He served in the west under Arthur St. Clair and Anthony Wayne. He was stationed for a time at Fort Washington, near Cincinnati, and he served with Wayne in the campaigns of 1794-1795, which resulted in the Treaty of Greenville. EMERICK, MICHAEL ((Montgomery County) [39.61126 -84.36607]

Born February 10, 1756 in Bethel Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania. He was baptised on March 20, 1756 by Reverend Decker, Reformed Minister. Sponsors were John Jacob Emrich and his wife Anna Maria. He Served in the Revolutionary War in Captain Shepler's Company 1770-1780. Accounts of Lt. Captain Folmer's Company, Berks County, Pennsylvania, shows him listed at Lieutenant 8th Class. He Married Christina Kantner (1755-1838) on September 22, 1778 (daughter of Jacob Kanter of Tulpehocken Township) in Christ Lutheran Church in Stouchsburg, Pennsylvania. Children: Susanna b. 1781, Henry Abraham & John William b. 1799. He was received into the Lutheran faith May 16, 1761. Reverend J. P. Hentz in his book "History of the Evangelical Lutheran Congregation in Germantown, Ohio" wrote as follows; "Michael, the oldest (speaking of the four Emrick brothers), born in Berks County, Pennsylvania, February 10, 1756, came here in 1806, and purchased the land on which at present stands Conover's Mill, on which he lived until removed by death, which event took place October 14, 1820. He was a man of means and purchased at once land for those of his children who were grown up to years of maturity. Himself a strict and consistent member of the Lutheran Church, he brought up all his children in his own faith. Two of these, Mrs. John Stump and Mrs. John Stoever are still living - the others have gone to their final rest. He frequently held official positions in the congregation, and contributed largely to its support. Reverend Hentz also gives a thumbnail sketch of the Emrick brothers in his book "Twin Valley and its Settlement and Subsequent History". Michael Emrick – died on October 14, 1820. He and his wife Christina are buried in the Sunbury Cemetery, Sunbury, German Township, Montgomery County, OH.

At the time of writing this Emrick genealogy, the Sunbury Cemetery is in a deplorable condition. A number of years ago, pigs owned by the tenants of the adjoining old schoolhouse that was converted into a home, played havoc with the grounds, up-rooting many of the tombstones. Michael's marker was one of them. Reference: Pennsylvania Archives, Third Series, Volume 6, page 320. EVINS, CHARLES (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Birth site and Date is unknown He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

FISHBACK, PHILIP (Clermont County) [39.0675 -84.1710]

He was born in 1752 in Alsace, France. He came to America with the French soldiers under Lafayette, under whom he fought in the Revolution of 1776. His wife was a German woman ____; children: George, Philip and Jacob. He was a Frenchman but spoke both German and French, though his children were taught in the latter language only. At the close of that patriotic struggle he returned home and married his wife in the adjoining province of Loraine. He again entered the French service under Napoleon with whom he crossed the Alps, and under whom he fought for seven long years, for which he received a medal and an honorable discharge in addition to his meagre monthly stipend. He came to this country in the early part of the century and settled in Pierce township, where his children were born. They were George Fishback, the well known farmer near Olive Branch; Philip, residing at Cherry Grove, Hamilton county, and Jacob, who years ago went to the Pike's Peak country, besides two daughters, one of whom never married but the other married Mr. Gosnecht, whose two children live near Cincinnati. He having died, she again married a man at Seymour, Indiana. This old Napoleonic and Revolutionary veteran lived between the old Samie Wood's farm and Withamsville, where he died about 1850, nearly one hundred years old. The barrel of his old gun, which he carried in the campaigns of Napoleon in Germany and Italy, is in the possession of his son, George, in Batavia township, while the son, Philip, at Cherry Grove, has a paper discharge in French signed by the great Napoleon, testifying to Fishback's brave soldierly qualities, and recounting the many battles in which he participated, Ref. Militia and with Capt Jabez Gregory's Company 1777. Given land grant on Western Reserve. He Married Ann Cooke (1740-1814); Children: Jedidia, ,Halmon Hannah, William, Daniel, Grant Z & David. Mahoning Dispatch, Fri, 2 July 1897, Article No. 24, by Dr. Jackson Truesdale Excerpt from biographical sketch of Cook Fitch: "Editor Dispatch:-The Fitch family is one of interest not only to the people of Canfield, but of Ellsworth, Boardman, Warren and other towns who were favored by the early settlement among them by members of this notable family. The Fitches trace their origin in America back to 1638 when the brothers Thomas and James arrived from England. From the first the family occupied an enviable position among the distinguished families of the colony of Connecticut. James, one of the emigrating brothers, was a learned and prominent clergyman and one of the original proprietors of the town or city of Norwalk, Conn. Cook and Zalmon Fitch, whom we propose to notice more especially, were sons of Haynes Fitch, whose uncle, Thomas Fitch, was for ten years governor of the colony of Connecticut, and while such, drew up the present existing charter of Yale College. The above-named Haynes Fitch, after a series of financial embarrassments, and when well advanced in years, emigrated to Boardman in 1804, his sons Jedediah, Daniel and David coming with him. His sons Cook and Zalmon had preceded him, settling in Canfield. Jedediah, after leaving Boardman, removed to Youngstown, thence to Vienna, and finally to Warren, where he was justice of the peace for 25 years. His last re-election took place when he was 83 years old. In 1832 he was elected a representative to the Ohio legislature. Daniel Fitch settled in Ellsworth, and, if Zalmon Fitch is correct, was the first settler in that township. David, the remaining brother, who came with his father, retained the home farm after the death of his parents. His state-colored residence in Boardman, west of the center, was a conspicuous landmark as long ago as I can remember. He Died on August 11, 1815 and Buried at Canfield Village Cemetery, Section B-Row 2, Canfield, OH 44406. His Name is among 35 listed on a plaque "Veterans Interred in Canfield City and Township Cemeteries, Mahoning County, Ohio". Came fr Conn to Canfield, OH in 1802. Va. James, the ancestor of the early family of Highland Co., was a spy during the days before the Revolution. In October, 1774, he was among the 800 men commanded by Col. Andrew Lewis of Point Pleasant, the company to which Fitzpatrick was assigned was in charge of Charles Lewis, brother of the colonel.

James Fitzpatrick married and settled down in a log cabin on Indian Creek. He and his wife, Mary Creed Fitzpatrick, were the parents of three stalwart sons and six daughters, who were very healthy specimens of early pioneers. The family cleared land and acquired quite a lot of worldly goods. When the parents were in their sixties, their children grown to adulthood, decided to move to Ross Co. They settled the large estate, selling their land and those possessions which they would be unable to take across the mountains. The family were devout Methodists and supporters of the church near their home. Their many friends, neighbors and relatives hated to see them leave their midst. 56th-77th Annual Reports DAR. The battalion was assigned to General George Washington's main army on November 23, 1776, ordered to join the main army in Philadelphia on December 4, 1776, and was renamed the 8th Pennsylvania Regiment on January 1, 1777. Thomas Forshey was part of the winter march beginning on January 6, 1777 from western Pennsylvania to an encampment at Quibbletown, New Jersey (now New Market near Piscataway). This was a difficult march of over 300 miles with pack horses in mid-winter without tents and proper uniforms. Many deserted and many were forced to hunt for food. About one third were sick and 50 men died during the march including the top two commanders. During part of the March they were in the vicinity of Philadelphia. Ft. Laurens' Unknown Soldier (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

[Revolutionary War Patriots Buried in Ohio] Up to October 25, 2024

Although we don't know the names of five of the soldiers buried at the grounds of Fort Laurens they were more likely young men of the 13th Virginia but the 8th Pennsylvania Regiment is also possible both units were stationed here at the post when the attack at Ft. Laurens came by Indians under the direction of British forces who had been at war with the colonists for more than three years and determined to prohibit their movement westward from the Appalachians

Fort Laurens was built as a strategic location for staging an attack on the British at Fort Detroit during the American Revolution. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778. The fort was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause. However, the conditions at the fort were harsh during the winter, and McIntosh removed most of the American forces to Fort Pitt, leaving only about 150 men (from the 8th Pennsylvania Regiment and 13th Virginia Regiment) under the command of Colonel John Gibson. Fort Laurens was the only fort built in the Ohio Country during the Revolutionary War.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779 and 4 are unknown. Years later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible. On August 2, 1779, Lt. Colonel Richard Campbell and his command of 73 men marched out of Fort Laurens—neither dismantling nor burning the fortifications. With this departure, the only fort built by The Continental Congress in what is today the State of Ohio began its physical decline.

References for the four unknown soldiers is not possible, but their records should be very similar to the other 17 we do know; For Example: [Muster Rolls, National Archives, Record Group 93, Washington, D.C. R.M, Gramly, Fort Laurens 1778-9, Pictorial Record of Excavations, Buffalo, N.Y. Hamilton J. Eckenrode, Compiler, Virginia Soldiers of the American Revolution, Volume 2]. The 5 unknown soldiers are denoted on the Bronze plaque in the memorial museum and included with the other 17 on the Marble Memorial Stone Monument. Fort Laurens Cemetery, 11067 Ft. Laurens Road, Bolivar, OH 44612. Another Granite stone with a SAR emblem has a summary of the massacre. SAR Ancestor # P-335815.

That he volunteered as a private soldier into the service of the United States in the commencement of the revolutionary war, under the command of Captain Jones; That he lived at that time in Lancaster County and State of Pennsylvania; That from old age and loss of memory, he is not able to state the year in which he volunteered as aforesaid, but recollects well that it was during the time in which, from general report, Gen. Howe was threatening the City of New York; That he marched under the command of Capt. Jones aforesaid, and Col. Peter Grubb to Philadelphia, where he remained under those officers nearly two months, for which time he had volunteered; That he thinks for the above service he received no discharge, nor does he now recollect whether that service was full two months or a shorter period; That sometime after harvest when under those officers near Philadelphia a call was made for volunteers to form a flying camp, and that on that occasion he volunteered for four months, among troops which were then called the "flying camp"; That his company was then commanded by Capt. Henry Hausbright, his regiment by Col. John Klotts and that Gen. Magaw was their Superior Officer; That he was at the Battle before Fort Washington under Gen. Magaw, when said fort was taken by the British, and was among those who made their escape from the Island in boats, at the time the battle and the fort were lost, and where he thinks, Gen. Magaw was taken prisoner; That Gen. Hughes was afterwards their commanding officer, under whom said Col. Klott and Lieutenant Witman he served, retreating from Fort Lee, until they crossed the Delaware River at Trenton; That he was at the battle of Trenton on Christmas Day, where the American Troops defeated the British, and took, as he recollect, 935 Hessian prisoners, besides their wounded; That he remained under said officers at Trenton, as he thinks, until New Years day after said Battle, when the last mentioned four months for which he had volunteered terminated and he was honorably discharged; That at that time he received a written discharge signed by Lieutenant William Witman; That he did not consider that said discharge could or would ever be of any service to him, and that he carried it in his jacket pocket until it was worn to pieces and lost; That then he returned to his house in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

That the following fall, about seeding time, when news came to Lancaster County, his place of residence, that Gen. Howe was approaching the City of Philadelphia with his Army, he (deponent] was drafted as a Militia man, to serve a tour of two months; That he joined a Regiment at Lancaster under the command of Col. Lord, but whose given name he does not recollect; That the name of his Captain was George Fetter and that they marched from Lancaster to the army of Gen. Washington, whom they joined a few days after the Battle of Brandywine; That the Regiment in which he served was placed under the command of Gen. Hile, and stationed on Barren Hill, after they has crossed the Schuylkill River, as deponent thinks, about two or three miles from Philadelphia; That during the remainder of the time of service, he remained at Barren Hill under said officers, and was in a small skirmish with a detachment of British Troops, who wanted to take some fire wood from the neighborhood of the American encampment; That at the termination of the said two months (during which he had served in the capacity of first Sergeant in his company) he was again discharged. He received at the time a written discharge signed by Capt. George Fetter which was lost in the same manner in which he has related that his first discharge was lost. and that he again returned to his residence in Lancaster County, aforesaid. That about one year afterwards, as he thinks between harvest and seeding time, he was again drafted as a private Militia man, to serve a tour of two months; That his commanding officer was Col. Hover and his Captains name was Barney Gardner; That he marched from Lancaster County under those officers to Sunbury and then to the frontier, which they guarded against the Indians about the neighborhood of Shamokin, and that during the said term of two months he was in no battle nor skirmish; That he was discharged on the frontier and had a written discharge signed by Captain Gardner, which was lost by him in the same manner his other two before mentioned discharges were lost. He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or an annuity except the present, and he declares, that his name is not on the pension role of any agency in any state. However, he was issued Pension Ref. S8521 subsequent to an application Dated August 4, 1834. He Died in 1836, in Tuscarawas County and buried at an unknown cemetery. GAYLORD, JUSTUS, (Delaware County) [40.195 -82.894]

Born in 1732. Served through Revolutionary War from Litchfield, Conn. He married Elizabeth; children : Samuel, Joseph, Walter, John & Nicholas. Justus Gaylord from Norwich, commenced a settlement in Springfield, on the Wyalusing, before Indian hostilities began, but was obliged to removed down the river, to the more densely populated country. When the independent companies were raised, two of his sons, Justus and Ambrose, enlisted in that of Capt. Ransom, and served during the war. On return of peace, the old gentleman and his son, Justus, resumed their possession of Wyalusing. While Ambrose established himself at Braintrim. He married Eleanor Comstock, from Norwich, West Farms. (History of Wyoming, by Miner, Appendix XLVI). "Justus, as we have seen, was one of those who petitioned the same time as his father, 12 May 1757, for town privileges at Norfolk, CT. His name also appears in a deed drawn in 1766. In the old history of Norfolk we read: 'A.D. 1768, Miles Riggs came to Norfolk, and Justus Gaylord lived at the old house near or on the ground where Mr. Atkins lives; house now standing;' 'Miles Riggs thinks he had been told that Samuel Gaylord, the father of Justus Gaylord, had lived in a house a little west of the highway near the grist mill bridge. Thinks the Watsons bought said Justus Gaylord's property.' Justus Gaylord was one of the earliest settlers in the Wyoming Valley, PA. He was in the company captured by Plunkett in his raid upon Wyoming in 1775, and lodged in the Sunbury jail. Soon after his release he is believed to have come to Wyalusing, living for a short time on the flats below the present village, near where the railroad crosses the line between the old Welles and Stalford estates, although the reference could pertain to his son, Justus Jr. Returning to Wyoming after the revolution, they remained in the lower valley until their house and effects were swept away in the great ice flood of 1784. The family narrowly escaping with their lives. Soon after this disaster they moved up to Wyalusing. Justus Sr. owned 1200 acres of land in the old Connecticut town of Springfield, now Wyalusing. 300 of which were on the west side of the river in Frenchtown or Lower Asylum, where Richard Gilbert afterwards lived. The deed for the purchase of this latter acreage is recorded at Wilkes-Barre. Daniel Shaw of the State of Pennsylvania, for a consideration of 20 (pounds), received from Justus Gaylord of said county, conveys lot 14, surveyed by John Jenkins, in Shawsborough twp.; lot begins at the lower end of a place called by the name of Shuefelts Flatt on the Susquehanna river, 100 rods wide, and running back so far as to contain 300 acres; dated 24 February 1790. Lots 20 and 21 in Springfield (now Hemets Ferry) had been purchased by Perrin Ross of Plymouth, and sold to Justus Gaylord 28 May 1777, on which it is likely his sons lived previous to the battle of Wyoming. As their names are on the Springfield list, the accuracy of which is testified to by Justus Jr., the deed dated 28 May 1777, as already noted, says Perin Ross, Lt., of Plymouth District, in the town and county of Westmoreland, and state of Connecticut, for a consideration of 200 (pounds), paid by Justus Gaylord of the same place, conveys land in Springfield, being Lott 20 and 21 bounded on north by line of said town, west by Susquehanna, same was surveyed and laid out by Samuel Gordon, together with 1/2 right in Susquehanna Purchase, granted by Zebulon Butler, Esq., (one of the committee appointed to dispose of rights in said purchase) to John Thompson of Juniatta, and conveyed by said Thompson to Thomas Wigton, and from said Wigton to Phineas Pearce, and from Pearce to Perin Ross, as per record. GIBSON, WILLIAM (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Birth site and Date is unknown He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above

Many veterans buried in family cemeteries, neighborhood plots or small church burial grounds which are now extinct and or built over during the disappearance of rural areas and the increase of urban communities in Cincinnati Township and/or Hamilton County during the late 19th century or 20th century are now lost to our knowledge. Their families having re-located, their descendants now not knowing their homes, deeds, and/or burial locations lead to their obscurity. Many veterans buried in family cemeteries, neighborhood plots or small church burial grounds which are now extinct and or built over during the disappearance of rural areas and the increase of urban communities in Hamilton County during the late 19th century or 20th century are now lost to our knowledge. Their families having re-located, their descendants now not knowing their homes, deeds, and/or burial locations lead to their obscurity. SAR Ancestor # P-333910. Gravesite unknown.

Birth unknown. He served as a Private under Capt. Beams (or perhaps name was Beams) Dec 23, 1776, 7th Regt. Found on muster roll. In the story of the Ohio Valley Frontier during the late 1700's many pioneer settlements were established with the assistance and security provided by veterans of the Revolutionary War, who knew of the protection offered by stockades, forts and stations built to provide safety from the attacks of the indigenous tribes. This protection was most certainly needed prior to the Treaty of Greenville in August, 1795.

Here is another of these individuals whose military experience enabled the security for the survival of our ancestors living in the Miami Purchase Country.

Many veterans buried in family cemeteries, neighborhood plots or small church burial grounds which are now extinct and or built over during the disappearance of rural areas and the increase of urban communities in Hamilton County during the late 19th century or 20th century are now lost to our knowledge. Their families having re-located, their descendants now not knowing their homes, deeds, and/or burial locations lead to their obscurity. SAR Ancestor # P-173783

He died in 1782, killed on the Sandusky Expedition and buried at Sandusky Battlefield Cemetery, Upper Sandusky, Wyandot County, OH. The battle of sandusky was fought in and around the grove known as "Battle Island, " in what is now Crane Township, Wyandot county, three miles north, and half a mile east, of the courthouse in Upper sandusly. This spot has balways been readily identified, by reason of the scars upon the trunks of the trees, made by the hachets of the Indians in getting out the bullets after the action. But the "Island" may now said to have disappeared. Cultivated fields mark the spot where the contest took place. Occasionally an interesting relic is turned up by the plowshare, to be preserved by the curious as a memento of the battle. Grave Registry form. Born in 1725. He served with Pennsylvania as a Captain in the Revolutionary War, formed a Cavalry unit at his own expense. He married ? In the story of the Ohio Valley Frontier during the late 1700's many pioneer settlements were established with the assistance and security provided by veterans of the Revolutionary War, who knew of the protection offered by stockades, forts and stations built to provide safety from the attacks of the indigenous tribes. This protection was most certainly needed prior to the Treaty of Greenville in August, 1795.

Here is another of these individuals whose military experience enabled the security for the survival of our ancestors living in the Miami Purchase Country.

HAYS, TIMOTHY (Tuscarawas County) [40.639586 -81.455061]

Birth site and Date is unknown He served as a Private in the 13th Virginia Regiment in Colonel Campbell's Company commanded by Colonel John Gibson for at least October to February 1779 in OH. He died on February 23, 1779 with a group who were ambushed while gathering firewood at Fort Laurens and killed by Indians under the command of the British. The Americans completed the construction of Fort Laurens—named after Henry Laurens, president of the Continental Congress—in early December 1778 under the command of General Lachlan McIntosh. The fort, built on the west bank of the Tuscarawas River was to serve three purposes. First, the Americans hoped to use Fort Laurens as a base to attack the British garrison located at Detroit. Second, it would hopefully deter American Indians loyal to the British from conducting raids against American settlers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. And finally, by offering protection to the neutral Christian Delaware's, the Americans might convince them to forsake their neutrality and join the patriots' cause.

In total, 21 soldiers lost their lives at Fort Laurens after a handful of British soldiers and a couple hundred Wyandot, Mingo, Munsee, and Delaware warriors laid siege to the fort before it was abandoned in 1779. Later, part of the fort was demolished during the building of the Ohio and Erie Canal. Currently none of the original fort remains above ground, but the outline of the fort is visible.

HILL, GEORGE, (Fairfield County) [39.846746 -82.47127]

Born in 1758 and was living in Cecil County, Maryland when at age 20, on April 20, 1778 he enlisted as a private in the Second Troop of Horse in the newly created Second Partisan Corps of the Continental Army, also called Lee's Partisan Corps, or more famously, Lee's Legion. His enlistment was for the duration of the war and he would serve over five years. His commanding officer, Major (later Lt. Colonel) Henry Lee, was the legendary "Light Horse Harry" Lee, known for his daring against the enemy and

George Washington's favorite cavalry officer. Light Horse Harry's Legion would garner fame for its aggressive tactics combining cavalry and infantry, and for its prowess in battle and raiding from New York to Georgia, particularly in the southern campaign of 1781 against Lord Cornwallis. According to army pay records and muster rolls, George Hill served as a farrier for Second Troop during his first year, but by the summer of 1780 he was serving as a light dragoon. He was promoted to corporal in May, 1783 and was detached from active service on June 19, 1783. He was present for a final muster in July, 1784. In muster rolls and in his promotion to corporal, George Hill's name often appears next to another dragoon named John Manly, also from Cecil County, Maryland. Their names would appear together in many instances during and after the war. Both were awarded land bounties of 50 acres each from the state of Maryland for their services in the Revolution, and also land bounties of 100 acres each in the Military Land District of the Northwest Territory soon to become the state of Ohio. On May 23, 1789 George Hill married John's sister, Elizabeth Manly, and they settled in Cecil County. They had two sons, William and Jonathan. The Hill and Manly families would travel to Ohio in 1804 and settle on 320 acres in the Congressional Land District administered by the Chillicothe Land Office. They would be among the first settlers of Walnut Township in Fairfield County according to a letter written in 1877 by Joseph G. Wiseman, an early resident of New Salem. Both George Hill and John Manly are acknowledged in the letter as veterans of the Revolution and Lee's Legion of Horse. On February 27, 1814 George Hill died at the age of 56. Before he passed, George acquired his friend's debt, and it appears in the listing of debts on George Hill's estate in Fairfield County Probate Court records: "From John Manly (estate of) in note $197.28." Friends unto death, in war and peace. Buried at New Salem Methodist Protestant Cemetery, Pleasantville, Fairfield County, OH. He has an upright tombstone. HOAK, HENRY (Erie County)

Born on May 22, 1745 in Germany. Served as a Corporal with PA in the Revolutionary War. He married ____ ; children: John & Elizabeth b. 1773. After the war he settled in Strasburg, Lancaster Co, Pennsylvania. However because of lack of work and hardships, the family decided to move west. One of his sons settled in Pittsburgh, PA and Henry and his wife and family settled in Beaver Co, PA. Henry farmed the land for many years. At some point after this, several men of the family and male friends moved to Northwest Ohio at the mouth of the Huron River to procure land and establish homesteads. There they farmed 18 acres of corn. After planting the next year's crops, they went back to PA to collect their families. Henry escorted the women back to Ohio on horseback. They arrived safely in time to build cabins and take in their harvest. The farm remained in the Hoak family until the late 1960s. HODDY (HOBDAY), RICHARD (Ross County) [39.4075 -83.1928]

Born in 1759 in Gloucester County, Virginia. He served as a sergeant in Captain Lipcomb's and Captain Henry Young's Companies in Colonel Alexander McClenachan's 7th Virginia Regiment, he is listed as /HOBDAY) an "Artificer" and "Sgt. of Cav." variously of units of the 7th, 11th and 15th Continental Line (Virginia). He married 1) Mary ___, 2) Jane ___ (1775-__) in Harpers Ferry, Virginia in 1799; children: #1 Robert b. 1783 and #2 Keziah b. 1801. He migrated to the Scioto Valley from Harpers Ferry in 1796 and died in 1830 near Frankfort, Concord Township, Ross County, Ohio. Burial is unknown but a memorial stone commemorating his service has been placed in the Greenlawn Cemetery in Frankfort, Ohio. Richard Hoddy, father of Robert, was a Revolutionary soldier. Chillicothe boasted of but one cabin when Richard Hoddy landed there. Two thousand Indians, from Oldtown, were encamped on the bank of the Scioto, where the upper bridge now spans the river. Richard Hoddy entered five hundred acres of land on Paint creek, four miles below Oldtown, and there erected the first grist mill and saw mill in the valley. He died on his farm in 1830. On the death of his father Captain Hoddy succeeded to the business, and added a distillery to the diversified milling interests, though it is understood that the distillery business was taken up many years before the father's death, since it is mentioned in the "Pioneer Record of Ross County" as the "first distillery in the valley." Captain Robert Hoddy served as adjutant under Col. William Clark during the war of 1812. He was also commander of the post where British prisoners were confined after the war, holding that position until they were released. In civil life, he served as land appraiser, assessor and tax collector of Concord township; and in every phase of his eventful life he deported himself and discharged his varied duties with great honor to himself and satisfaction to his constituency. Captain Hoddy married, Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Putnam, who was also a very early settler of the Paint creek valley, coming from Hampshire county, VA, in 1809. Peter Putnam was a lineal descendant of the same stock which furnished us such men as Gens. Israel and Rufus Putnam. Both the Hoddy and Putnam families have many descendants in Ross county at the present day. In 1796 he moved west in covered wagon and located at Cincinnati, but after prospecting up the Miami Valley in 1797 he moved his family to Silver Creek where he finally (about 1799) located 1440 acres of land, paying for it in military bounty land warrants for his Revolutionary services. He came fr a family of Baptists and was the first person baptized in Silver Creek. Here he built his cabin and reared his family of six children. The creek was renamed "Hole's Creek" and retains the name at this time. His long army service indicates that he was the peer of his contemporaries in the medical profession. Traditions of the neighborhood testify that his pretentious log cabin was long the center of pioneer hospitality and culture. He was the first physician in the locality, and although his practice extended over many miles of territory he found time to build and run two mills south of Dayton. He received his literary and medical training in Germany where he was sent in 1766. Socially he entertained Washington, Jefferson, and the best, socially, in the Revolutionary times in his NJ home. It was at the suggestion of Dr. Hole that this county was named "Montgomery" for Gen Richard Montgomery, who fell mortally wounded at Quebec, while leading his troops on Dec 31, 1775. Militia, in Captain William Scott's Company of 4th Battalion of Washington County, Pennsylvania Militia, was old enough to be a fifer in the Battle of Brandywine in 1777. By family tradition, his life was cut almost in half by a blow from a British officer's saber. Also he was an Indian Scout while living in western Virginia. After his first wife died, William became active as an Indian Scout, and he was in the ill-fated expedition of General Arthur ST CLAIR against the Indians in Western OH. Huff, an Indian fighter of note during the turbulent times, killed an Indian on the headwaters of Short creek, near what is now Georgetown, Harrison county. In relating the incident, he said "he was in the woods and seeing the Indian, he fixed the sight of his gun in range with the Indian's pipe, and the savage immediately fell dead!" This would indicate that White Eyes was not the last Indian killed in Jefferson county. In addition to William, his father Michael, Michael Jr., and two uncles John and Philip Doddridge were in the same militia unit. He married 1) ____; 2) Widow Elizabeth Barnes Enswinger (1774-1866) in 1792 in Gallipolis, OH; Children: Mary, William, Reuben, Jackson (killed by Indians), Johnson and Minerva. When he was 18 years old his parents moved from Bedford County to Independence County, PA and after the War moved to Brooke County (now West Virginia). In 1799, William HUFF was commissioned as a Captain in the First Regiment of Jefferson Co., OH, Militia. ILES (ISLES or OILES), HENRY (Licking County) [40.253642 -82.555606]

Born on December 21, 1749 in England. May have first been a British soldier. Served in the Revolutionary War with the colonies, Taken as a prisoner of war in New York. Through his kindness to the prison guards, he obtained their good will, and they enabled to make his escape on foot. In Rockingham County, Virginia he married Mary M. Stine (1763-1832); children: John b. 1784, Henry b. 1786, Elizabeth b. 1787, Jacob b. 1791, Adam b. 1795, Fredrick b. 1793, David b. 1797, Samuel b. 1799, Sarah b. 1804 & George b. 1803. He was a tailor. He Died on December 21, 1814 at the age of 56 years and Buried at Isles Family Cemetery, Homer, Bennington Twp., Licking Co., OH. Cemetery notes and/or description: Small family cemetery on land formerly part of the family's farm acquired about 1802. It is located entirely in Bennington Township, Licking County, Ohio, near the town of Homer. The stones and their inscriptions were documented for the Licking County Genealogy Society and published in a typewritten, photocopied document which is available in a binder at the Homer Public Library. The single page describes inscriptions from Isles, Spicer, and Mead Cemeteries. This documentation occurred prior to 1976. Some items in the binder refer to previous surveys from the 1930s and before. This item is not dated or otherwise identified. At the time of the survey, the cemetery was surrounded by an iron fence. The cemetery is near County Road 2 between the township line and Bennington Chapel. Plant growth obscures the view from the road and satellite map. Certified by the Licking County Genealogical Society as the member of a "First Family of Licking Co., OH.

Note: Henry's surname is sometimes given an alternate spelling of "Iles" on old records not generated by the family. Later generations, however, sometimes adopted the "Iles" spelling. Although there is no absolute evidence for an alternative history, some students of genealogy of Hessian troops who fought in the Revolution believe Henry could be one Johann Henrich Eyl from Schorbach, Germany. They support this view with records of Eyl's military service in Germany, being among the prisoners taken by Washington's army, and inclusion on a roster as a deserter from Long Island, NY, on Oct. 31, 1782. Further argument is made that one Henry Oill swore an oath of allegiance in Philadelphia on Nov. 5, 1782. In comparison, two of Henry Isle's children opted to spell their surname "Oiles." Persons from this camp speculate that Henry and his family suppressed information of their Hessian heritage to avoid fallout from propaganda which depicted Hessians as violent war criminals. Since this memorial is primarily to record the location of Henry Isles's final resting place, this additional information is included to facilitate the search under either name.

JAMISON, DAVID (Franklin County) [39.979 -83.011]

Born ? He served as a Soldier in the Revolutionary War. He married Sarah ___ ; children: He died ? and buried at Franklinton Cemetery, Franklin County, OH. Established in 1799, Franklinton Cemetery is believed to be the oldest burying ground in Central Ohio. The cemetery was known as being a beautiful graveyard nestled in a locust grove with a board fence throughout the early to mid 1800s. The cemetery also marks the location of the first church in Central Ohio, built in 1811, but the building has been gone for quite some time. Franklinton Cemetery is all but forgotten today. Only a few tombstones remained standing during our visit and they were in pretty bad shape. The entire cemetery was surrounded by a stone wall. Before the wall was built, records indicate vandals would drive their wagons into the cemetery and remove tombstones to be used as doorsteps. A large monument telling the history of the cemetery was later erected at its center. Veterans of the Revolutionary War are buried in the cemetery. Many graves were moved to Greenlawn Cemetery in Columbus. Revolutionary War Graves Register. Clovis H. Brakebill, compiler. 672pp. SAR. 1993. Also SAR Revolutionary War Graves Register CD. KEMPER, JAMES (Hamilton County) [39.171068 -84.521939]

He was Born on November 23, 1753, in Fauquier County, Virginia, and later served as a Private for Virginia in the Revolutionary War. He Married Judith Hathaway July 16, 1772, and they were parents of fifteen children, all of whom lived to adulthood. They were married for more than 62 years. They moved to North Carolina in 1783, then to Mercer County, Kentucky, where he resided several years. About 1791, while living there, he was licensed to "Preach the Gospel." Soon after, he moved to Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Ohio. He was the first Presbyterian minister that was ordained in Cincinnati. In the story of the Ohio Valley Frontier during the late 1700's many pioneer settlements were established with the assistance and security provided by veterans of the Revolutionary War, who knew of the protection offered by stockades, forts and stations built to provide safety from the attacks of the indigenous tribes. This protection was most certainly needed prior to the Treaty of Greenville in August, 1795.

Here is another of these individuals whose military experience enabled the security for the survival of our ancestors living in the Miami Purchase Country.

KIRTLAND, TURHAND, (Mahoning County) [41.01913 -80.60926]

Born on November 16, 1753 or 55 in Wallingford, Connecticut to parents Constant (1727-1792) and Rachael __Kirtland (1732-1812). Served as a Capt Conn State Troops, also in Provisional serv of N.Y. at the time of the defeat of the Amer Army. Was engaged on the boat that convoyed the army form Long Island over to the mainland. He Married Mary Potter (1772-1850); Children: Dr. Jared P, Henry, Billius, George, Mary P, Charles & Nancy. Turhand, of the fifth generation of Kirtlands in this country, was one of the proprietors of the Connecticut Land Company in the purchase of the Western Reserve from the mother state.In the first draft of the Company in 1798, he, with several others, under the name of Caleb Atwater, drew the township of Mecca and part of the township of Auburn, and in company with Messrs. Benjamin Doolittle, Samuel Doolittle, Seth Hart, Win. Law, Andrew Hull, Titus Street, Levi Tomlinson and Daniel Holbrook,under the name of Benjamin Doolittle, he drew the townships of Poland and Burton, and over two thousand acres in Kirtland, as well as many minor amounts in other townships. Three months after this draft, April 1798, he set out with his party of surveyors and settlers upon the arduous journey to the Northwest Territory, where lay these new possessions, and each succeeding summer he returned, until 1803, when his family accompanied him and he settled in Poland.

For many years he acted as agent for the Connecticut Land Company, and, until he retired from active business in 1834, he had charge of the greater part of the lands of those proprietors of the Connecticut Land Company who resided in the East. He took a prominent part in the affairs of the Reserve, establishing Libraries and schools; as early as 1805 he had secured sufficient funds from the settlers to purchase a fine library for Poland, and this library was kept abreast of the times as long as he lived. He was one of the first to urge the necessity of a western college and he contributed most generously both in time and money to that institution which eventually became the Western Reserve College.

Turhand Kirtland was elected State Senator for Trumbull County in 1814; he was Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for several terms, and was Justice of the Peace in Poland for over twenty years. The Diary, relating his early experiences in New Connecticut, ends abruptly in the fall of 1800. Presumably the remaining pages have been lost in the hundred and more years intervening, but enough remains to show the unflagging energy and indomitable perseverance of the man—no complaints, no regrets, no malining, but a steady pushing forward amid the untold trials and privations of those pioneer days. The imprint for good, Judge Kirtland has left upon the character of the Western Reserve, will be felt for many succeeding generations."

Old Springfield Cemetery is one of the oldest graveyards in the county and a great many hours have been devoted to making the record of its stones as accurate as possible. The cemetery was first copied in the fall of 1971 and in 1976. about fifty loose stones piled under the old pines were unearthed and painstakingly chalked and deciphered. By 1982 many of the fallen stones had been erected again, so the cemetery was completely recopied in the correct order; all inscriptions were reread and compared, further efforts were made to decipher all worn and illegible stones; and the many German stones were copied verbatim. He served as Mayor of Philadelphia for four one year terms. Matthew married Ann Bevan (1761-1835) and they had several children, including a son Davis Bevan b. 1786. Lawler who erected a memorial in Spring Grove Cemetery, another son Nicholas is buried there also, and a daughter Sarah who married Ben Harbeson in 1804. REF: Gravestones and markers. [GPS 39.1644218 -84.5214516].

An accounting by the marshal of the admiralty covering the Holker's cruise in August and September, 1779, shows payment of one hundred and seventy-three prize shares. Following the distribution specified by Congress for Continental prizes, these would indicate twenty-five commissioned, warrant, and petty officers, and seventy-five seamen, landsmen, marines and boys. Many veterans buried in family cemeteries, neighborhood plots or small church burial grounds which are now extinct and or built over during the disappearance of rural areas and the increase of urban communities in Hamilton County during the late 19th century or 20th century are now lost to our knowledge. Their families having re-located, their descendants now not knowing their homes, deeds, and/or burial locations lead to their obscurity. SAR Ancestor # P-235370. Gravesite unknown.

LOWMAN (LAUMAN), GEORGE (Clark County) [39.9323 -84.0005]

Born on July 23, 1765 in Berkley County, Virginia to parents George (1722-1800) and Mary (1733-1826) Lowman. George Lowman served as a Private in the 3rd Company of the 1st Battalion of the Cumberland County, Pennsylvania Militia, first commanded by Capt. Noah Abraham of Path Valley and later by Capt. Wm. Berryhill. Fifteen year old George was enrolled in the 7th Class of the 3rd Company. The marriage of George Lowman to Susannah Herman (1772-1849) reportedly occurred in 1792, a date generally substantiated by the 15 Sept. 1793 birth- date of their first child. Susannah is buried in the Heck-Funderburg burying ground in Bethel Twp., Clark Co., Ohio; children: Elizabeth b. 1793, Joseph b. 1794, Mary b. 1796, David b. 1798, John b. 1800, Catherine b. 1802, Susannah b. 1804, Samuel b. 1806, George b. 1809, Abraham b. 1811, Harmon b. 1813, James b. 1815 and Eva b. 1819. Presumably they began their married life in Virginia, then moved to Pennsylvania sometime before the federal census of 1800, which enumerated them in Adams County. Later that year, George inherited a three-quarter interest in his father's farm and became executor of his father's estate. This estate was not settled until about 1805, after which George reportedly moved south into Rockbridge County, Virginia. Within four or five years he moved again. After selling the Pennsylvania farm in 1810, George took his large family, including his mother Mary, to Ohio and settled in Champaign (after 1818 Clark) County, where he and Susannah lived out the rest of their lives. George moved his family and his widowed mother to Ohio in 1810 and became early settlers in Champaign (after 1818 Clark County) settled on a farm of 322 acres in Bethel Township of Clark County, section 23. George Lowman died August 21, 1848 and is buried in the Funderburg Cemetery, New Carlisle, Clark County, Ohio next to his wife and his mother. References: Penn.
