buried in Dicks Creek Cemetery. There is no gravestone, as it may have been destroyed or removed over the years. We also have references from the Kidner family (an in law from one of Alexander's children) that he was buried there." The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to for sake their neutrality

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. George seems always to have been most closely associated with his older brother, John. John was his Captain during the Revolutionary War. When the Roush brothers took a large tract of land in Mason County, Ohio, George came first with his brother, Captain John, in whose name the purchase was made. He must have preceded his family on his first trip to the Ohio Valley as records show him to have come here in 1798, and birth and baptismal records show that his son Jacob was born and baptized in Shenandoah County, 1799. In 1807 he moved to Sutton Township, Meigs County, Ohio, where he purchased a tract of land from Edward W Tupper. It was that level tract that is now just west of the little town of Dorcas near Racine, known as the DeWolf farm. On this tract of land he lived until his death. RUPERT, ADAM, (Columbiana County)

[40.87140 -80.57330]

Born on May 8, 1758 in Cumberland, York Co., Pennsylvania. He served as a Pvt with PA in the Revolutionary War, Capt Philip Albright's Company, Col Miles' Rifle Regiment, PA. He married Margaret Gotzen (1754-1841) in 1782; children: Catherine, Jacob, Elizabeth, Benjamin, Mary & Adam. He Died on April 22, 1840 and Buried at Unity Brick Church Cemetery, Plot Old Section, 1993 Waterford Road, East Palestine, Columbiana Co., OH 44413. Adam Rupert as told, came to Columbiana Ohio with three other brothers, Martin, John, and Michael. They were born in Pensylvania, possibly York County. He built log cabin shown presently located on Metz Road. 1870 Map Unity Range 1 Twp 8 Section 17 shows Rupert property owned by Rebecca Snook Rupert (widow of son Jacob) and J. Rupert (son) possibly living in log home on 33 1/2 acres. Some notes from Don Rupert (1913-2009): Recent newspaper clipping in Columbiana paper about Ruperts, Rummells and Woods states they all helped pioneer Columbiana County. The article mentions that Adam Rupert came to America with his three older brothers in 1764. He served in the Revolutionary war and moved to Unity Township in 1800 at the age of 44. Revolutionary War Pension and Bounty Land Warrant Application file # S4800. NSDAR #885058. The article states Rupert was the first to go to the office in Steubenville for land in Unity Township. He bought two iron stoves which heated the home he built, a two story log cabin with a loft, entireley. There was no fireplace in the home that still stands on Metz Road. He married Elizabeth Goetz. Rupert is buried behind the Unity Brick Church, where his decendents erected a monument to him in the 1920's. According to church records, the first meeting of that church were actually held in Rupert's home in 1802. Rupert and his son Jacob, were both important in the church's history. See more information from article under Son Jacob and son Benjamin.

Adam Rupert bought sec 17 in Unity twp in 1800. He built his house and barn on ground adjacent to and elevated above a flood plain which has become a swamp since Beaver Lake was built in the 1981-20 period. Very likely it was not forested when Adam bought and was a great benefit to him as a source of good pasture and hay for his livestock. Three springs watered the area. From this flood plain water flows north in to the Mahoning River drainage system and south into the Little Beaver Run system. Soil types in area include much Wooster soil which is considered the best in the area. Wooster soil was heavily forested with massive big oak, poplar , ash and chestnut, some hickory, walnut and on thinner soils beech and sugar maple. Adam was one of the founding fathers of the Reformed church known variously as the Forney Church. (Henry Forney supplied the land. The Reformed Church, Salem Church, Unity Brick Church and perhaps more. It was located a little over 1 mile east of Adams home on sec. 10 of Unity twp. The original log church was replaced with a substantial brick church in 1828-29 and that one in 1875 which, with additions still stands.. Both a Luthern and a Reformed congregation share the church unit about 1840. End DR notes. GM by stone. Roster of Revolutionary War soldiers buried in Ohio. Wilbur R. Branthoover, compiler. RUSSELL, JACOB, (Cuyahoga County) [41.4827766 -81.5628128]

Born in 1746 in Kingston, Ulster county, NY. He served as a Pvt, 8th Co Continental Regt, Connecticut. He married Ester Dunham; children: Elijah, Ester, Jerusha, Return, Elisha, Samuel, Content, Roxanna, Obedience, Rodney & Ralph. He Died on August 29, 1821 and Buried at Shaker Heights Cemetery moved to the Warrensville West Cemetery, Lee Road, Shaker Heights, Cuyahoga Co., OH. Also known as South Park Cemetery. GM Western Reserve Chap.

On the north side of South Park Boulevard, just east of Lee Road, there is a solitary grave the final resting place of an American Revolutionary War soldier Jacob Russell. Next to the grave is a large stone with a bronze plaque commemorating Russell's life. The plaque, placed there in 1926 by the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), is the oldest historic marker in Shaker Heights, Ohio.

Jacob Russell was born in Connecticut in 1746. In May 1775, just weeks after the battles of Lexington and Concord, twenty-nine year old Jacob, who was married and had two young children at the time, enlisted in the 8th Company of the Connecticut Continentals. He served in this unit for five months and was discharged in October 1775. Little else is known of his Revolutionary War military service.

But the story of Jacob Russell did not end when his military service came to an end. Sometime around 1800, Jacob, his wife Esther, and their by then ten children moved west from Windsor, Connecticut to Jefferson County, New York, located on the eastern shores of Lake Ontario. A little over a decade later, the family moved west again, settling in northeast Ohio in 1813. It was a dangerous trek in that year, as the United States was at war with Great Britain, and northeast Ohio was in the middle of the war's western front.

The Russell family survived the War of 1812, and were among the earliest permanent settlers of Warrensville Township. Among their neighbors was Daniel Warren for whom the township was later named. The 1820 federal census found the Russell family living in Warrensville Township, constituting 26 of the 133 persons counted in the census--almost 20 percent of the township population.

In 1821, at age 75, Jacob Russell died. It was said that his son Ralph was so distraught over the death of his father that he turned to religion for solace and became a member of the United Society of Believers in Christ's Second Appearance, better known as the Shakers. Following his conversion, Ralph Russell founded the Shaker North Union Colony on Russell family farmlands in what is now the City of Shaker Heights.

The youngest son of Jacob Russell was Rodney, who was born in Windsor, Connecticut, May 15, 1796. In 1870 he was the only surviving male member of the Russell family at North Union. He was a single man, and owned a farm a little distance south from the settlement, which he exchanged for land lying north and adjoining land owned by the community. He entered the society with his four brothers and consecrated his property, his time and talents and all he possessed to build up and support his religious faith. To that cause he devoted a long and useful life and blessed many an orphan and poor widow, who had been brought into the community and permitted to partake of the fruits of his labor. By occupation he was a farmer and shoemaker. He died at North Union, September 3, 1880, aged 84 years, 3 months and 7 days. He is buried here according to "Shakers of Ohio: Fugitive Papers Concerning The Shakers of Ohio, With Unpublished Manuscripts," Written by J. P. MacLean, Ph.D. Published by the F. J. He dropped his last name because of his age. The traditional explanation of the dropping of his surname when he enlisted is that he hoped by so doing to prevent his uncle discovering his whereabouts and securing his discharge on account of his being under the prescribed age, the inference being that his uncle was a Tory.

SEBRING, FULKARD, (Delaware County) [40.1508963 -82.8662893]

Born in 1745 in New Brunswick, NJ to parents Johannes (John) Seabring (1702-73) and Petronella Auten. Served as a Pvt in Bucks County, PA Militia, under Capt Paul Kester and paid the Supply Tax.. He married Sophia Leesman (1745-1780) in 1768; children: Obadiah b. 1773, John b. 1769, Francis b. 1787 and Josiah b. 1792. Fulkard Sebring and his descendants lived, generation after generation, along the banks of Big Walnut Creek (also called the Gehenna or Big Belly) near the boundary line between Delaware and Franklin Counties, on land that is now under water. In the 1950's Hoover Dam was constructed astride the Big Walnut to form Hoover Reservoir, the water supply for Columbus. Not only did pioneers need the water; they were absolutely dependent upon the vegetation and game it sustained. Fishing and hunting was more than recreation to the pioneers, it was necessary for survival. The creek provided water power for sawmills and gristmills. The stream received its name from the fact its banks and bottoms were covered with a dense growth of black walnut trees, which have long since disappeared .... Thousands of rails have been split, and dugout canoes were made from logs. The doors, floors, and often even walls of the cabins were made from this wood. In the early settlement, the waters were alive with fish and game of every description was found in the dense forest that lined its banks. He died 1822 in Genoa Township, Delaware County, and was buried in an unmarked grave in Red Bank Cemetery. Nearly every grave in the cemetery traces their lineage to Fulkard. Years later, his remains were accidentally uncovered while a grave was being dug for his grandson, George Washington Sebring who lived 1819 to 1908. Fulkard's remains were attired in his soldier's uniform. The grave was later marked by the Delaware County Chapter D.A.R.

DAR placed a bronze plaque in the 1976 Bi-Centennial with 35 names of Revolutionary War Patriots at Spring Grove Cemetery. In 2014 Cincinnati SAR added two outer plaques that have 25 names of Patriots mostly from the Cemeteries (Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopal and German Protestant churches) on the place of what is now Washington Park in downtown Cincinnati, OH. The City of Cincinnati would not allow SAR to place a memorial to the 31 Rev. War Patriots missing from these cemeteries in what is now the Park, so we enhanced the forgotten DAR monument in Spring Grove Cemetery into a Revolutionary War Memorial with additional names in Memoriam, this includes William Todd. command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

(1883): From the best sources of information we have been able to obtain, it appears that the first pioneer of Paint Township was Andrew Sifrit, who was born near Winchester, Va., in 1750. When but a young man, at the first call for troops in the commencement of the war of the Revolution, he enlisted as a private soldier, and served for eight long years. For these services he subsequently obtained a warrant for 200 acres of land. He was married to Susan Shrock by whom he had nine children. Mrs. Sifrit died and he married for his second wife Miss Hannah Morrills, a native of Virginia, by whom he had twelve children. Thus he was the father of twenty-one children. In 1803, he, with his family, emigrated to Ross County, Ohio, where they remained one year, and in 1804 came to Madison County, settling in Paint Township, on land now owned by John Paulin on what is called Sifrit Run. SIMMONS, PETER (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Birth site and Date is unknown He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

SKINNER, ABRAHAM, (Lake County)

[41.7289009 -81.2335968]

Born on October 18, 1755, Glastonbury, Connecticut to Parents: Abraham Skinner and Phoebe Strong. He served from Windsor, Conn, for the relief of Boston in the Lexington Alarm, and was in the 4th Regt, Conn Line. He Married Mary Ayres (1766-1812) in 1788; children: Mary, Paulina, Roderick and Augustus. He Died on January 14, 1826 and was originally Buried in the Old Washington Street Cemetery in Painesville; his remains and headstone were later moved to Evergreen Cemetery, Painesville, Lake Co., OH. From: "A Record Of The Revolutionary Soldiers Buried In Lake County, Ohio" (Published by the DAR, 1902): Capt. Abraham Skinner, descended, as family tradition relates, from an old English family, was born in Glastonbury, Conn., in the year 1755. About the time of the accession of Charles the Second to the British throne, the family emigrated to America, feeling, in consequence of their having espoused the cause of Cromwell, and held office under him, that a more congenial home might be found in this country. In the possession of this branch of the family, at the beginning of the past century, was a sword, which had been used by an ancestor in his service as an officer under Cromwell. This same sword again did valiant service at the time of the Salem Witchcraft Craze, for the descendants of this branch of the Skinners boast, that it was one of their ancestors, who dared to lead a squad of determined men to rescue from the gallows a poor woman, condemned to death as a witch. Of the early life of Abraham Skinner, we know but little. In the War of the Revolution, his military record shows that he served from the town of East Windsor, among the men who marched from the Connecticut towns, for the relief of Boston in the Lexington Alarm of April 1775, in Capt. Amasa Loomis' Company. Again, enlisted April 24, 1778, in Capt. Harrison's company, served eight months, and was Commissary of Prisoners, in the Fourth Regiment, Connecticut Line, Col. John Durke, commanding. He came to Painesville with Edward Paine in 1798 and settled at "Skinner's Landing." Capt. Skinner returned to Conn., remaining in East Hartford until 1803, when he again visited his Ohio lands in company with the family of Col. Paine. They brought with them horses and cattle. farming implements and young fruit trees. They contracted for the clearing of lands, and built log cabins to shelter the Paine family, and one to be ready for the Skinner family when they would come. It is said of him, that being a man of large means, and his farm always well stocked, he was thus enabled to be a source of some help to the poorer settlers, that "polite to every body and generous to the needy and suffering everywhere, Capt. Skinner occupied a prominent place among the people of his day." He was bur with Masonic honors. Fur infor New Connecticut Chap. SAR Ancestor # P-290732. Has an obelisk tombstone.

In 1987, the Springdale Presbyterian Church transferred the ownership of the property to the City of Springdale. The cemetery had fallen into disrepair and neglect, since the church did not have the funds to properly maintain it.
